DEEP DISTRUST OF BERLIN

Allies Insist Germany Must Offer Redress For Wrongs Done.

U-BOAT QUESTION IGNORED

Comment on Failure to Mention Cause of America's Entrance Into the War.

EQUAL BLAME IS DENIED

Lansing Emphasizes That No Decision Has Been Reached—Asks Suspension of Judgment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The receipt by this Government of the official text of Pope Benedict's peace note has not changed in any way the situation as it is understood to exist in this and other capitals of the nations engaged in fighting the Prussian autocracy.

Nobody is authorized to represent the views of President Wilson and Secretary Lansing, and nothing has been officially disclosed as to the attitude of the Entente Governments toward the Pope's move, but opinion in Washington official circles and among the diplomatic agents of the Entente is generally to the effect that the proposal of the Pope cannot be accepted in the absence of assurance from Germany of willingness to make redress for the wrongs she has committed and to furnish satisfactory guarantees for the future.

It was only today that the State Department received the official text of the Pope's communication, which had been transmitted by the Papal Secretary of State to King George and handed by the London Foreign Office to the American Ambassador to Great Britain, who cabled it to Washington.

To be Considered Maturely.

Secretary Lansing had said that no consideration of the terms of the note would be given by this Government until the official text had been delivered to him. He emphasized this statement today in denying, with considerable force, a published assertion that he had told three foreign representatives this morning that the Pope's views were unacceptable to the United States.

In making the denial Mr. Lansing said that he had not discussed the Pope's proposal with President Wilson or anybody else, and he repeated that it would be well for the public to suspend judgment and speculation on this new effort to bring the great war to a close. Mr. Lansing added that he had never expressed the views of either the Government or himself on the Pope's communication.

But Mr. Lansing's attitude has not succeeded in suppressing comment in diplomatic and Governmental quarters over the Pope's bid for peace. The subject is too big and important to permit those most concerned to hide their views. What Mr. Lansing has succeeded in doing is to show that the President does not intend to answer the Pope's suggestions without mature consideration.

It is accepted that the Pope would not have made the momentous decision to attempt a peace movement at this time without having given the most careful thought to all the issues involved. With this feeling the President and the Secretary of State are expected to study the Pope's communication and determine the course they think this Government should follow with respect to it.

Will Seek Allies' Views.

In the absence of authoritative information it is asumed that before responding to the Pontiff Secretary Lansing will seek to ascertain the views of the nations that are associated with the United States in the war against Germany. Perhaps he may not engage in direct formal exchanges with the Allies, but it is likely that he will have our envoys in the Entente capitals sound Ministers of Foreign Affairs with the intention of ascertaining the general view of the situation, from the allied point, created by the proposal of the Pope.

The President, of course, will be free to say what he pleases, but it is not believed that he will depart from the general course upon which the allied Governments will decide with reference to the peace move.

Among the Entente diplomats the Pope's note is criticised as having three defects that render his proposal unacceptable to the nations at war with Germany. These were stated to be the proposal that there should be a reciprocal restitution of occupied territory, the suggestion that territorial and political questions, such as Alsace-Lorraine, Trieste, the Trentino, the Balkans, Serbia, Armenia, and Poland, should be settled by negotiation, and the omission from the note of consideration of the German submarine campaign, which was the original cause of the entrance of the United States into the war.

Deny Equal Responsibility.

The allied nations, it is gathered, will never be willing to admit that they had an equal responsibility with Austria and Germany for starting the war. One im-

Assert Pope Has Conveyed German Terms; Text of Note Not Announced in Berlin

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 15, (via The Hague, Aug. 16.)—Although the Papal peace message has not yet been made public in full here, "a political personage" gives the Lokal-Anzeiger the following information regarding it:

"It is not merely incidental that the message is given to the world on the day on which the Catholic Church celebrates the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary. At this time last year the Holy Father declared Mary Queen of Peace, and, in singing a litany, interceded: 'Queen of Peace, pray for us.'

"The Pope is much too clever a diplomat to undertake such a step without first informing himself what reception it would get from the two groups of powers. I think I may say that Benedict XV. knows the German peace conditions, and surely has communicated his knowledge to the enemy group.

"It is absolutely wrong to characterize the Reichstag majority peace resolution as a prelude to the Pope's present action. The allegation that the Centrist Party was inspired by the Pope to play a pioneer part in his peace actions is just as far from the truth. There has grown, nevertheless, an association of events since the Reichstag resolution created a base which is now serving the Holy Father for his action.

"My conviction is that the peace work now furthered by the Holy Father will lead to a happy conclusion. Not a long time hence we shall hear of peace negotiations, and before the year is ended this war will have found its termination, so anxiously desired by the whole world."

The Lokal-Anzeiger adds: "We cannot believe the Pope has any real hope of reaching peace in this manner, but we must wait until we have seen the authentic publication."

The paper admonishes Germany to observe an attitude of cool reserve.

Berlin Press Divided on Proposal

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 16.—The Kreuz-Zeitung of Berlin, a copy of which has been received here, says sympathy with the Pope's wish for peace must disappear when it is seen that he has united himself with such conditions as restorations and no indemnities.

The Berlin Tägliche Rundschau considers that the nature of the peace outlined by the Pope must compel the Central Powers to refuse the offices of the Pontiff. This newspaper says it fears the affair will have an unhappy influence, not only in Austria, but among the Catholics in Germany.

The Kölnische Zeitung asserts that it is not aware of the German Government's attitude, but that it believes logic prescribes that the Government, in conformity with its previous attitude, should follow the path indicated by the Pontiff.

"The German people and Government have the will and courage for peace," says the Kölnische Zeitung. "The Entente people also earnestly desire peace, but the enemy Governments are dominated by the fear of peace, as is proved by their refusal to grant passports to their nationals to attend the Stockholm conference. The Pope's proposal will thus be another test of which side cherishes a sincere desire for peace."

The Cologne Volkszeitung expresses the hope that, despite all obstacles, the road to the reconciliation of the nations may be paved by the Pope's appeal.

BRITONS BITTER OVER POPE'S PLEA

SAY KAISER IS BEHIND IT

Criticism Made That Benedict Has Stood Still Regardless of All That Urged Wilson On.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—While Lloyd George made no direct or specific reference to the Papal peace appeal in his speech in the Commons this afternoon, its tone showed not the slightest indication of any belief that the Vatican's intervention at this stage will bring about peace. The Premier, indeed, when speaking on the tonnage question referred to the requirements of 1918 and 1919 as if possibly war would still be continuing during those years.

It would, of course, be improper to construe Lloyd George's words into meaning that he believes the war will last another two or three years. He was merely making necessary calculations in regard to its prosecution in the event of its continuance for so long, or, in other words, in the event of Germany being still unbeaten or unwilling to make peace on terms that will make the world safe for democracy.

"This is a fight to a finish," declared the Prime Minister, and though, as already mentioned, his speech today cannot be regarded as a direct, specific reply to the Pope's message, the whole House vigorously applauded the phrase as reflecting the unfaltering determination of England to carry on the struggle till the ends, which Asquith later enunciated, unequivocally had been attained.

Say Pope Stands Still.

The complete text of the Papal appeal for peace furnishes no more ground for believing that peace can be made now than did the summaries telegraphed throughout the world yesterday. If anything, the Papal message in its entirety is more of a disappointment than encouragement to those who expected and hoped most from it. I have heard it compared today to President Wilson's peace message of December, 1916, and his league of nations speech, greatly to the disadvantage of the Pontifical essay.

Benedict X has stood still regardless of all that urged President Wilson to move forward. He talks of the substitution of the moral force of right for the material force of arms despite the significance of the fact that the United States has been forced to take up arms to defend her rights. He looks to general acceptance of arbitration which shall do away with armies while the world is still menaced by the greatest military organization in history. With that organization still dominant, how are the sanctions against States which would refuse to submit

SENATE WILL KILL PEACE RESOLUTION

HAVE WILSON'S APPROVAL

One Democrat and One Republican Will Answer Pacifists—Then End the Incident.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—No peace resolution is to be adopted by the Senate calling upon President Wilson at this time to define the aims of the United States in the war or to suggest any policy for him to follow in dealing with Germany. That was definitely decided late today at a conference of Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate after Senator King of Utah had conferred with the President at the White House.

The program of the Senate is to allow Senator La Follette of Wisconsin to bring up his peace resolution any time he wishes, and, after brief debate on it, to kill it by a decisive vote. Any effort in the meantime to get any other peace resolution through will be dealt with by consigning the resolution to the table, to stay there until the La Follette measure is brought up.

The Senate is determined to end by an overwhelming vote all efforts to embarrass the Administration by attempting to dictate a policy as to peace overtures. Senator La Follette and any other supporters of his resolution may talk as long as they wish. When they have exhausted themselves the scheme is to have some Democratic leader, who is likely to be Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, and some Republican leader, probably Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, answer for both sides of the Chamber. After these two speeches have been made the leaders will insist upon a vote on the resolution.

Senate leaders say the La Follette resolution cannot have more than seven supporting votes—Gore, Norris, Vardaman, Stone, Gronna, Kirby, and La Follette himself. If all of these Senators insist upon being heard it is likely that the Senate will have at least a full day and possibly two or three of peace debate. And that will be the end of it.

Senator Stone is to have his own resolution ready for next week, but it will have to wait until Senator La Follette's comes up. After the defeat of La Follette's measure, Stone's, it is planned, will be quickly voted down.

Senator King conferred with the other Senate leaders for an hour after his talk with the President, and the program respecting the peace resolutions was evolved after Mr. King had urged that policy as being agreeable to the Executive.

Senator La Follette's resolution will lie on the table until after the War Revenue bill is voted upon, which is expected to be at the end of next week. The peace debate probably will not come up until a week from next Monday.

Officer of German Navy Arrested as a Spy With Alleged Accomplice at San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—Lieutenant Irving F. Schneider of the German Navy was arrested here on a Presidential warrant as a spy three days ago, Department of Justice officials announced today. Many maps and papers, declared to be of an incriminating nature, were found in his possession.

With Schneider was arrested Theodore Kasinger, a former department store employe, who is accused of aiding Schneider in obtaining maps and other military information. They are alleged to have occupied apartments with four Austrian officers, who are being sought. By the President's order the prisoners are being held incommunicado without bail and without the privilege of a hearing.

Among Schneider's effects was an iron cross, said to have been received by him for services rendered in the German Navy. He recently married a young woman of Oakland, Cal.

Federal authorities said Schneider tried to join an aviation corps and later another department of the military service here, but was prevented by circumstances not announced. He recently attempted to sail from this port on a Swedish vessel, it was said, but was balked by the Secret Service.

CROPSEY DECIDES TO STAY ON BENCH

Formally Announces That He Will Not Enter the Primaries Against Mayor Mitchel.

FUSION PICKS MORE MEN

Democrats Protest Vainly at Court Selections in Kings—Gannon to Run in Richmond.

Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey of Brooklyn issued a statement last night eliminating himself as a candidate for the Mayoralty nomination in the Republican primaries against Mayor Mitchel. Justice Cropsey, after thanking the citizens who signed petitions asking him to enter the race, made the point that even if nominated and elected he would have but three votes in the Board of Estimate, and therefore could not offset the votes of the other members who might not be in harmony with him. This is the statement:

> The sentiment expressed by the many thousand voters who urged me to enter the primary as a candidate for Mayor is most gratifying. Their interest, support and good wishes are sincerely appreciated, and I cannot express adequately my heartfelt thanks. I have given the request most careful and conscientious consideration, and after much deliberation am convinced that I should not enter the primaries.
> If I did and was nominated, the anti-Tammany ticket would not represent either the views of those who oppose the present administration or of those who favor it. The balance of the ticket would consist of the Fusion selections. If the people of the city want a continuance of the present administration they should re-elect all the officers. The city is governed by the Board of Estimate. The Mayor casts but three votes in the board out of a total of sixteen. The majority vote of that board must be in harmony on the fundamental propositions affecting the city, otherwise no constructive work can be accomplished. The Mayor's vote represents but a small minority unless the other members are in sympathy with him.
>
> Were I to comply with the request and be nominated and elected, I would be in the position of one opposed both to the present administration and to Tammany, and could hardly expect the co-operation of the men selected either by the Fusion Committee or by Tammany.

Mr. Cropsey's statement was given out last night by Joseph Early, a close friend of the Justice. A statement of some kind setting forth the Justice's views had been expected ever since it was announced by Jacob A. Livingston, the Republican leader of Brooklyn, and chief Cropsey lieutenant, that Mr. Cropsey was seriously considering making the fight against Mayor Mitchel.

It was said last night by Brooklyn Republican leaders that Justice Cropsey, up to Monday night, practically had made up his mind to enter the Republican primary, but that the announcement of Controller Eugene M. Travis that he would support Mayor Mitchel and the Fusion ticket, took away the last support which the Justice had depended upon. Previous to that Senator Calder and F. J. H. Kracke, leader of the Mitchel forces in Brooklyn, as well as Governor Whitman, had said that they would not support a Cropsey movement.

Justice Cropsey's lieutenants hoped on Wednesday that they would be able to get several responsible Republicans in New York City and the other boroughs to accept places on his ticket as candidates for Board of Estimate offices, Mr. Cropsey feeling that he would have little show if he ran alone. It was said that efforts were made to have Borough President Marcus M. Marks go on the proposed ticket as candidate for Controller. President Marks refused to consider the proposal, however, and no candidates of importance could be found to run for the other offices.

Attitude of Fusionists.

The Cropsey situation has long been a thorn in the side of Fusion. The Fusion leaders feared that the movement would make a split in the Brooklyn Republican organization, and efforts were started last week to get Mr. Livingston to desert the Cropsey cause. An arrangement finally was made with Mr. Livingston whereby he was permitted to choose a candidate for Sheriff of Kings County if he would try to influence Justice Cropsey not to run. From that time the Cropsey cause began to fade and the Fusion leaders said that it did not matter much to them just what Mr. Cropsey did.

William Hamlin Childs, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Fusion Committee, expressed satisfaction last night that the situation finally had been cleared up.

"I believe Mr. Cropsey's decision," he said, "will meet with the approval of all intelligent citizens of the city. Considering all the circumstances, it is a patriotic action and highly to be commended."

The Fusion leaders showed every disposition last night not to gloat over their triumph. They said they hoped that Justice Cropsey soon would see his way clear to come out in support of the entire fusion ticket.

The Fusion Committee of 250 wound up its preprimary work yesterday by selecting candidates for county offices in Richmond and candidates for the Supreme Court in the Kings and Queens district. For President of the Borough of Richmond Frank S. Gannon, Jr., was chosen. Thomas F. Bannif was selected

WOOD TO TRAIN A DRAFT DIVISION

BELL GOES TO YAPHANK

His Division New York City Draft Troops—O'Ryan Commands New York Guards.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The division and brigade commanders of the main component parts of the army of 923,000 men composed of National Guardsmen and drafted men to be trained for service in France was announced by the War Department tonight.

The assignment of thirty-two Major Generals, one for each of the new national army divisions and one for each National Guard division, was announced in the list. In making the assignments the War Department necessarily utilized most of the new Major and Brigadier Generals whose nominations were sent to the Senate this week by President Wilson. But there were some notable exceptions, all six of the department commanders, Major Gens. Bell, Wood, Liggett, Edwards, Parker, and Barry, being assigned to take command of divisions.

Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell, Commander of the Department of the East, with headquarters at Governor's Island, will command the Seventy-seventh national army division, which is to be trained at Camp Upton, at Yaphank, L. I. This division will consist of the soldiers now being drafted from metropolitan New York.

Major Gen. Leonard Wood, former Commander at Governors Island, but now at Charleston, S. C., in command of the Southeastern Department, will command the Eighty-ninth national army division at Camp Funston, at Fort Riley, Kan. The division will be composed of men from Kansas, Missouri, and Colorado.

Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan of the New York National Guard will command the Twenty-seventh division at Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C. This division will be made up of guardsmen from the Empire State.

Three Rank Pershing.

Three of the Major Generals who will command divisions—Wood, Bell, and Barry—in the order named, rank Major Gen. Pershing. They could not be sent to France in command of these divisions and serve under Pershing, unless he were promoted. For that reason Wood, Bell, and Barry have been placed in charge of the training of three of the new divisions of the national army. These will be formed of drafted men, who, in the natural order of events, would be the last to complete their training and the last to be ready to go to France. By the time these men are ready to go to the front it is expected that legislation will have been enacted permitting the promotion of Pershing to be a Lieutenant General or a full General. If Pershing should be made a full General, then Wood, Bell, and Barry would be in line for the rank of Lieutenant General and would be placed in command of army corps. The three Major Generals who do not rank Pershing and who are department commanders—Edwards, Parker, and Liggett—have been placed in command of divisions of the National Guard army, which, when trained, can be sent to France with these officers serving under Pershing as Major Generals.

Major Gen. Bell, who will command the drafted men from New York City, will have as his Chief of Staff Lieut. Col. Ewing E. Booth, a well known cavalry officer of the regular army. There will be two infantry brigades in this division. One of these, to be known as the 153d, will be commanded by Brig. Gen. Edmund Wittenmyer, an unassigned infantry officer, who was until this week a Colonel of regulars, but has just been nominated for Brigadier General in the National Army. The other infantry brigade of the Seventy-seventh Division will be commanded by Brig. Gen. Evan M. Johnson of the Fifth Infantry of the U. S. A. Johnson is 56 years old and Wittenmyer is 55. Brig. Gen. George W. Read, a cavalry officer, will have command of the 152d, or depot brigade, in General Bell's division, while Brig. Gen. John D. Barrette of the Coast Artillery will command the 152d Field Artillery Brigade in General Bell's division.

Major Gen. O'Ryan, in command of the Twenty-seventh Division, will have as his Chief of Staff Colonel Harry H. Bandholtz, who was until recently Major of the Thirtieth United States Infantry. Brig. Gen. James W. Lester is placed in command of the Seventy-second Depot Brigade of the Twenty-seventh Division. The officer chosen to command the

ALLIES SWEEP FORWARD IN FLANDERS; WIN LANGEMARCK, BEGIN NEW ADVANCE; 1,800 PRISONERS AND HEAVY GUNS TAKEN

Germany Is Now Not Able to Hold Her Own, Says Lloyd George, Telling of Haig's Success

LONDON, Aug. 16.—First announcement of the taking of Langemarck by the British troops in today's successful drive of the Allies in Flanders was made by Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons. He stated that Field Marshal Haig had telegraphed that 1,200 prisoners and five guns had been captured by noon today.

The Premier added: "Germany now is barely able to hold her own—not even that."

The Premier then referred to Russia as "one claw of the nippers temporarily out of repair." Germany, he said, had been beaten in several great battles, with large losses, when Russia was practically out of the campaign. He asked what might be anticipated when Russia recovered and America was really in. America's troops had been seen marching through the streets, symbols of her resolute entry into the struggle. This was the hour, the Premier added, of Germany's difficulties.

Lloyd George Shows Britain U-Boat Campaign Has Failed

From 560,000 Tons in April Losses Have Dropped to Probable 175,000 Each for July and August, with Great Increase in Building—Food Situation Good.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Giving for the first time actual totals of shipping tonnage lost from month to month through Germany's submarine campaign and estimates of the food supply, Premier Lloyd George, in the House of Commons today, proved to Parliament and the country that the Admiralty plans for dealing with the U-boats have been increasingly successful, and that "with reasonable economy" there is no chance of England being starved out. Enthusiastic cheering greeted his revelations.

The Premier said he agreed that the people of the country were all the better for being told even unpalatable truths. But they also must be told the truth even if it was palatable. They could not exercise reasonable judgment or come to decisions regarding facts unless both the cheery and discouraging sides were presented to them.

He purposed to deal with the food situation and submarines because special efforts were being made to create an impression not justified in the least by the facts. Earlier in the year he had called attention to the very anxious condition of the food supply. Since then, owing largely to the energetic efforts of Baron Devonport, the former Food Controller, and organization by the Shipping Controller, the situation had improved considerably.

Situation Last Year and This.

At this time last year, he said, the wheat in this country amounted to 6,480,000 quarters, and that now it was 8,500,000 quarters. (A quarter is equivalent to 480 pounds.) The stock of oats and barley also was higher.

There had been a considerable saving in bread consumption, and owing to closer milling and food economy there had been an addition to the wheat stock of 70,000 quarters per week. Moreover, there had been an increase in the sugar reserve.

Wheat under cultivation showed an increase of 1,000,000 acres. It was too early to give a prediction on this year's harvest because everything depended on the next two or three weeks. If the harvest was good—as it promised to be—and the weather not particularly capricious, the condition of the country regarding food supplies, taking everything into account, was very satisfactory. He still urged economy in view of the general wheat position. The more the country economized the less it would have to draw upon the reservoirs of the United States and Canada, from which Italy and France also had to draw.

The necessary labor for the harvest would be forthcoming, and by Spring there would be 8,000 tractors.

Dealing with the shipping situation, the Premier said that the Germans had been busy circulating figures regarding the destruction of shipping. They were doing it in Germany to cheer up their own people and were circulating a set of figures throughout Germany and Austria on the authority of the German Admiralty with the object of creating the impression that England could not last much longer.

The unrestricted submarine campaign began in February, and by April England had lost 560,000 tons of shipping in one month. The German official figures, he added, claimed that England was losing between 450,000 and 500,000 monthly after allowing for new construction. The figure of 560,000 tons for April was gross. In June the losses had fallen to 320,000 tons gross, and if the improvement were maintained those for July and August would be 175,000 each.

Steps had been taken for quickening shipbuilding, and a good many ships had been ordered abroad. In 1915 the new tonnage built was 688,000 tons. In 1916 it was 538,000 tons. For the first six months of this year it was 480,000 tons. The tonnage acquired during the last six months would be 1,420,000, of which 1,100,000 had been built in Great Britain. The total for the year would be 1,900,000 tons. A considerable addition also had been made in the program of naval construction.

The Shipping Controller so far had organized shipping by means of better loading and hiring of ships more quickly and by taking ships off longer voyages. Thus, although the tonnage was diminished, they were carrying more tons.

Premier Lloyd George said he believed the shipping losses would grow smaller. He was sure construction would increase if more ships were still needed. If the United States put forward her full capacity, as he had no doubt she was preparing to do in her own thorough way, there would be sufficient tonnage not only for the whole of 1918, but, if necessary, for 1919.

Outlook for Enemy Bad.

The Premier said he would not exchange the military situation with the enemy, adding: "Our difficulties will diminish and our powers will increase. The enemy's difficulties will increase and their power diminish."

"I do not think," he went on, "the time has come for a useful review of the military situation. The main facts are well known to the House and the country. I had anticipated this year a great converging movement against our foes. Russia was equipped for that part as she never before had been equipped. I venture to say that the nippers were beginning to grip, but, to be quite frank, one claw of the nippers is out of repair for the moment, and therefore we have not got the same converging pressure we had anticipated.

"But things are mending. The situation in Russia is a very difficult one, and I should be sorry to say anything which would make it more difficult, because it is quite obvious you cannot even state facts without embarrassing those who are trying to restore the situation in that country. But while they are doing it bravely, with great courage, and, I think, with great thoroughness, the brunt of the fighting must fall upon other countries. And considering all the difficulties with which we are confronted, our armies have won very conspicuous successes.

"It is difficult even to dwell on the difference which the temporary collapse of the Russian military power has made in the task with which our soldiers are confronted."

Mr. Lloyd George said that British divisions which have been fighting and temporarily are exhausted pass behind the lines until they are re-formed, but that the German divisions in the same condition go to Russia and hold a front which does not impose severe military obligation, while fresh divisions from Russia come to the western front. That increased the number of Germans on the western front.

Under those conditions what had been achieved was one of the most brilliant episodes in the history of the British army.

"The best that Germany can do now," Mr. Lloyd George continued, "when what practically was her most powerful opponent at the beginning of the war is paralyzed by internal difficulties, is to hold her own against the attacks of the British and French. And she isn't quite doing it. On the contrary, in this year she has been beaten in several great battles, with severe losses and with hundreds of her guns captured, which is not a bad test of winning or losing a battle.

"Russia recovered and America really in, with those fine troops of which we saw a specimen yesterday and which were a symbol of America coming into this world struggle with a virile swing—those are the things the Germans and their allies will have think about."

The Supreme Hour.

Mr. Lloyd George then read a message from Field Marshal Haig about the fighting in Flanders, and concluded.

"This is the supreme hour for patience, for courage, for endurance, for hope, for unity. Let us go through this hour with a temper that will enable us to destroy a great military despotism. Let us go through this hour with the old temper of our race, so that next year we shall begin, and then the world will begin, to reap the fruits of our valor."

Former Premier Asquith said that Great Britain could survey with satisfaction, if not with complacency—for who could survey complacently the scene now presented to the civilized world?—the results of her own effort. What had happened in Russia had frustrated one of the greatest military purposes of the Allies, and any criticism passed on this year's operations must bear in mind that important consideration. Mr. Asquith added:

"I hope that before long our Russian allies, whose work in the first two and a half years of the war furnished a glorious and inspiring chapter, will resume to the full their share of the great common task to which I believe the Russian nation still is devoted."

Mr. Asquith declared that the key to success today was not monetary expenditure but labor—labor on land and labor in shipping.

STRIKE ON A 9-MILE FRONT

RIGHT GAINS, THEN LOSES

MORE FIGHTING NEAR LENS

Canadians Withstand Ten Furious Assaults—Nearly 900 Prisoners Taken There.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Striking together on a nine-mile front east and northeast of Ypres in Flanders early this morning, British and French troops carried all their objectives except on the right flank, and tonight unofficial advices say that a new advance was ordered this afternoon.

The French, on the left, drove the Germans from the tongue of land between the Yser Canal and the Martjevaart and captured the bridgehead of Dreigrachten.

In the centre Haig's troops captured the village of Langemarck, which has been held strongly by the Germans ever since the allied attack of early this month, and pushed half a mile beyond. The Reuter correspondent at British headquarters reports tonight that fighting is proceeding well beyond the town.

On the right British troops attempted to seize the high ground almost directly east of Ypres, which lies north of the road to Menin. They swept up and gained the ground, but in the face of terrific losses the Germans attacked with great fury, and finally pressed the British back from the terrain they had won.

More than 1,800 prisoners, including thirty-eight officers, already have been counted by the Anglo-French forces. Some German guns have been taken.

I naddition to the successes won in the Ypres sector the British have made further progress east of Loos and north of Lens. Severe fighting has been going on there ever since the Canadians won Hill 70 yesterday morning, but the repeated German assaults have been futile.

Official Account of Progress.

The night bulletin of the British War Office gives this account of the day's events:

> The allied attacks, delivered early in the morning on a front of nine miles north of the Ypres-Menin road, have been continued during the day in the face of strong enemy resistance.
>
> On the left the French troops, advancing on both sides of the Zuydschoote-Dixmude road, drove the enemy from the tongue of land between the Yser Canal and the Martjevaart and captured the bridgehead of Dreigrachten.
>
> In the centre the British troops rapidly captured their first objectives, and, continuing their advance, carried the village of Langemarck after heavy fighting. They then forced their way forward a distance of half a mile beyond the village and established themselves in the German trench system, which constituted their final objective for the day.
>
> On our right there has been fierce and continuous fighting since the early morning for the possession of the high ground north of the Menin Road. The enemy disputed our advance with determination, counterattacking with large forces. As the result of the counterattacks the enemy succeeded during the afternoon, at great cost, in pressing back our troops in this area from part of the ground won earlier in the day. This evening further enemy counterattacks in this neighborhood were broken up by our artillery fire.
>
> The number of prisoners taken by the Allies in the course of this attack cannot yet be ascertained, but over 1,800, including 38 officers, already have been brought in. A few German guns also were captured.
>
> Our troops made further progress this afternoon east of Loos. The number of troops we captured on this front since the opening of our attack yesterday has now reached a total of 896, including 22 officers.
>
> Throughout yesterday's attack our airplanes co-operated successfully with the artillery and assisted effectively with machine gunfire in repelling the enemy's counterattacks. In the air fighting eleven German airplanes were brought down and four others were driven down out of control. Another was brought down by anti-aircraft fire. Three of our airplanes are missing. Today also our aircraft has done excellent work.

> At 4:45 o'clock this morning the

Heavy fighting is taking place, but progress is being made at all points in spite of the stubborn resistance of the enemy.

On the Lens battle front three more counter attacks made by the enemy last night against our positions were repulsed. A hostile concentration in the neighborhood of Cité St. Auguste was broken up by our artillery.

The day report of the French operations as issued by the French War Office reads:

In Belgium, after violent and most thorough artillery preparation, we made an attack at dawn this morning in conjunction with the British army on our right.

With superb spirit our infantry made the assault on the enemy positions on both sides of the road between Steenstraete and Dixmude, capturing all objectives and crossing the Steenbeck. Our troops are making progress on the right bank in contact with our allies.

The Associated Press correspondent on the British front telegraphs describing the situation on the battle line at 4 o'clock this afternoon, stating that no more than a general idea can be given because "a signal was given a few hours ago for an advance." He says:

"From Dreigrachten, which the French occupied with little resistance, southward, the French pushed their positions forward to the edge of the flooded area along the left bank of the St. Jansbeek River, and on the right bank they surged across the Steenbeck, which is a continuation of the St. Jansbeek, and occupied German positions to an extreme depth of about 1,000 yards.

"At the same time the British advanced on the right of the French and occupied considerable territory in the region of St. Julien and Langemarck. Apparently Langemarck Village itself is firmly in the hands of the Allies.

Fighting Is Very Heavy.

"Further south the British had pushed forward at various points as far down the salient as the country west of the Polygon Wood. In all this region heavy fighting was in progress, especially in the vicinity of the Polygon Wood and the neighboring forests.

"At this time it is impossible to give more than a general idea of the events that are transpiring, since a signal was given a few hours ago for an advance. There is little doubt, however, that the German troops engaged have been dealt a heavy blow, and that the British have made appreciable advances at many points in this difficult territory.

"The preliminary bombardment by the British artillery worked havoc in the German ranks, according to prisoners. All night the heavy guns poured a steady stream of shells into the small forts and the fortified farms in which the Germans had established machine gun squads, and many of their defenses were wiped out or made untenable.

"About Langemarck, where heavy fighting took place, the Seventeenth Reserve Division of the Prussians suffered severely from the bombardment.

"The barrage which the British artillery dropped before the infantry for the advance was perfect. The German guns pounded away sullenly, but their fire was not effective and the British troops suffered little as they pushed forward.

"In the Langemarck region the main difficulty encountered was the mud in the approaches to the town, and into this bog the infantry plunged deep at every step. Not infrequently the soldiers had to extricate a comrade who had sunk to the waist in the morass, but they continued to push forward steadily, facing machine gun fire from hidden redoubts and battling their way past with bombs and rifle fire.

Thus the British came to Langemarck. There were concrete gunpits about the position in front of the town, which was flooded from the Steenbeck River, but the infantry divided and bombed their way about either side of the town. As they passed to the further side the Germans could be seen running away, and little resistance was offered in the town itself. The fighting still continues beyond Langemarck, according to the latest reports.

French Pushed Ahead Half a Mile.

The French attack began simultaneously with the British advance and the contact between the allied armies was excellent throughout. The French completed the task mapped out for them in about one hour. The extreme depth which they penetrated into the German territory was over 1,000 yards.

"The terrain over which the French advanced was most difficult for on their right the Steenbeck River was in flood and on their left they were moving toward an inundated area, and the ground was becoming marshier all the time. The German defenses in this inhospitable zone consisted chiefly of fortified machine gun positions. These, however, were accounted for largely in the preliminary bombardment. The French met little resistance, and the operation was carried out with few casualties.

"The portion of the Steenbeck the French crossed lies between a point west of Wijendrift and a bend in the river 1,500 yards north, a little southwest of St. Janshoek. On the east side of the river they met strong resistance at Champaubert Farm, and at the Briehne house, both strongly fortified and machine gun nests. The French artillery was brought into play and these strongholds were forced to surrender.

"Dreigrachten was occupied with little or no resistance, as was virtually all the country south of that place. The French front now runs from Dreigrachten along the left bank of the St. Jansbeek River to a point of crossing below St. Janshoek, whence it runs southeast to a junction with the new British line.

"The Germans had concentrated large bodies of troops in the Houthulst Forest in anticipation of this attack, but the French heavy guns bombarded the woods so effectively that it was impossible to bring up reserves.

"The booty obtained by the French will be considerable, including a number of heavy guns which stuck in the mud and were abandoned by the retreating Germans. Many machine guns also fell into the hands of the French."

DRIVE FAILURE, SAYS BERLIN.

Only "Local Successes" Won by Allies, It Is Stated.

BERLIN, Aug. 16, (via London.)—The combined British and French attack over a front of more than eighteen miles in Flanders was shattered by the Teutons, according to the official communication issued this evening. Only local successes on the Yser Canal and in the vicinity of Langemarck were obtained by the Entente, it was stated. The bulletin reads:

The enemy assault in Flanders, which extended over a front of thirty kilometers, (eighteen miles,) has been shattered with heavy losses. The enemy has been able to gain only small local successes at Dreirachten, on the Yser Canal, and near Langemarck, where fighting is still proceeding.

From St. Julien, northeast of Ypres, to as far as Warneton on the Lys, the enemy everywhere was completely repulsed.

The day report told of the beginning of the battle and said the British were attacking on an eleven-mile front. The bulletin asserted that British troops yesterday unsuccessfully attempted to take the village of Vendin le Vieil, two and a half miles east of Loos, on the Lens front, but made only small gains. In part, it read:

Front of Crown Prince Rupprecht—In Flanders a second great battle has burst forth. The artillery duel, which yesterday again rose to most extreme violence, and on the coast and between the Yser and the Doutel (Lys), continued undiminished during the night and increased this morning to drumfire. Behind dense waves of fire the English infantry then advanced to the attack between Bixschoote and Wytschaete on a front of eighteen kilometers (eleven miles).

In Artois the English attacked yesterday morning between Hulluch and Lens with four Canadian divisions. After the strongest fire they forced their way into our first positions and sought by the continual bringing up of fresh forces to deepen the gap created on both sides of Loos.

According to orders found the object of their attack was the village of Vendin le Vieil, situated four kilometers (about two and a half miles) behind our front. In desperate fighting, lasting all day, our troops by counterattacks pressed back beyond the third line of our first position the enemy who had broken into our lines. The English made a small gain.

In fresh attacks, which were repeated as many as eleven times, the stubborn enemy again tried his fortune, but the enemy's storming waves collapsed before our battle line.

South of Hulluch and west of Lens the enemy, who had suffered extremely heavy losses at all points of the battlefield, was repulsed.

FRENCH GAIN ON THE AISNE.

PARIS, Aug. 16.—French troops made an attack on the Aisne today and captured German trenches on a front of one kilometer. Four German counterattacks were repulsed. The official bulletin today says of operations other than those in Belgium:

South of Ailles a vigorous attack made us master of a system of trenches on a front of one kilometer, which was held strongly by the enemy. Four German counterattacks on our new positions were repulsed easily and 120 prisoners, one of them an officer, have been counted. In the region of the Hurtebise monument we also made progress, taking a score of prisoners.

In the Champagne and on both banks of the Meuse heavy artillery fighting continued. We made a surprise attack near Louvemont, taking seven prisoners. There is nothing of importance to report on the remainder of the front.

Our bombarding airplanes last night and this morning threw many bombs on enemy establishments north and east of the Houthulst Forest, and also on the railway station at Lichterwald.

During our attack in the region of Ailles and Hurtebise our aviators were not deterred by the bad weather from flying very close to the ground as our infantry moved forward and turning their machine guns on the shelters and reserves of the enemy.

BERLIN, Aug. 16, (via London.)—The General Staff reports in its official bulletin today heavy firing on the Chemin des Dames. French attacks near Hurtebise Farm failed, it is said. The bulletin reads:

Front of the German Crown Prince—In the centre of the Chemin des Dames sector lively activity by both artilleries preponderated throughout the day. After the failure of their attack in the morning the French again attacked in the evening between Cerny and the Hurtebise Farm on a front of about five kilometers, (three miles.) Fluctuating fighting continued into the night. We remained in full possession of our positions. The vain onrushes of the enemy caused them much bloodshed.

On the front north of Verdun the artillery duel again assumed great intensity in the morning. The French fire, however, was not as violent as on Aug. 12 and 13.

GUARDS BUTCHERED AT LENS.

Ten Efforts of Germans to Retake Hill 70 Are Repulsed by Canadians.

By The Canadian Press, Limited.

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Aug. 16.—The taking of Hill 70 yesterday by the Canadian troops stirred the German higher command as nothing else has done on this front this year.

Prince Rupprecht has made frantic efforts to recapture the lost positions and a grim battle was waged throughout the day, particularly on and around Hill 70.

Ten times the enemy came on, but they seldom got close enough for fighting with bayonet or bomb. The Prussian Guards were subjected to a terrible concentrated fire from our artillery and machine guns. Their losses were frightful.

A veteran machine-gun officer tells of having had as a target for an hour and a quarter enemy reinforcements coming up in columns of fours for use in counterattacks. He said that his men killed more Germans yesterday than they had seen altogether at any previous time. Prisoners said that the ground over which their battalions had advanced was thickly strewn with dead.

The Seventh Prussian Division, which was in line when we attacked, no longer exists. Their losses during the several days prior to the assault were very serious. Our guns so steadily swept their positions that ration parties refused to go up and the men in the trenches remained unfed.

The total number of prisoners is now considerably over 400.

The original German force, which met our assault, was pretty well accounted for by the attacking force. It consisted of two battalions of the 165th Regiment, two of the Twenty-sixth, two of the 156th, and one of the 293d. German regiments consist of three battalions each, and after the battalions of the three first mentioned regiments holding the trenches had been put out of action, the reserve battalions were moved up hurriedly. At 9 o'clock, while headed toward Hill 70, these battalions were caught under our artillery fire and dispersed.

The enemy leaders next called upon the Fourth Guard Division, which had been held on this part of the line for such an emergency as that which confronted the defenders of Lens. The Guards proceeded toward Bois Hugo with the evident intention of retaking Hill 70. They, too, were caught under our artillery and machine-gun barrage, and so roughly handled that two attempts to advance, one at 11:50 o'clock and the second soon after noon, had to be abandoned.

Artillery and machine-gun experts have explained that the enemy position is an impossible one, and that if he cannot drive us off Hill 70 he will have to get out of Lens.

Our casualties can now be spoken of as light.

By The Associated Press.

BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Aug. 16.—The Canadians today were holding strongly Hill 70 and all the other positions which they wrested about Lens yesterday, after having beaten off ten furious counterattacks. The last German attack of the night occurred at 9:30 o'clock, and this morning comparative quiet reigned in this sector, giving the British a chance to consolidate their new lines.

The checking up of British casualties this morning indicated that they had been moderate.

The German counterattacks resulted in fierce hand-to-hand fighting among the wrecked buildings in the suburbs of Lens. Following their usual methods, the Germans hurled their men into the combat without apparent thought of the cost of life. Wave after wave of guardsmen were sent into the terrific hail of death, and each succeeding wave met the fate of the former, until virtually the entire division had been annihilated.

The German artillery gave the British their most trouble, pouring a heavy fire into the ranks of the advancing infantry and shelling heavily the rear areas.

TOTAL GERMAN LOSSES NOW EXCEED 4,500,000

Killed or died of wounds or sickness, 21,389.
Prisoners or missing, 14,620.
Severely wounded, 13,896.
Wounded and slightly wounded, 39,958.

BOYS OF 14 DEAD ON HILL

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 16.—This morning the British troops made a general advance beyond the line of the recent attacks and gained about 1,500 yards of ground on a wide front, which includes the village of Langemarck and goes southward to the region of Glencorse Copse and Polygon Wood.

On the left the French went forward also and struck out into the swampy neck of ground, which they call the peninsula of Presquile, surrounded on three sides by deep flods.

On the right of the British attack the fighting has been most violent and the Germans made strong and repeated counterattacks over all the high ground, which drops down to Glencorse Wood from Nun's Wood to Hannebeek. Their losses were high, for although the weather is still stormy, making the ground bad for the British, there was light for the flying men and artillery observers, and at various parts of the front the German assembly of troops has been signaled quickly, so that the guns smashed up their formations and caused slaughter.

After my narrative of the Canadians at Lens yesterday, counterattacks have to be added. Successive waves advanced and were broken up, and these lads of the younger classes, some of them boys of seventeen, who marched shoulder to shoulder according to the old tradition, were destroyed in great numbers.

The experts are wrangling over the number of German reserves. Fantastic figures are given of the millions of Germans still under arms, but there are no exact data, and all we know with any certainty is that the enemy is still outwardly strong—strong, at least, in defense. But the magnitude of his losses during the three years is revealed by the facts of today's fighting and the place in which it happened. It was in the Autumn of 1914, during the first battle of Ypres, that the Germans attacked the third British brigade at Langemarck, where the English troops made a victorious assault today. Three years ago they were German lads of the 1914 class who marched up to the British lines, linked arm in arm, to be mowed down by the most deadly rifle fire in the world, because those men of the old army were the finest marksmen.

Yesterday at Lens, or rather at Hill 70, they were the boys of the 1919 class who held the tragedy of German hopes and the great proof of her defeat. She cannot fill up the gaps in her ranks by lies and it is another sign of weakness that she is lying.

The truth is exactly the opposite. Last night the English troops, who were going to attack the village of Langemarck, went across Steenbeck stream and lay there, waiting for the hour of their assault.

As we know now from captured orders, a German regiment was ordered to attack the British lines at 3:45 o'clock this morning. Only forty men of that regiment were seen advancing, and it was those who were annihilated.

The British went forward when there was light enough and made their way toward Langemarck. Here they were in real trouble, but not from the enemy. It was the state of the ground that threatened them with disaster. All round Langemarck the floods were out, and the heavy rains of the week had filled the old shell holes to the brim and made a bog everywhere.

Found Boys of 14 Dead.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, Wednesday, Aug. 15.—It seems that Hill 70 was held lightly and by the younger class of soldiers, the best Prussian troops being kept back to hold the inner defenses of Lens and make counterattacks.

"It was a walkover," said a Canadian, describing the assault on the hill. "Our barrage was great and had simply smashed the ground to a pulp. I thought it a greater wreck than Vimy, which was some wreck. One could just see the faint suggestion of trenches, but everything was clean swept. There were two or three machine-gun emplacements which gave us a bit of trouble, but not much. We jumped on them and wiped them out. I can't say that I saw many German dead, but just a few boys. I expect the others were buried and smashed up."

"They were children no bigger than school boys. I call it cruel to send such youngsters into the fighting line."

Another man told me that he saw boys lying dead who looked not older than 14, and it made him feel sick. They could not all have been like that, the men of the 155th and 156th reserve regiments, from whom some of the prisoners have come, because they have been making a very stiff fight in some parts of their defensive system.

"I knew we could do the trick," said one of them who came walking back with a wound in his thigh, "and all my pals were of the same mind."

He said one amazing thing, while lying there waiting for his operation in the back parlor of a miner's cottage in one of those mazes into which the Germans were plunging shells at the time.

"I enjoyed the show very much," he said. "It was a fair treat."

The spirit of the men who have fought and fought and seen the worst horrors of war and suffered its most hideous discomforts is one of those miracles which I do not understand.

Of the same character are the civilian inhabitants of one of these mining cities on the edge of the battlefields, where they have remained since the beginning of the war, nearer even than the edge. They live in streets where most of the houses have been hit and many of them wrecked. Death comes about and above them. Many of the people have been killed and the children go to school in cellars with gas masks because of poison that comes on the east wind or the north.

They were there again today. Old women were drinking early morning coffee in the little rooms that have stood between the masses of ruin.

A widow in black weeds like a dowager duchess was walking slowly down a street that was shelled last night, and today girls with braided hair were standing at the street corners among the soldiers in steel helmets, watching shells bursting a little way off, with no certainty that that is their limit.

LONDON MARKET CHEERFUL.

Shipping Shares Improved as Result of Extension in Insurance.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The stock market today was cheerful. Home rails were firmer. Mexican securities, which have been active, are now easier. Argentine railways were steadier on account of the better outlook in the strike situation. Rio Tintos relapsed on account of the miners having declared a strike.

Shipping shares improved as the result of the Government extension of liability on amounts for which vessels are insured. Peruvians hardened. Oils were active. There was a further advance in Egyptian securities.

Money was plentiful and discounts were steady.

ST. QUENTIN CATHEDRAL IS WRECKED BY FIRE

French Shells Did It, Says Berlin—Observer on French Front Denies It.

By G. H. PERRIS.

ON THE FRENCH FRONT, Aug. 16.—Something mysterious has been happening in St. Quentin.

Last evening before sunset the men in the French lines before the town were astonished to see great tongues of flame break out from the windows of the Collegiate Church, usually called the Cathedral, and very soon the whole vast structure was enveloped.

Throughout the night the fire blazed, throwing a lurid glare over the surrounding plain, and great pillars of smoke into the quiet sky.

At daybreak today it was seen that the steep dark roof which made the cathedral a landmark for many miles around had fallen in and when I came up to the front this afternoon, it was evident that everything but the outer walls must have been destroyed.

The cause of the disaster is unknown. All that can be certainly said is that it was not due to French gunfire. Yesterday was relatively calm in this sector and there was little bombardment last night.

It is known from the statements of prisoners that St. Quentin has been pillaged by German troops, their officers being parties to the wholesale removal of stolen valuables.

OTTAWA, Aug. 16.—The Reuter correspondent at French Army Headquarters, in a message received at Reuter's Ottawa Agency this evening, says:

"Smoke and flames were seen pouring from the roof of St. Quentin Cathedral last evening from the French observation posts. All night the great building flamed, and when day broke it was seen that the massive roof had fallen in, carrying with it the central tower. This afternoon I looked at the ruined shell of the ancient church. The fire was still burning and smoke was pouring out from the Cathedral.

"The enemy set fire to two villages close to St. Quentin last night."

BERLIN, Aug. 16, (via London.)—The General Staff reports in its official bulletin today that the Cathedral at St. Quentin was set on fire by French shells. The bulletin reads:

Near St. Quentin the French in the afternoon developed especial firing activity. They were successful by means of about 3,000 shells thrown on the inner town in setting the presbytery on fire. From there the flames spread to the Cathedral, which has been burning since 8:30 o'clock last evening.

The Cathedral or Church of St. Quentin is one of the finest Gothic buildings in that part of France, and was erected between the twelfth and fifteenth centuries. The building has double transepts and the nave is 370 feet long and 130 feet high. It is finely decorated and contains some handsome bas reliefs. In the crypt of the church are buried St. Quentin and his fellow-martyrs, St. Victorious and St. Gentianus.

FURTHER LOANS TO ALLIES.

$5,900,000 Advanced to Belgium and $40,000,000 to Italy.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Loans of $40,000,000 to Italy and $5,900,000 to Belgium were made by the Government today, bringing the total thus far advanced the Allies up to $1,916,400,000.

CZERNIN MANEUVERS TO CONVINCE BERLIN

Repeated Visits to Michaelis Ascribed to Effort to Frame Peace Program.

ALLIES KNEW POPE'S PLAN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 16.—From all information obtainable here, it is considered more than probable that, coming out on Assumption Day, the Pope's new peace proposal is indirectly inspired by Austrian-German Catholic circles.

Austria faces another war Winter with desperation, and Count Czernin has been politically very busy, as is well known from his constant visits to Berlin recently. As has been repeatedly affirmed, Austria for some time has been endeavoring to form peace proposals which Germany would sanction, and there has been talk that Bavaria favors Austrian ideas. The fact that the Papal proposal comes just as Austrian territory is being freed of Russian troops may be significant, especially as a Rome telegram received at The Hague explains that the Papal action was delayed on the request of certain persons.

The Weser Zeitung announced yesterday the arrival of Count Czernin in Berlin to confer with the Chancellor and Foreign Secretary von Kühlman, having come from Great Headquarters. The paper lays stress on the fact that this is Czernin's fourth visit to Germany since his appointment.

Vatican Sounded Powers First.

The Dutch Catholic paper Tijd, whose Rome correspondent is a Catholic priest, telegraphs that the peace proposal was not so unexpected as might be assumed and that preparations for papal mediation had begun long before the Austro-German Eastern offensive. The oroginal intention was to launch the proposal on the fourth anniversary of the war. All the envoys accredited to the Vatican were sounded regarding the feeling of their Governments, and Governments wihtout accredited representatives there were approached by diplomatic mediation. The correspondent further states that the Dutch Government was acquainted with the proposed step and the Dutch Minister at the Vatican acted with extreme tact in regard to certain questions which arose in connection with the preparation of the nate.

The correspondent says he is unable to say when the Entente was acquainted with the message, but it is supposed that the contents of the proposal were known when the Entente Powers and America refused to grant passports to delegates for the Stockholm conference, preferring that the initiative should come from the Pope rather than from the Socialists. The Vatican is extremely reserved as to the possible results of the proposal.

Dutch Hail Papal Proposal.

Naturally, all the Dutch papers comment with enthusiasm on the Pope's "diplomatic offensive," but it must be recollected that Holland at this moment is in a condition of panic by fear of her eastern neighbor, which fear grows as Germany's difficulties increase, those difficulties being largely determined by America's restrictive export policy.

Dutch commercial life is anxious to resume activity under any conditions, and this consideration takes priority over all other questions. Hence the Dutch comments cannot be considered to be founded upon impartial consideration of the proposed terms of peace. International law, like prophets, is dishonored in its own country.

The semi-official Nieuwe Courant modifies the Dutch excess of enthusiasm. It expresses doubt whether the reply from either side will be very encouraging. The paper attaches most importance to the verdict of the British Liberal and Labor press, and adds:

"We are by no means convinced that the Entente Governments will very heartily take the hand which brings them out of the impasse created by the attitude of labor and the increasingly pacific tendencies of the population."

The Handelsblad adopts the same argument, saying:

"The Pope's peace proposals are entirely based on words spoken by Wilson last year—no annexations, no indemnities, and the restoration of Belgium, Serbia, and the French departments in return for the German colonies."

The paper is surprised that quotations from the American and British press so far received are not enthusiastic.

Centrist Attitude Changing.

The German Catholic annexationist Volkszeitung, in an editorial written before details of the Pope's plan became known, expresses the opinion that Germany cannot have its peace terms dictated by Rome. The object of this article is an attack on the Centrist leader Erzberger.

A centre of the so-called Catholic peace movement is Gratz, in Austria, where the Catholic White Cross League is established and where it promulgated a peace program of twelve paragraphs early in June.

Politically, the attitude of German Catholics, both toward domestic and foreign policies, has unquestionably been modified since their party supported the Reichstag peace resolution on July 19, as five days later the Central Committee of the party, at a meeting in Frankfort, adopted a much less progressive attitude regarding peace proposals. Subsequently the principal Catholic paper, Germania, has veered toward the reactionary attitude of the Rhineland Catholics. The German Catholics as a political party are considered essentially reactionary, and if they support progressive measures it is because the inclinations of their leaders are overborne by the intense popular feeling of constituents.

CZERNIN ENDS CONFERENCES.

Meets Turkish and Bulgar Envoys as Well as German Leaders.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—Count Czernin von Chudenitz, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, has returned to Vienna after a two days' visit to Berlin, in the course of which he had several conferences with the Imperial Chancellor and the Foreign Office.

Count and Countess Czernin were the guests of Chancellor Michaelis at luncheon on Wednesday. The Turkish Ambassador and the Bulgarian Minister also attended. Vice Chancellor Helfferich gave a reception in honor of Count Czernin.

TERMS OPPOSED IN ARGENTINA

Presidential Organ Says Hohenzollerns Seek to Escape Punishment.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 16.—Comment here on the peace proposals of the Pope is generally pessimistic. The leading Argentine newspapers recognize that certain points are coincident with the ideas of President Wilson, but say that the conditions and propositions of the Pope will not be accepted. They will serve better to show the state of mind of the Teuton Chancellors, the papers say, the Teutons permitting the Pope better to appreciate on what side are justice and right.

Certain newspapers believe that despite the good intentions of the Pope his proposals are injurious to the Allies, favoring those responsible for the war. El Diaro, despite its Catholic tendency, says the declaration by the Pope has created a painful impression, and that it appears to be an effort to save the Central Empires.

La Epoca, the Presidential Party organ, says that the Hohenzollerns want to avoid the punishment of their crimes against humanity. The Pope could not refuse the proposed peace, it argues, but his proposition will fail.

WILSON EXPECTED TO SOUND ALLIES

pression that gained supporters today was that the note after all will be an advantage to the Governments at war with Germany in that it will afford them the opportunity to make statements that will clear all misunderstanding as to the fundamental issues of the war and allow them to express with the greatest clearness an outline of the terms upon which they will insist in the adjustment of the issues that are being fought out on the battlefields of Europe.

One rather interesting view expressed in a diplomatic quarter was that every nation that is opposing Germany had some distinct and separate reason for declining to enter into peace negotiations until a clearer insight had been given by Germany herself into the conditions which she would be willing to accept as fundamental to the re-establishment of peace. But in addition, it was said, there were questions of common interest that all the nations making war on Germany would insist on seeing adjusted before peace was agreed upon. The Pope's note, it was suggested, did not pave the way for making Germany declare in advance of a peace conference that she would seek to remedy the evils that have brought so much trouble to the world.

A study of the text of the Pontiff's communication brought expressions of gratification over his desire to see measures taken after the war to minimize future wars. Some thought that the Pope should have added to this his indorsement of the President's insistence that the great powers should bind themselves to champion the rights of smaller nationalities.

Discard Peace "Based on Map."

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Notwithstanding the different and conflicting statements made by German and Austrian Ministers as to a basis of peace negotiations, it is said by some of the diplomats here who have closely studied the situation, that nowhere has there been any real evidence of an abandonment of the first German demand for a peace based "on the map," which would insure the Central Powers actual military, if not technical and political control of the territories in possession of the Germanic troops when peace is declared.

The Germans, in possession of most of Belgium and a large part of France, were quite willing a year ago to make peace. But with the Russians in possession of some of their best eastern provinces the Austrian Government was not of like mind. Now it is pointed out by the Entente diplomats, as a result of the collapse of the Russian offensive and the clearing of Galicia of Russian troops, the Austrian Government also is willing and anxious for peace, as are the Germans in the knowledge that the tide has turned against them in the west and that next year probably will find them in possession of little or no French and Belgian territory.

It is admitted by these diplomats that it is inconceivable that the Vatican should have been influenced by any of these military considerations, but it is insisted that they must be taken into account by the Foreign Offices of the Entente Powers when they pass upon the Pope's appeal.

WOULD ANSWER "NO" TO POPE.

Fred Horner, M. P., Thinks the Papal Appeal Now a Mistake.

Fred Horner, M. P., who for many years has represented an important London constituency in the British Parliament and is now here on business, does not think that the Pope's appeal will evoke any strong response in England. He said yesterday:

"My strong opinion is—and I am convinced that I am voicing that of my country—that the Pope's communication to the belligerents is an unfortunate mistake. It would have been better for his Holiness to have continued his silence on the war rather than to have set before the world a series of proposals which a little practical thought would have convinced an impartial person are doomed in advance to failure.

"No, the time for the Pope to have spoken was at the beginning of this Armageddon—and spoken firmly in protest not only against the unwarranted invasion of Belgium, but against the atrocities committed in that unhappy country, against the outrages on women and girls, against even godly nuns in their own convents. These are but a few of the occasions upon which the Pope might have seized for such a purpose."

FRENCH UNITED AGAINST PLAN

Believe Germany, Failing at Stockholm, Turned to Pope's Help.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 16.—Comment here takes the line that the Pope's peace proposal, following on the heels of the manoeuvres of the Socialist pacifists, marks, to use a military expression, "an offensive movement on both wings simultaneously." This quotation is taken from Le Gaulois, the representative organ of the French clerical and aristocratic party. It parallels exactly the opening phrases of Gustave Hervé, who as an anti-clerical Socialist represents a diametrically opposite pole of opinion. This, it is pointed out, is proof of the unanimity of French sentiment about the Papal suggestion.

Frenchmen of all parties, classes, and opinions may differ about peace itself, its terms, and its possibility or desirability in the near future, but one and all are convinced that peace on the lines the Pope suggests would be "German peace." One man holding an important official post summed up the French attitude by reference to a statement recently made to THE NEW YORK TIMES by a Swiss manufacturers and widely copied in the French press. He said:

"Your paper was right about the German peace offensive. This is the second phase, just as the Socialist conference at Stockholm was the first. Germany knows she is doomed unless she can patch up peace before America can throw her weight into the balance."

Thanks to Clemenceau and others, the public now realizes the truth about the recent pacifist propaganda. It is felt that certain efforts to paint the military situation in sombre colors have had similar inspiration, and the result has been a reaction, as the people are beginning to ask: "If German money is behind this talk of speedy peace in alleged French interest, it surely means that French interest is just the reverse, and that it is Germany, not France, whose situation is shaky."

The impression had grown pretty general in the last few weeks that action by the Pope would be the next move in the German peace game. Leakages from Switzerland and whispers in certain financial quarters pointed in the same direction, and although the press was not permitted to allude to the matter openly, it became widely known that something of the kind was to be expected. Moreover, for a considerable time well-informed circles have been discussing the so-called fair German peace terms said to have been offered, more or less tentatively and unofficially, by Erzberger through Swiss channels.

These terms, whose details are freely quoted, were said to have Austrian and Bavarian—the two most Catholic belligerents—inspiration, but it was understood that Germany, despite the boasts of the pan Germanists, would place no difficulties in the way of her allies who regarded them with favor. Their terms, as generally stated, differed practically not at all from the just published synopsis of the Pope's suggestions, all major points being identical, and the only divergence being that the latter, if anything, was rather less advantageous. It is not surprising that Frenchmen, without exception, jumped to the conclusion that the Pope, consciously or unconsciously, is acting in the German interest.

France is coming to view all these peace schemes as evidence of German exhaustion. Once that lesson is fully learned there is no more danger of militarism escaping punishment. As a prominent French journalist said this morning:

"You will see we shall repulse this attack far more easily than Stockholm. People's eyes are being opened. The risk of 'German peace' is lessening every day. The Boches have committed another of their errors of psychology. All this underhand and devious work is defeating its own object.

"It reveals their hand, and when they come to play the trump card of 'a fair, straightforward peace offer on decent terms' our people will know too much. It would have been far more dangerous had they done that frankly to begin with, but the Boches judge other nations by themselves. Their tricky methods will set the people against them now as they have done from the beginning. Germany will lose in peace as she has lost in war."

TAKES LA FOLLETTE TO TASK.

Questions Asked Senator by Security League Anent Peace Resolution.

The National Security League sent to Senator La Follette of Wisconsin yesterday a letter taking him severely to task for his peace resolution and asking him to answer certain questions, one of which was:

"Do you believe that any pledge or treaty by the German monarch or his Government can be relied on by this country as the basis of our future peace and security?"

The letter was written by Herbert Barry, Secretary of the League. The questions put to the Senator included these:

"Do you question the statement of the President that the German Government, while professing friendship, was plotting against the peace and security of this Government?

"Do you not believe that the German monarch and his Government in advance of the war planned and plotted the violation of their pledges to Belgium and the invasion of that country?

"Do you not believe that the German monarch and his Government planned and carried into execution the policy of terrorism and cruelty practiced upon the unarmed inhabitants of Belgium, and that the destruction of the private property, the violation of women, and the murder of civilians was extensively carried out without interference from the German monarch and his Government and in many instances with their direct sanction?

"If the pledges and agreements of the German monarch and his appointed Ministers are valueless as securities for peace, have you any suggestion as to how the Teutonic peoples, as distinguished from the present monarch and his appointed Ministers, may enter into any covenants that will be beyond the power of this monarch and his satellites to violate at will?"

TAFT OPPOSES PEACE TALK.

Asserts Prussian Military Caste Must Be Crushed First.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Ex-President Taft, recovering from the illness which recently detained him at Clay Centre, Kan., and on a convalescent trip to Canada, stopped in Chicago today long enough to eat breakfast.

"I am feeling much better, but I am not fully recovered," he said when asked about his condition.

Regarding the war situation and the Pope's peace proposal, Mr. Taft said:

"The Pope is for peace, of course. But no such proposal can or should have any result so long as Germany is, as it is, controlled by the Prussian military caste.

"One thing I don't like to see or hear is the suggestion of peace. People don't seem to realize what the situation means. That is, most of them have no idea of it. The others have other motives."

Washington Text of the Pope's Appeal Translated From Official Copy There

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The text of the Pope's peace proposal, of which the version issued by the London Foreign Office was printed in a late edition of THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning, was made public by the State Department today in the form of a translation from the French:

To the Rulers of the Belligerent Peoples:

From the beginning of our Pontificate, in the midst of the horrors of the awful war let loose on Europe, we have had of all things three in mind: to maintain perfect impartiality toward all the belligerents, as becomes him who is the common father and loves all his children with equal affection, continually to endeavor to do them the most good possible, without exception of person, without distinction of nationality or religion, as is dictated to us by the universal law of charity as well as by the supreme spiritual charge with which we have been intrusted by Christ; finally, as our pacifying mission likewise requires, to omit nothing, as far as it lay in our power, that could contribute to expedite the end of these calamities by endeavoring to bring the peoples and their leaders to more moderate resolutions in the serene deliberation of peace, of a "just and lasting" peace.

Whoever has watched our endeavors in these three grievous years that have just elapsed could easily see that, while we remained ever true to our resolution of absolute impartiality and beneficent action, we never ceased to urge the belligerent peoples and Governments again to be brothers, although all that we did to reach this very noble goal was not made public.

About the end of the first year of the war we addressed to the contending nations the most earnest exhortations, and in addition pointed to the path that would lead to a stable peace honorable to all. Unfortunately, our appeal was not heeded, and the war was fiercely carried on for two years more, with all its horrors. It became even more cruel, and spread over land and sea, and even to the air, and desolation and death were seen to fall upon defenseless cities, peaceful villages, and their innocent peoples.

And now no one can imagine how much the general suffering would increase if other months, or still worse, other years were added to this sanguinary triennium. Is this civilized world to be turned into a field of death, and is Europe, so glorious and flourishing, to rush, as carried by a universal folly, to the abyss and lend her hand to her own suicide?

In so distressing a situation, in the presence of so grave a menace, we, who have no personal political aim, who listen to the suggestions or interests of none of the belligerents, but are solely actuated by the sense of our supreme duty as the common father of the faithful, by the solicitations of our children who implore our intervention and peace-bearing word, uttering the very voice of humanity and reason—we again call for peace, and we renew a pressing appeal to those who have in their hands the destinies of the nations. But to be no longer confined to general terms, as we were led to do by circumstances in the past, we will now come to more concrete and practical proposals and invite the Governments of both belligerent peoples to arrive at an agreement on the following points, which seem to be the bases of a just and lasting peace, leaving it with them to make them more precise and complete.

First, the fundamental point must be that the material force of arms shall give way to the moral force of right, whence shall proceed a just agreement of all upon the simultaneous and reciprocal decrease of armaments, according to rules and guarantees to be established, in the necessary and sufficient measure for the maintenance of public order in every State; then, taking the place of arms, the institution of arbitration, with its high pacifying function, according to rules to be drawn in concert and under sanctions to be determined against any State which would decline either to refer international questions to arbitration or to accept its awards.

When supremacy of right is thus established, let every obstacle to ways of communication of the peoples be removed by insuring, through rules to be also determined, the true freedom and community of the seas, which, on the one hand, would eliminate any causes of conflict, and, on the other hand, would open to all new sources of prosperity and progress.

As for the damages to be repaid and the cost of the war, we see no other way of solving the question than by setting up the general principle of entire and reciprocal conditions, which would be justified by the immense benefit to be derived from disarmament, all the more as one could not understand that such carnage could go on for mere economic reasons. If certain particular reasons stand against this in certain cases, let them we weighed in justice and equity.

But these specific agreements, with the immense advantages that flow from them, are not possible unless territory now occupied is reciprocally restituted. Therefore, on the part of Germany, there should be total evacuation of Belgium, with guarantees of its entire political, military, and economic independence toward any power whatever; evacuation also of the French territory; on the part of the other belligerents, a similar restitution of the German colonies.

As regards territorial questions, as, for instance, those that are disputed by Italy and Austria, by Germany and France, there is reason to hope that, in consideration of the immense advantages of durable peace with disarmament, the contending parties will examine them in a conciliatory spirit, taking into account, as far as is just and possible, as we have said formerly, the aspirations of the population, and, if occasion arises, adjusting private interests to the general good of the great human society.

The same spirit of equity and justice must guide the examination of the other territorial and political questions, notably those relative to Armenia, the Balkan States, and the territories forming part of the old Kingdom of Poland, for which, in particular, its noble historical traditions and suffering, particularly undergone in the present war, must win, with justice, the sympathies of the nations.

These we believe are the main bases upon which must rest the future reorganization of the peoples. They are such as to make the recurrence of such conflicts impossible and open the way for the solution of the economic question, which is so important for the future and the material welfare of all of the belligerent States. And so, in presenting them to you, who at this tragic hour judge the destinies of the belligerent nations, we indulge a gratifying hope, that they will be accepted and that we shall thus see an early termination of the terrible struggle, which has more and more the appearance of a useless massacre.

Everybody acknowledges, on the other hand, that on both sides the honor of arms is safe. Do not, then, turn a deaf ear to our prayer, accept the international invitation which we extend to you in the name of the Divine Redeemer, Prince of Peace. Bear in mind your very grave responsibility to God and man. On your decision depend the quiet and joy of numberless families, the lives of thousands of young men, the happiness, in a word, of the peoples, for whom it is your imperative duty to secure this boon.

May the Lord inspire you with decisions conformable to His very holy will. May Heaven grant that in winning the applause of your contemporaries you will also earn from the future generations the great title of pacificators.

As for us, closely united in prayer and penitence with all the faithful souls who yearn for peace, we implore for you the divine spirit, enlightenment, and guidance.

to arbitration or to accept its decisions to be determined?

This part of the Papal argument is specially vitiated in British opinion by his reference to the "real liberty and community of the seas." Clear evidence of German influence is seen in the phrase that such freedom of the seas would eliminate manifold causes of conflict. Germany never claimed to have gone to war to obtain "freedom of the seas," which was never denied her in times of peace; but being in war wants to establish international laws for the sea which would bind other nations to whom international agreements were not scraps of paper.

Another part of the Papal message which meets with no approval here is the suggestion that the slate shall be wiped clean of all the aggressions and misdeeds of the last three years. This entire and reciprocal condonation would include everything from the invasion of Belgium to the sinking of the Lusitania.

Bitter feeling has been aroused here by the subsequent passage in the Papal message suggesting that the war is being continued for reasons of economic order. German publicists continually proclaim that America has gone into the war chiefly in hope of saving the money which her citizens have loaned to the Allies. Does this Teutonic theory enter into the Papal innuendo as to the reasons of economic order which contribute to the prosecution of the war?

"Does any one suppose they represent the unprompted thoughts and initiative of the Vatican? They are so clearly of Teutonic origin that they might just as well have been written in German. The hand is the hand of the Pope, but the voice is the voice of the Kaiser. The power of the Catholic Church is great. It has a footing and followers in all lands. It is the instrument, therefore, on which German diplomats most decidedly think it worth while to strike a few chords of peace. No German interest is harmed thereby; who knows that all German interests may not be furthered?

"Or take again the most ingenuous of the Pope's proposals, that the German colonies should be restored to Germany in return for the evacuation of Belgium and Northern France. There is not the slightest chance of the proposal being acted upon. The British Empire would fly to pieces if any such terms were entertained for a moment. That, precisely, is why they are put forward. The Germans calculate that the mere discussion of them would rouse doubts and dissensions."

The Daily News says the Pope's proposals are a series of aspirations, not a basis of settlement.

"If the Pope can persuade the warring nations to build on this foundation," it goes on, "well and good. Europe hastening to ruin will be immeasurably the gainer. It may be he has grounds for the belief that his efforts will be successful, but it must rest on some other basis than the proposals themselves. To take one instance only. Germany is not merely to evacuate Belgium, but to guarantee with other powers her 'full political independence as against any other power whatever.' It is a master stroke of irony, but is it quite in place in the middle of an earnest and evidently sincere appeal for peace?"

BRITISH ARMY MEN LAUD OUR SOLDIERS

Physique Magnificent and Faces Show They Have Brains as Well as Brawn, Says Expert.

ADMIRES THEIR EQUIPMENT

Distinguished Officer Amazed at the Smartness of Troops Who Have Drilled Only a Few Weeks.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—In addition to the spontaneous welcome that the American troops received from the vast crowds that saw them parade through the streets of London yesterday, their work and their marching and alignment earned the encomiums of British military men, who hardly expected so much from what, comparatively speaking, are raw levies.

On this point a distinguished British officer writes the following for THE NEW YORK TIMES:

"Considering that practically all the officers and men who marched through London as the vanguard of America's new armies were civilians only a few short weeks ago, that their period of training had been only a few weeks and that even that brief period had been cut into by a long ocean voyage, the impression they made was extremely favorable. Their marching was sometimes not as steady as it might have been; the distances were not well kept, the intervals between the units sometimes lengthening out to portentous proportions, and the handling of arms left a good deal to be desired, the rifles being sloped at all sorts of angles, and the piling of arms, when troops fell out, being rather badly done, but after all the piling of arms is a tricky business and can only be learned with time and practice. Time and practice will set right this as well as the other points noted.

"It may seem hypercritical to labor over such points, but we have found in the course of this war that smartness in saluting on parade, in close order drill and in the handling of arms is essential. It is the outward and visible sign of inward spiritual grace, and one famous English General has summed up the whole matter in the pithy apothegom that 'regiments that salute best fight best.' We still insist, therefore, on the old parade ground smartness, not by any means for its own sake, but as a means to an end, the end being the instilling of discipline, and it will be well for America if those who train her new armies follow the same methods as nearly as the differences of national temperament will allow.

"Seeing them march through London in column of fours, one is apt to forget that these men, and particularly their officers, are experts in their own line of work—probably without their equal in the world and certainly without superiors. But even regarded only as the raw material of infantry, they would make an unforgettable impression. Their physique is magnificent, their average height being, as I should estimate on a rough guess, about 5 feet 10 inches, with plenty of breadth in proportion, and one look at their keen, clear-cut faces is enough to tell the observer that they have brains as well as brawn.

"Their equipment was as good as such fine fellows deserve. Among other points in it noted by military observers was the poncho, this being carried on the person, slung from the waist belt when not in use. It has a distinct advantage over the ground sheet, the corresponding piece of the kit in the equipment of the English infrantryman, which has to be carried in wagons in the battalion first-line transport.

"The men were quite noticeably well shod, and their smart light canvas leggings are probably better legwear than our puttees, which, though they will keep out a certain amount of mud and water in slightly wet trenches, have to be discarded in Winter in favor of gum boots when the troops are holding really wet trenches, and in Summer they are dreadfully hot. Puttees are probably responsible for the prevalence in the British Army of varicose veins in the leg, and their one redeeming feature is that they may on occasion serve to gag or bind an abusive or recalcitrant Hun prisoner.

"Man for man, the 'Sammies' look smarter than the rank and file of the British Army, at least as far as uniforms are concerned, for that of Thomas Atkins is issued for purposes of economy. He has what are colloquially known as 'slackers,' namely, long trousers, which he wears without puttees in his hours of ease and over which he winds his puttees as best he can when on duty, whereas Sammy, in his well-cut knickers, from the waist down looks as smart as any English officer.

"Another point that caught my eye was the leather thong at the bottom of the officer's pistol holster. When he is riding this goes around the leg and keeps the holster snug to the thigh. This is a small point, but it is enough to show that the United States military authorities have not been slow to profit by the practical experience of the Western plainsman, and if the American soldier proves himself as good a man as the old-time Western cow puncher he will prove himself a very good man, indeed."

PREMIER IS ENTHUSIASTIC.

Friends Who Saw Him Since Parade Say He Is Full of the Subject.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—During his speech in the House of Commons today Premier Lloyd George made several references to America. From the Premier down all London is still talking of yesterday's march of the American troops. Friends who saw Lloyd George last night and today say he is full of the subject and enthusiastic in his characteristically whole-hearted fashion.

It would be impossible to exaggerate the impression made upon people here by the exhilarating spectacle of that long column of marching men who are forerunners of the millions whom America can put into the field if necessary. I say millions advisedly, for Washington knows the realities of the situation and has made its calculations.

"I wouldn't like to be in the shoes of the Germans when a few hundred thousand of these chaps begin to tumble over them," said an Englishman of experience today with reference to the physical quality of the men who followed Old Glory through the London streets. Another aspect of yesterday's march which cannot be overemphasized is the character of London's welcome. A police official whose experiences of London crowds dates back many years said there was only one demonstration in London's history that could be compared to yesterday's, and that was the welcome which was given to the City of London Volunteers when that corps, the own flesh and blood of the metropolis, returned from South Africa.

VON WALDOW TAKES OFFICE.

New Food Controller Has an Efficient Staff to Start With.

BERLIN, Aug. 15, (via London, Aug. 16.)—Germany's new food controller, Herr von Waldow, formerly Lord Lieutenant of the Province of Pomerania, today stepped into the position made vacant in the course of the recent Cabinet upheaval. As soon as the Reichstag has sanctioned the combination of the Imperial and Prussian Food Bureaus, von Waldow will attain the rank of a State Secretary, in which capacity he also will sit in the Bundesrat.

The unification of the German nation's food administration under one head promises to simplify and to make more effective the organization which, under Adolph von Batocki's management, already had reached a remarkable degree of efficiency.

The retiring controller, von Batocki, found chaos when he assumed office sixteen months ago. He bequeaths to his successor not only an efficient organization and an experienced staff of executives, but what interests the public in a great measure, a bumper crop of potatoes. Von Waldow is a Conservative. One of his under secretaries is a Social Democrat.

CHICAGO MAYOR'S PAPER BARRED FROM AURORA

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Mayor Thompson's idea of Americanism was repudiated today in Aurora when leading merchants stopped the circulation of The Republican, the Mayor's official organ, and threatened to "rail out of town" the man in charge of the circulation of the paper.

This man gave the name of William Stocker. He said he was a personal friend of Mayor Thompson, and that the paper was being circulated "for the purpose of giving Mayor Thompson's personal view on all matters of public import."

Stocker was advised to tell Mayor Thompson that the citizens of Aurora did not want him to visit the town.

"You tell Bill he had better keep out of Aurora, if he knows what's good for his skin," said one of the members of the delegation.

Stocker is employed as chief clerk in the City Attorney's Office.

Word reached the business men of Aurora that the Thompson organ was being distributed in the homes and street corners. First information was given by members of the Third Illinois Infantry, camped near Aurora. Copies of the paper were distributed at the camp, and after the soldiers read a few items they entered a vigorous protest with the leading citizens of the town.

"If something is not done we will get the fellow who is peddling this traitorous sheet," said one of the soldiers.

The town committee was composed of James McCredie, State Grand Warden of the Masonic Order; T. W. Sanders, a former Mayor of Aurora; Edward Dorchester, a former City Treasurer; John Holslag, former head of the State organization of Spanish War Veterans; John Walker, prominent in G. A. R. circles, and William Willett, one of the heads of a local public utility concern. They marched to the Bishop Hotel, where Stocker had engaged a room, and demanded that he come out. Stocker refused, and Sanders and McCredie forced their way into his room.

Five large bundles of The Republican were stacked in one corner of the room.

"We represent the merchants of Aurora, and demand of you not to distribute any more of those papers in this town," said McCredie. "We have sent many of our boys to fight for their country, and we are going to protect our cities while they are gone. The paper you have been circulating is not an American paper, and we don't want it here. We are here to serve notice upon you to take your papers and get out of the city or suffer the consequence."

Speakers at an impromptu meeting which appointed the committee expressed indignation at the entire tone of the paper, but were particularly aroused by one paragraph which read:

"All you have to do is to get Congress to declare war, hog tie the newspapers, muzzle the people, conscript an army, make the President one of these here 'Pooh-Bahs,' and then it will be 'King Woodrow.'"

FRENCH EDITOR A SUICIDE.

Had Been Accused of Having Dealings with the Enemy.

PARIS, Aug. 16.—The death in a prison infirmary yesterday of Miguel Almereyda, editor of the Bonnet Rouge, which was attributed at first to hemorrhage of the lungs, was said today by the Ministry of Justice to have been occasioned by strangulation. The autopsy showed strangulation to have been brought about by the use of a thin cord such as a shoestring.

M. Almereyda was under arrest on a charge of sedition. His apprehension was a sequel to that of another member of the Bonnet Rouge staff, upon whom a suspicious check for 150,000 francs was found on his arrival from Switzerland. A charge was preferred of having dealings with the enemy, and it is said this is to be changed to one of having treasonable relations with the enemy, involving transfer of the case to a court-martial, with the possibility of the infliction of the death penalty.

The case, which is being investigated by Magistrate Drioux, has developed considerably in the last few days. Search has been made of the houses of a number of persons connected with Almereyda and of the offices of the Tranchée Republicaine, an ultra-pacifist newspaper, and Les Nations, a publication of similar character. It is also reported that the authorities will examine a bank with a Russian name which is alleged to have drawn funds from a Berlin bank. One of the principals in the Paris institutions is said to have been a close friend of Almereyda.

M. Almereyda obtained prominence through the recent debate in the Senate, in which ex-Premier Clemenceau made a violent attack on Louis Malvy, Minister of the Interior, for his policy in regard to the treatment of enemy subjects suspected of espionage. Almereyda, who to a degree was acquainted with M. Malvy, was referred to frequently by M. Clemenceau.

WANT TO ADVERTISE LOAN.

Clubs' Advisory Board Puts $1,250,000 Plan Before McAdoo.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The National Advertising Advisory Board of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World today sent a delegation to Washington, headed by Herbert S. Houston of New York, Chairman of the board, to urge Secretary McAdoo to spend from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 in advertising the next issue of Liberty Loan bonds. The advertising of the first issue cost the Government nothing.

A detailed plan, originally outlined before the issuance of the first Liberty Loan bonds, was presented to Secretary McAdoo, calling for a division of the advertising among daily, weekly, and monthly publications, in addition to the utilization of posters, circulars, billboards, and other agencies. A program involving an expenditure of approximately $1,250,000 was outlined.

No decision was reached. Mr. McAdoo spoke of the difficulties under which the department would labor in attempting to place such advertising in a large way, and the limited appropriation placed at his disposal by Congress with which to bear all expenses of the issue.

FRENCH LOSE FOUR SHIPS.

Only One of Over 1,000 Tons—Six Italian Steamers Sunk.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—The weekly report of shipping losses gives one steamship of more than 1,600 tons and three of smaller size as having been sunk in the week ended Aug. 12, out of 1,010 arrivals and 1,028 clearances at French ports. Five French vessels were attacked unsuccessfully by submarines.

ROME, Aug. 16.—The Italian merchant marine losses for the week ended Aug. 12 comprise six steamers and five sailing vessels, one of the latter being above 100 tons. Five hundred and fifty vessels of all nationalities, of a tonnage of 330,245, entered port, and 509, of a tonnage of 414,775 left.

College for Women to Open—More Funds for Jewish Relief.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 16.—Ira Nelson Morris, the American Minister to Sweden, has received advices from Turkey that plans have been made to open the American College for Women at Constantinople Sept. 18.

The State Department at Washington has instructed Minister Morris to forward $25,000 for the continuation of soup kitchens and relief of Jews in Turkey.

ARMY ON REVIEW DELIGHTS SIBERT

Showing of Our Forces in France Amazes the General and All Who See the Parade.

COVER VALLEYS FOR MILES

Display Would Have Given Germans New Respect for Us, the Comment of an Officer.

AMERICAN FIELD HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 16, (By The Associated Press.)—The review yesterday by Major Gen. William L. Sibert of all the troops of his command in training for the trenches afforded a military spectacle of international significance and historic import. It was the first time the troops of this particular unit of the American army in France had been assembled in its entirety and the display was deeply impressive.

There have been other reviews of American troops in foreign lands—in the Philippines, Cuba, Guam, and Panama—but there seemed to be an entirely new meaning to the sturdy tramp of the men of America in France. One saw in them the symbol of their country's new adventure.

"They made me feel very proud," said General Sibert last night, echoing the sentiment of a small but enthusiastic handful of Americans who were permitted to see the martial display. The setting for the review was one of rare beauty. It was held upon a broad and somewhat rocky plateau in the rolling fields of France, rippling away in every direction, all green and brown with growing crops and ripening grain. Here and there picturesque little French villages, white-walled and red-roofed, snuggled amid the trees of matchless valleys. Occasionally these valleys were bathed in sunshine and again they were hidden in the gray mist of rain. The scene was one of changing brilliance and shadow, the deep blue of the harvest sky and dazzling August sun being masked now and then by masses of storm clouds driven along by a stiffening gale.

At one time during the review a rainstorm broke over the marching troops, but it was only of brief duration and there was not a falter in any part of the line. There is an officers' bombing school near the point where the review was held, and throughout the time the troops were assembling and marching by loud explosions of hand grenades gave a touch of war reality to the picture.

The troops were on the move early in the morning. They were scattered in a dozen or more villages and each regiment was assembled in a village where its headquarters had been established. The new army regiments are modeled on the European standard, quite different from the old American regiments, and when on the march yesterday in column of fours the line seemed to stretch an interminable distance along beautifully paved roads lined with giant trees. As the Americans passed through the villages en route to the reviewing field the French peasant folk gazed at them open-eyed in amazement and admiration. They have seen much of the American soldiers individually and in companies since their arrival, but this was the first gathering in force of the new ally, and the impression it made on the villagers, farmers, and French soldiers on leave could easily be seen and appreciated.

Even Sibert Surprised.

The French, who have been training companies and battalions of the American Army, were also surprised, and it can be truthfully stated that there was a distinct pause of surprise and admiration on the part of Major Gen. Sibert himself when, riding at the head of the staff, he reached the crest of the reviewing platform and saw his khaki-clad command drawn up in a wonderful far-flung line before him.

Attached to his staff were half a dozen French officers, including the General of a famous division, all of whom were enthusiastic in their praise of the spectacle. Major Gen. Sibert and staff slowly rode up and down before the various regiments drawn up at attention. The reviewing ground was staked out with American flags, and when the General had taken up his position the army began to move. The manoeuvres by which it broke from regimental fronts into lines of platoon would have done credit to soldiers with years of training behind them.

It was the first time an American army had passed in review under its new organization, and the display was a most imposing one. Marching in line of platoons means moving forward with four platoons abreast, each platoon being formed in columns of fours. The space between the platoons being considerable, the head and front of the marching column are fully 200 feet wide.

Each of the four platoons in a company seemed to be a full size company under the old order of things in the American Army. At the head of each regiment was a band playing marches, one of which, called "Happy Heinie," had a distinct smattering of Teutonic tones, much to the amusement of French military officers.

An incident of the review was the first appearance in line of new machine guns, which are carried on small carts instead of pack mules as formerly. Each cart is drawn by a mule driven by a soldier. The latter had a short but extremely interesting time training American mules. These little French vehicle mules, being used to working in double harness, rather protested against working singly. The result has been that during the last week stray mules have been encountered here and there about the camp with bits of carts and harness hanging about their necks. Even today some of the mules are inclined to be a bit playful, one dashing out of line just as he was passing the General. After a brief tour of the column in a wrong direction, he decided to be good, and the laughing driver soon had him in his proper place again. Some sent the carts by the reviewing party in a gallop, which rather recalled clown races at a circus.

As the marching troops reached a point some distance beyond the reviewing party they reformed into columns of fours, and thus stretched out they found their way along curving and descending roads. The brown mass seemed to pass as far as the eye could see.

Moving Pictures of Review.

While the review was held at a point so remote that only persons attached to the army organization were permitted to see it, moving pictures were made both by French and American official operators in order that the people throughout France and America might get an idea of the impressive appearance the troops made when first assembled. It was difficult to realize that they are the same men who landed in France a few weeks ago.

In telling of his pride in his command General Sibert said: "I am particularly proud of the showing the men made today, for they were not parading before admiring crowds either of home folks or foreign friends. It was merely a military manoeuvre for them, and they did it splendidly.

"I was surprised at their facility at field manoeuvres considering the fact that since they have been here their training consisted almost wholly of the technical side of trench warfare with all the new paraphernalia of offensive and defensive tactics. During their spare time away from trench practice they have been drilled in close-order tactics, but today they had opportunity to show what they could do in the field. The result was most gratifying and encouraging."

The place and hour of the review were not disclosed until the day before. "Was this to avoid a possible visit from a hostile airplane?" a young officer was asked.

"All I can say to that," he answered, "is that I wish old Brother Boche could have seen that show today. It would have given him a new respect for America's effort."

Several officers commented on the fact that never before had the attempted nickname of "Sammy" seemed so inane and so unsuited to the American troops as when, stalwart, bronzed, and splendid in every way, they marched by in salute of Major General Sibert yesterday.

GERMANS HEAR OF OUR ARMY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 16.—The Hamburger Fremdenblatt, commenting on the arrival of the American troops in France, publishes a report from Berne, which says:

"As for the Americans, an acquaintance assisted at their arrival. The enthusiasm with which they were received from the beginning is understandable. It is an extraordinary crowd, and one can see that they are descended from immigrants.

"A number of the officers are millionaires' sons, who arrived on their own yachts.

"The Americans, like the English formerly, do not believe they can be shot to pieces in this war. For some reason they are not allowed to go to the front. They have arrived in the war zone, and now replace French troops who have left for the firing line."

The paper says bad feeling has been created in France by these measures. It says the Americans take life easily in their new surroundings.

AGITATION FOR STRIKE RENEWED IN GERMANY

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 16.—A renewal of strike agitation in war industries, evidently on the part of the extreme Socialists, is reported from Berlin. A semi-official notice says that circulars are being distributed in munition factories advocating a walkout.

The notice appeals to the workmen not to be misled and not to desert and betray their brothers fighting in the west and east.

HALVE BERLIN GAS SUPPLY.

Coal Shortage Causes Restriction—Newspapers Reflect Indignation.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 16.—New gas regulations have been issued in Berlin which virtually put the ordinary consumers of gas on half rations from now on. The new orders are made necessary by the inability of the gas works to obtain a sufficient supply of coal. Similar measures are impending throughout the empire.

The announcement of the new orders unloosed a general storm of indignation. The Berlin newspapers demand to know how home life will be possible with the household supply of fuel reduced so greatly. According to the newspapers, the hot water supply in homes is limited to certain hours three days a week, and the use of alcohol and kerosene for cooking is prohibited; no substitute lighting methods are available, and now the use of gas for cooking virtually is barred.

Indications in the papers are that the outburst of indignation is not unwelcome to the Imperial Commissioner of Gas and Electricity and the authorities of the municipalities, who charge that coal is being kept at the mines in order to manufacture briquettes. A humorous side is added by the announcement of the suspension of lectures on modes of preserving fruits and vegetables "because no way is known of cooking or preserving without fire."

DISCUSS 'GERMAN REPUBLIC'

Kuno Francke Says It Cannot Be—James M. Beck Sees Hope.

Harpers Magazine for September publishes a debate between Professor Kuno Francke, Honorary Curator of the Germanic Museum at Harvard University, and James M. Beck, lawyer and former Assistant Attorney General of the United States, on the subject: "Is There to be a German Republic?"

Professor Francke's answer is "No." He believes the monarchical Government will prevail, first, because the Socialist agitation against it is mostly "demonstration," and, second, because "no princely family has been a better representative" of the traditions and teachings that have made the Germans a great people than the Hohenzollerns. Mr. Beck takes the opposite position, suggesting that the belief of the German people in this "princely family" may suffer changes when it becomes known that it deliberately deceived its subjects as to the causes of the war.

"Can it reasonably be denied," asks Professor Francke, "that the extraordinarily high state of public organization and individual efficiency by which Germany during the last thirty years has outstripped most other nations is to a very large extent the result of the moral self-discipline ingrained in the German people through centuries of monarchial tradition?" He adds that "no princely family has been a better representative of this tradition than the Hohenzollerns."

Enumerating the many achievements of the Germans under the Hohenzollern rule, he says: "All of this is closely bound up with what Germans feel for the Hohenzollern dynasty and its part in building up a great and powerful empire; and all of it will help prevent a violent disruption of the monarchical foundations of the German constitution."

Mr. Beck calls attention to an important omission in Professor Francke's thesis—the possibility of a German defeat.

"His article would be more illuminating," writes Mr. Beck, "if he had told us what would happen to the Imperial Government if the war's result should be for Germany a Jena and not a Sedan. He also fails to tell us what the German citizen will think when he learns the full truth as to its origin, and when he realizes, as realize he must in due time, that Germany could have avoided this war, with all its infinitely tragic suffering, had its Imperial Government shown any yielding spirit to the almost pathetic pleading of Russia, France and Great Britain for any peaceful adjustment of the controversy. The deliberate deceit then practiced upon the German people will also be an element in the reckoning."

Mr. Beck calls attention to the fact that the solidarity of the German people at the beginning of the war was due to the belief that in the midst of Germany's "mediatory" influences to avert war Russia struck a treacherous blow, and predicts that when the truth is known the German masses will be "less concerned about the domestic political problems which Dr. Francke discusses, and more with the criminal folly of this atrocious war and the responsibility of their autocratic Government for all its unprecedented horrors."

Mr. Beck refuses to believe the Socialists of Germany are merely making meaningless gestures in demanding reforms and the abolition of the monarchical form of Government, and quotes editorials from Vorwärts in the days immediately preceding the war to show that the German Socialists realized the great iniquity contemplated by Germany and Austria in bringing on a world conflict.

"Germany may remain an empire," writes Mr. Beck, "and no one can ignore the possibility that the Kaiser may retain his throne, with or without his present powers. But is it not also possible that with the defeat of Germany the Emperor will share the fate of Napoleon III?

"May it not become apparent to every intelligent German, when this war is ended, that the only hope of a durable peace and the only possibility for Germany to enjoy on equal terms fellowship with the free States of the world, lies in the abolition of its mediaeval monarchy, and the substitution either of a limited monarchy, with a different dynasty, or a republic?"

MACKENSEN TAKES 3,554 MEN, 16 GUNS

PETROGRAD ADMITS DEFEAT

Also Tells of Strategic Withdrawal by the Rumanians on Moldavian Border.

BERLIN, Aug. 16, (via London.)—Russian and Rumanian forces which had held the western bank of the River Sereth, on the Rumanian front, yesterday were driven across the river by troops of Field Marshal von Mackensen, according to the statement today of the German General Staff. More than 3,500 prisoners were taken and sixteen guns were captured. The statement follows:

Front of Archduke Joseph: In the mountains south of the Trotus Valley German and Austro-Hungarian troops during pursuit engagements broke down many times the resistance of enemy rearguards.

Front of Field Marshal von Mackensen: North of Strakani and Pantziu Prussian and Bavarian regiments successfully warded off numerous attacks by Rumanian and fresh Russian forces. On the Sereth the enemy, who was still holding the western bank, was driven back over the river by a powerful attack by our troops. Fifty four officers, including some Frenchmen, 3,500 men, sixteen guns, and over fifty machine guns remained in our hands.

The text of the communication says:

Western Front—Animated fusillades have taken place in the direction of Dvinsk, Vilna, and Baranovichi.

Rumanian Front — Between the Rivers Dniester and Pruth there has been lively artillery firing. In the direction of Sasbrezina one of our "Battalions of Death," by a dashing assault, carried a series of positions sversts east of Mount Bermalui. In the direction of Onic the enemy made no attack.

For strategic reasons the Rumanian troops on the night of the 14th were withdrawn from the Kragoslava-Kosako-Lakiul front to the line of Soveia-Monastirsk - Voloshkani. During the night and the entire day of the 15th the enemy conducted a series of attacks in the valley of the Suchitza and on the front of Voloshkani and Irestchidesus. All of them were repulsed by Rumanians, supported by our infantry.

In the direction of Fokshani, since the morning of the 15th, the Germans have renewed their offensive. More energetic attacks were directed against Strakani and Krucheadesus. Under strong pressure from the Germans our troops retired to Muncheliu and Monass, while some Rumanian detachments retired to Movilitsa.

Caucasus Front—In the direction of Kharput the Turks, about a battalion and a half strong, with several thousand Kurds, after artillery preparation began an offensive the morning of the 14th in the region of Mount Salvus Dag and Pelimer. The Kurdish offensive was repulsed, and only in the region of Mount Salvus did they succeed in moving forward a little.

In the Baltic, in the region of the Aland Archipelago, a torpedo boat was blown up and destroyed by an enemy mine. Twenty-four men perished.

Tuesday night our airmen made a flight over the Courland coast. They dropped bombs and caused conflagrations. In the direction of Vilna our artillery brought down two German airplanes. West of Krevo our airplanes dropped bombs in the rear of the enemy positions.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 16.—The War Office announces a strategic withdrawal by the Rumanians to the Soveia-Monastirsk-Voloshkani line. Russian forces on the Rumanian front withdrew under pressure to Muncheliu and Monass, and Rumanians to Movilitsa, in the Fokshani area.

A Russian torpedo boat was destroyed by a mine in the Baltic. A German steamship was sunk in the Gulf of Bothnia by a Russian submarine.

SOLDIERS JEERED EX-CZAR.

He Begged to be Allowed to Go to Crimea When Taken Away.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 16.—Further details are published concerning the removal of Nicholas Romanoff from the former Imperial Palace at Tsarskoe Selo. When the train which was to carry the former Emperor arrived it bore prominent placards and contained one armored car, and on the platform of each car were four soldiers with fixed bayonets. The former Emperor at the last moment, says one newspaper, begged to be allowed to reside in the Crimea, but this was refused. As the train pulled out the soldiers shouted derisively at the former ruler of Russia. The location of the new prison remains a mystery, but the impression grows that it will be Siberia.

The Izvestiya, the organ of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, protests against the secrecy surrounding the former Emperor's removal. It says it indicates the Government's distrust of the people and the insecurity of the revolution.

At Tsarskoe Selo the palace is being overhauled. The rooms occupied by Nicholas had been sealed up. It is said that at the different imperial palaces at Tsarskoe Selo, Peterhof, Gatchina, Livadia, and elsewhere there are 25,000 servants, nearly all of whom have lost their means of livelihood through the success of the revolution.

Reports Bethmann Will Study Art.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 16. — Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg, the former German Imperial Chancellor, who retired last month to his estate in Hohenfinow, will soon go to Munich, Bavaria, according to the Berlin Lokal-Anzeiger, and devote his time there to the study of art.

LLOYD GEORGE SHOWS U-BOAT WAR FAILS

have achieved results which never have been achieved by any free, and still less by any unfree, country in the history of the world. The military situation causes me no anxiety or apprehension. I look forward with confidence to the future, because I have not abated my belief in the justice of our cause."

Kennedy Jones, former Director of Food Economy, declared that friends of Germany had begun the present peace offensive and that the time had come when an end ought to be made to it by a decided and clear statement to the mischievous suggestions that Great Britain might be ready to make an inconclusive peace. He believed that Germany, despite internal trouble, would be able to hol dher people together by iron discipline. He said the blockade could not have a decisive effect unless the pressure became greater.

This being the last business session of the House prior to adjournment to Oct. 16, Noel Billing asked whether Premier Lloyd George could give assurance that in the event of a "social, military, or political crisis" during the recess steps would be taken to reassemble Parliament. Chancellor Bonar Law replied affirmatively.

Mr. Billing asked whether Parliament would be reassembled in the event of an armistice.

"I should consider an armistice a crisis," the Chancellor replied.

FINNISH CABINET OUT; GENERAL STRIKE CALLED

Food Scarcity Causes Crisis — Governor General Asks Tokoi to Form Socialist Ministry.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 16.—Disorders occasioned by the scarcity of food have led to a Cabinet crisis. The Senators have requested the Governor General to transmit their resignations to the Provisional Government.

The Governor General has asked M. Tokoi, Vice President of the Department of Economica and former President of the Diet, to form a Socialist Cabinet. He has accepted.

A general strike has been declared.

KINGDON GOULD MAKES NO EXEMPTION CLAIM

Bride, Anxious for Him to Do His Bit, Thinks She Can Skimp Along in His Absence.

Kingdon Gould, son of George J. Gould, had not filed the affidavits necessary to support his claim for exemption from the draft up to noon yesterday, when the time limit expired, and his friends said last night that he had abandoned all thought of trying to avoid military service. Mr. Gould appeared before the Exemption Board at Toms River, N. J., on Aug. 6 and received an exemption blank, at his request, on the same day. His claim was based on the fact that he had a wife depending upon him for support. Early in the previous month Mr. Gould had married Miss Annunziata Camilla Maria Lucci, an Italian girl who had been studying art in New York City, and his explanation of his request for an exemption blank was that he was not as wealthy as many persons supposed, and his wife would be in financial straits if he went into the national army. The following day, however, Mr. Gould was quoted as saying that he thought his wife could "skimp through" even if he went into the army.

"Nobody has any idea of how my finances stand," he was quoted as saying. "I am not wealthy. People, it seems, merely think that the name of Gould should mean that one has great wealth. The only thought in my mind [when he asked for the exemption blank] was whether my wife could skimp through in my absence. That led me to declare an intention to claim exemption."

He added that after talking the matter over with his wife, who was anxious for him to do his bit, he decided not to press his exemption claim. Under the law he would have been required to submit affidavits from his wife and a disinterested party alleging the dependency of his wife, but as he had filed neither of these affidavits yesterday, he is now in the army.

RUSHES WAR REVENUE BILL.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The Senate made swift progress with the War Revenue bill today, and this evening Senator Simmons, Chairman of the Finance Committee, said he felt certain that a vote on the measure would be reached by the end of next week.

Up to tonight the Senate had disposed of sections involving $400,000,000 of the aggregate levy carried in the bill of $2,006,790,000. Nearly all of the minor tax levies are already disposed of. Tomorrow the Senate will take up the features upon which the fight is to come. These embrace taxes on excess war profits, stamp taxes, income taxes, and the public utility taxes. One of the sections adopted today was that providing for excise taxes on alcoholic drinks, which will yield $201,000,000. There was only brief debate upon this, Senator Jones of Washington insisting that the tax on alcoholic drinks should be vastly greater. The tax on soft drinks, amounting to $11,000,000, was also approved.

The provisions approved today include:

Sections levying $140,000,000 additional taxes on distilled and rectified spirits, and including clauses effective during the war prohibiting their importation and providing a prohibitory tax of $60 per 100 pounds upon their further manufacture from foodstuffs.

Increase of revenues from beer and other malt and fermented liquors of $46,000,000, as compared with $37,500,000 under the House bill.

Virtually all of the stamp taxes proposed, except that of bank checks and parcel post packages, which went over.

The amusement tax section, estimated to raise $23,000,000, compared with $60,000,000 proposed by the House, with the House tax on club dues eliminated.

Elimination of the House general tariff levy of 10 per cent. ad valorem, and of the House taxes on jewelry, musical instruments, and moving picture films.

The Senate also adopted committee amendments for a new tax upon cameras to raise $500,000, and for reduction of the manufacturers' gross sales tax from 5 to 2 per cent. on perfumery and patent medicines. Committee changes reducing the rates on sporting goods to raise $800,000, instead of $2,000,000, and for a substitute tax on yachts and other pleasure boats also were accepted.

AMERICA'S PEACE EFFORTS.

Dutch Author Points Out Consistent Policy of This Country.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 16.—The Netherlands League to Enforce Peace recently published a pamphlet by Dr. Alfred Fried on "America's Rôle in the History of Peace." It points out that the Central Powers have endeavored to prove that America's participation in the war was due to self-interest, but this, Dr. Fried says, is false. He explains in extenso what America has done from 1794 to 1917 for international peace, arguing that President Wilson's speech of Feb. 22 last was nothing but the logical result of his political ideas.

The publication begins with a review of the Jay treaty between England and America in 1794, which the writer points out formed the basis for many cases of arbitration which would otherwise have been settled by force. Dr. Fried further argues that at The Hague Conference the American delegates were especially active in propagating the idea of a permanent court of arbitration. President Roosevelt was the first who gave work to The Hague court, regarding Mexican affairs. "From America," he goes on, "came support for the second peace conference, where the American representatives pleaded for forced arbitration and worked for the development of arbitration treaties."

The writer then refers to the American League to Enforce Peace, which was born in America, and to the Institute for International Law, adding that after the failure of America to make universal arbitration treaties she essayed to make the so-called Bryan treaties.

Commenting on this pamphlet the Nieuwe Courant says Dr. Fried shows that America's entrance into war, whether right or wrong, was not instigated through hypocrisy in Mr. Wilson's peace policies, as these were according to America's peace history during more than a century.

PICK BERNSTORFF FOR PORTE

Will Succeed Kuehlmann as Envoy, Berlin Forecasts.

BERLIN, Aug. 15, (via London, Aug. 16.)—The appointment of Count von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States, as Ambassador at Constantinople is forecast. Count von Bernstorff arrived in Berlin today and has been in conference with Chancellor Michaelis.

The former Ambassador at Washington is well acquainted with conditions in Turkey and the Balkans. His first diplomatic assignment was as an embassy attaché at Constantinople thirty years ago. Later he was secretary of the legation at Belgrade, and he has been Consul General in Egypt.

SKY RAID ON VENICE ENDS IN DISASTER

Several Austrian Machines Are Brought Down and Four Occupants Captured Alive.

ITALIANS SUPREME IN AIR

Huge Capronis in Ever-Increasing Numbers Rain Death and Destruction on Pola and Other Points.

By PERCEVAL GIBBON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 15.—Italy has taken to the air like a duck to water. Aviation is becoming a national industry. For instance, this morning's Milan papers are on sale in this little town where the Staff has its home seven hours before they could arrive by train, having been freighted hither by a great Caproni which recently took part in the bombing of Pola. Several aeroplane mails are running on various routes in Italy with fair regularity, while at the same time aerial warfare is spreading, developing and becoming more characteristic of the fighting on this fantastic front.

I had a talk with the aviator who brought the newspapers and asked him regarding the damage in Pola, which he has actually seen. He replied that he saw many fires which he ascribed to various localities and establishments of the dockyard, but was also personally convinced that two Austrian submarines were struck and sunk, while a number of other ships at anchor or moored to wharves were hit and damaged or set on fire. He said the Austrians were plentifully supplied with fast fighting machines, but rarely engaged in an aerial duel if able to avoid it.

He gave me a brilliant impromptu word picture of the scene as he looked down on Pola, showing pale in the darkness with a shifting tangle of searchlights sprouting from it and gun flashes of anti-aircraft artillery lighting it up in momentary illumination. The last he saw as he turned homeward was a silhouette of the town against flames, and the red glow of burning buildings wonderfully reflected in the waters of the Adriatic.

This airman's opinion that Austrian aviators avoid duels is partially confirmed by the practical immunity with which Italians carry out elaborate bombing expeditions. Two such took place yesterday, twice in the same day. Powerful squadrons of huge Caproni machines escorted by battleplanes winged over the high peaks of the Carnic Alps and swooped upon the railway junction of Assling, near Willach. This is a nodal point of Austrian communications and is always crowded with war traffic. The Italians sprinkled the station, roads, depots, and adjoining ground with over six tons of huge explosive and incendiary bombs, setting many structures on fire, hitting the station, and generally scattering the Austrian arrangements. In the afternoon they repeated the dose without losing a single man or machine on either occasion.

An Austrian attempt to imitate these tactics in a raid on Venice finished in disaster. It is still uncertain how many machines were destroyed by the Italian airmen and guns, but two fliers were brought down and captured with a Colonel and a Major. Two other prisoners were also captured alive and two recovered dead, while other machines were seen to fall in flames.

The Italians promptly initiated a reprisal raid, shelling the coast and a squadron of Austrian destroyers, at least one of which appears to have been hit. Again the Italian machines returned undamaged.

Reports Many Fires in Venice.

VIENNA, Aug. 16, (via London.)—Four tons of bombs were dropped by airplanes Tuesday morning on the Maritime Arsenal at Venice, causing a number of conflagrations, according to the official statement of the Austrian War Office. The announcement follows:

In the Italian theatre numerous air encounters occurred over the Isonzo Tuesday. Five enemy aviators were brought down. As a reprisal for the last aerial attack on Pola a large number of airplanes attacked the Maritime Arsenal at Venice early Tuesday morning.

Notwithstanding weather conditions, strong gunfire and the enemy's defending aviators, ours met with very good success. We observed from a low altitude good hits by heavy and light bombs, of which four tons were dropped. Conflagrations were observed.

Three of our airplanes are missing. The enemy torpedo unit retreated before our flotilla, which covered the aviators, and enemy bombs were dropped unsuccessfully on this flotilla and Parenzo, (a seaport of Austria-Hungary in Istria.)

ROME, Aug. 16.—The official statement issued today by the Italian War Department says:

A delayed report of yesterday's operation reads:

An enemy party which attacked our positions at the head of the Padola Valley was repulsed after a heavy hand-to-hand struggle.

Yesterday one of our large bombardment flights, strongly escorted, reached the important railway centre at Assling in the Sava Valley, with the object of damaging it and interrupting the intense traffic of the enemy there.

The second flight, as powerful as the first, was repeated in the afternoon, the operation having as an objective the steel works in the same locality. The results were very satisfactory. Explosive bombs of medium and large size and also incendiary bombs were dropped, six and a half tons in all, and direct hits were obtained on some works, while other buildings, including the railway station, were set afire.

All our airplanes returned after this most daring operation, which was most difficult on account of the distance to the centre of bombardment.

DENIES OUR TROOPS HAVE BEEN IN ACTION

War Department Promptly Answers London Report That Soldiers Were Wounded in France.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Emphatic denial was made by the War Department today of a report that any American troops in France had been in action. According to a London dispatch, The London Daily News has published the statement that wounded American soldiers from the Western front had just arrived at the hospital at Bath. Neither the War nor the Navy Department had any information on the reported wounding of American troops. Prompt official announcement is promised when such information is received, provided it will be compatible with military interests. The authorized denial reads:

"The War Department authorizes the statement that no information has been received concerning the wounding of any American soldiers, or of the arrival of wounded at any English or other port, of any battle, accident, or disaster in which American soldiers might have been injured. In all cases such information will be given to the public as soon as possible."

SAYS GERMAN LEADERS MUST MAKE NEW MOVE

Berlin Observer Would Overwhelm French Before America Can Give Much Aid.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 16. — General von Ardenne, military critic of the Berlin Tageblatt, warns the German military leaders that they must bestir themselves to find some strategic or tactical means of winning a decisive victory on the western front, and of defeating England, the soul of the hostile coalition, on land. Otherwise, he says, there is no hope of bringing the war to an honorable end for Germany.

German leadership, General Ardenne maintains, has always been able to direct the campaign into new courses, when stagnation threatened, and he adds that the Germans are entitled to believe that methods will be found to force mighty England through battles on land to seek peace.

The military critic intimates this might be done by an attempt to overwhelm the French Army, which he assumes is weakened and discouraged, before the arrival of American assistance, which, he says, would leave England isolated.

J. C. Murray Repudiates Efforts of Sister to Keep Him Out of the New Army.

Louis I. Cherey and Samuel J. R. Bernfeld of local Exemption Board 99, who were removed by order of President Wilson and indicted by the Federal Grand Jury for alleged conspiracy to falsify the examinations of men of draft age and with acceptance of a bribe to exempt one Jacob Skwirsky, will go on trial in the Federal District Court next Monday morning. The trial will be the first in this country to involve men appointed by the President to aid in the selection of men for service with the first of the great national armies.

Kalman Gruher, who is a co-defendant of the ousted board members, will go on trial at the same time.

All three ment were arraigned before United States District Judge A. N. Hand yesterday, and all entered pleas of not guilty. K. Henry Rosenberg and Isidor Schlessinger asked for a postponement, but Judge Hand refused, saying that if the defendants were innocent that "innocence can best be proved by a speedy trial of the indictments."

The case will come to trial before Judge Martin T. Manton next Monday morning.

Sixty-six district boards in this city reported yesterday that 4,462 men were examined, of whom 1,498 were enrolled. This makes a total to date of 21,942 men obtained in New York for the national army.

The work of re-examining the hundreds of men who appeared before Cherey and Bernfeld when they were members of Board 99 continued yesterday. The new board was in session all day and did not adjourn until late last night. Many men who had previously been certified as fit for service have been found to be disqualified by the new examiners. The men who were exempted by the old board are now being examined.

One man rejected by the new board, the medical member of which is Dr. Louis Spanier, was twice passed by the old board. This man is Morris Rosenblum of 316 Rivington Street.

J. C. Murray No Slacker.

The effort of a sister to obtain the exemption of a brother who had waived exemption on the plea that the brother was the sole support of herself, her two children, and her father was brought to the attention of Deputy Attorney General Roscoe S. Conkling yesterday, when a letter was received from James C. Murray, 415 West Twenty-fourth Street, the young man whose exemption was sought.

The letter, addressed to "The War Department," is as follows:

New York, Aug. 15

Adjutant General, War Department.

Dear Sir: I passed the physical examination for the draft army on Aug. 6 last, at Eighteenth Street, near Ninth Avenue. My married sister saw my name in the newspapers later and reported to the Exemption Board at that place, that I supported her, her two children, and also my father. My sister does not want me to go to war. She is married and her husband gets a salary of $25 a week. I have never had to contribute one cent to her support, since she married.

My father has gone to live with another sister, who is married and who is wealthy. I have an able-bodied brother, 35 years old, who works every day and is willing to support my father if necessary. I am willing to give two-thirds of my salary as a soldier to the support of my father, which, however, you will find is not necessary if you investigate this case. Hoping that you will give this letter attention, I remain,

JAMES C. MURRAY.

Mr. Murray's letter is displayed in Mr. Conkling's office in the State Arsenal. Immediately after he received the letter he sent the following acknowledgment.

James C. Murray, 415 West Twenty-fourth Street, New York City.

Your letter received. I would like to shake hands with you because you represent the real American spirit. If I can help you, call here personally and insist on seeing me.

ROSCOE S. CONKLING.

Sam Kozen Makes Protest.

Here is another letter received by Mr. Conkling. It was forwarded to him by Chairman J. L. Benham of Local Board 68 in Brooklyn:

To Local Exemption Board 68, Arion Place and Beaver Street, Brooklyn:

Gentlemen: I herewith notify you that, although I submitted to registration and now appear pursuant to your call, I refuse to submit to physical examination, since I understand that the submission to physical examination means that I shall lose my identity as a human being and become either a human target or the bullet that will kill another human target. Every moral fibre in me cries out at this foolishness, this insanity, this stupid, foolish old game of war.

SAM KOZEN, 225 Varet Street.

Mr. Conkling did not send Kozen a telegram. Instead, he turned the letter over to the proper Federal official for such further action as may be necessary under the law.

On Ellis Island, and sentenced to deportation as "a Chinese laborer," is one Yee Sing. Yesterday Yee Sing sent word to Mr. Conkling that his friends were going to secure his release from Ellis Island by furnishing the cash bond demanded by the Government.

"I am only a Chinaman," said Yee Sing, "but I would like to fight. I am of draft age, am registered, have been called, and if I pass my examination I am not going to claim exemption. I sure hope you accept me."

Board 120 notified Mr. Conkling last night that it has obtained its full quota of 196 men, and that it has twenty other men, who have also waived exemption, in reserve. Board 17, in the Bronx, also officially reported that its quota of 108 men has been obtained, and that it has a reserve surplus of twenty-two eligibles who have waived all exemption claims. Board 164 is another board which officially announces that its quota of 195 is ready for service whenever called.

Charles Royal Danzer, who is subject to the draft, and who has been passed by Board 89, has filed an appeal for exemption from service with the district board, of which Charles E. Hughes is the Chairman. Danzer is a cook employed by Julius Kruttschnitt, a member of the Railroad Committee of the National War Board. The local board refused to exempt Danzer, whereupon he appealed and asked to be excused from service with the army on the ground that his services as cook for Mr. Kruttschnitt renders him indispensable to the health and safety of the railroad official.

The members of the nine district boards of New York State met for a conference in the Bar Association Building yesterday. Mr. Hughes presided at the joint meeting, one of the outcomes of which is expected to be the adoption of uniform regulations to govern the course to be pursued in granting exemption from service in all parts of the State. A committee of fourteen, of which Mr. Hughes is Chairman, was named to draw up regulations.

Urges Exemption of Police.

Judge Ingraham, who is Vice Chairman of the New York City Board, brought up the situation in the Police Department of New York. There are on the force, he said, more than 3,000 men of draft age. Mr. Hughes also referred to the police situation, and said that in his opinion it is of the gravest importance to New York City to have its police force exempted from the military service. It is a matter, Mr. Hughes added, that deserves immediate attention on the part of the proper officials.

"We can get the army and at the same time maintain the security of our city," said Mr. Hughes.

As the law now stands there is no way of exempting policemen. Only an executive order of the President can make this possible. It is probable that the matter will be brought to President Wilson's attention at an early date.

Ralph Peters, President of the Long Island Railroad and a member of the Long Island board, called attention to the great number of men in his district who are claiming exemption because they are "farmers." Mr. Peters said that in his opinion common sense and justice should rule in decisions in all cases in which the man of draft age seeks exemption on agricultural grounds.

The District Board will convene in a public session at 10 o'clock this morning in the Federal Building. A large number of decisions in exemption cases is expected to be handed down.

Rejected once by his exemption board as physically unfit, Maurice J. Carroll of 12 East Polk Avenue, Corona, a teacher in Public School No. 145, Brooklyn, has asked the board to give him another examination. Mr. Carroll writes as follows to R. Leslie Smith, Chairman of Draft Board 174, at Woodside, L. I.:

"On August 3 I was examined by your board, and, my name not appearing among those published as accepted, I presume I was rejected. Since the physical requirements have been made less stringent, may I not be granted a re-examination?"

Mr. Smith yesterday notified Carroll that he would have the chance to join the national army that he desires.

RECEPTION TO BELGIANS.

Visiting Mission Will Be Welcomed by the City on Tuesday.

Tentative plans for a reception to the Belgian War Commission when it comes to New York City next Tuesday have been completed. The members of the mission expressed the desire that the reception be a simple one, and for this reason the only official function will be a reception in the Aldermanic Chamber at the City Hall. The members of the misssion will stop at the Hotel Biltmore. The speakers at the City Hall reception will be the Mayor, Frederic R. Coudert, and Baron Moncheur of the mission. The Mayor yesterday appointed a citizens' committee of 1,000 to officially welcome the mission. Mr. Coudert is Chairman of the General Committee; George T. Wilson, Chairman of the Executive Committee; George Featherstone, Secretary, and Oliver Harriman, Chairman of the Finance Committee.

From there they will be escorted to the City Hall, where the ceremonies will begin at 11:30 A. M. At 2:30 P. M. the party will leave the Biltmore for a motor trip through Brooklyn. On Wednesday the mission will visit West Point as the guests of the War Department.

NEED NO INTERPRETERS.

War College Asserts Enough Have Volunteered for Service Abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—No more interpreters are wanted just now for use with American forces going abroad. Announcement was made by the War College Division of the General Staff today that applications for positions as interpreters have been so numerous that the War Department's present need for such service can be readily met from the list on file.

"The War College," said the official announcement, "is gratified at the spirit in which its appeal for such assistance has been met, but desires to advise that it is not worth the while of individuals desiring such positions to make further applications for the time being."

JAPANESE OFF FOR CAPITAL.

Ishii Asserts Germany Cannot Now Separate America and Japan.

A PACIFIC PORT, Aug. 16.—"We now know that nothing our enemies may do to divide us can succeed," was the farewell declaration tonight of Viscount Ishii, head of the Japanese War Mission to the United States, when the mission left for Washington.

"What more can I say?" he asked. "Neither your language nor mine supplies me with sufficient vocabulary adequately to express my appreciation of our welcome. The genuine sincerity of the greeting you have given us is, I can assure you, reciprocated in the sense of obligation and appreciation felt by the entire Japanese nation."

Breckenridge Long, Third Assistant Secretary of State, accompanied the mission as the representative of the United States Government.

MRS. PANKHURST ARRESTED

REFORMS FOR POLAND.

Central Powers Said to be Ready to Offer a Regency.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Reuter, Limited, says it learns on good authority that German concessions in Poland are expected shortly, but that they will be conditional on Austria's approval.

It is probable, says the news agency, that the Central Powers will offer a regency composed of three eminent Polish politicians and a Ministerial Cabinet and Council of State which will not have as members any person who belongs to the Provisional Council of State, the ground being taken that the latter individuals have lost Poland's confidence.

Want Million Coupons for Soldiers.

The Coupon Department of the Trench Comfort Packets Committee is collecting a million cigar and tobacco coupons and trading stamps of all kinds to be exchanged for articles for comfort packets to be sent to American soldiers for Christmas gifts. Mrs. Frederic Elser, head of the Coupon Department, issued an appeal yesterday for all persons who receive coupons to send them to the committee at 8 East Eighty-fourth Street.

GOMPERS DENOUNCES WORKMEN'S COUNCIL

Calls It Anti-American and Pro-German — Assails Its Resolution.

SAYS LABOR WILL FIGHT IT

Asserts That Charge That He Agreed to Surrender Industry's Rights Is "a Plain Lie."

As Chairman of the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy, Samuel Gompers last night issued a statement at the headquarters of the alliance, 280 Broadway, in which he said:

"Resolutions adopted by an organization styling itself the so-called Workmen's Council, a wing of the so-called People's Council, contain the statement that 'Mr. Gompers has, at the very entrance of the United States into the war, made common cause with the reactionary, militaristic, and capitalist interests of the country and agreed to surrender labor's rights won after long years of hard struggle.' So the resolution is reported in the press.

"I wish to say that this charge is a bald and complete untruth, and those who made it either knew it was an untruth or else are so ignorant of current labor history as to render them unfit for any intelligent discussion of it. The statement is a plain lie from start to finish.

"In the first place, even if I, as President of the American Federation of Labor, had entered into any such preposterous agreement, it would have been repudiated instantly by the labor movement. In the second place, I would not enter into any such movement. It is not necessary for me to even say that I would not.

"Organized labor has not made common cause with any enemies of the labor movement, nor will it. It has made common cause with our country and our democracy and with the democratic aspirations of the working people of the world; and this cause has always been ours—ours first of all.

"The 'reactionary, militaristic, and capitalist' interests have been compelled to surrender more to the American labor movement since America entered the war than they had any expectation of surrendering. They are going to surrender more—and, moreover, we are going to keep, after the war, what we gain during the war. There is no surrender, no going back—and the misleaders of this so-called Workmen's Council know this perfectly. I am not quite sure whether they are conscious deceivers or conscienceless deceivers.

"The American trade union movement is a militant movement. The foes of labor among the employers know this, even if some of labor's foes in the so-called Workmen's Council do not. When it ceases to be militant it will cease to exist. That is fundamental.

"American organized labor is loyal to America, loyal to the core. It is loyal to democracy, within our nation as well as without, and there is in America today no more potent force for democracy than the organized labor movement. And we are going to do our best to rout the enemies of America and democracy, whether they are within or without. It is painful to have to say that there are so many within, but it is the fact.

"This so-called Workmen's Council is anti-American and pro-German, as is its parent, the so-called People's Council. This I say deliberately. I see no point at which the German Kaiser could find any fault with either of these precious Potsdamistic and Lenineistic organizations. And you may believe me when I say that the American labor movement is not in agreement with the German Kaiser, nor with the pernicious propaganda of the Lenines, and neither is it going to remain inactive while influences of that kind seek to divide our nation and help destroy our liberties. We will fight such contemptible, treacherous efforts—fight, fight, fight them to the bitter end.

"You may say that the American labor movement is not represented by any one or any agency except itself, and the claims of alleged councils to representing labor are as preposterous and ridiculous and treacherous as any other phase of their activities."

The so-called People's Council continues to send to the newspapers daily statements as to the things to be accomplished by the "Constituent Assembly of the People's Council and Workmen's Council" in Minneapolis, beginning Sept. 1. Yesterday's installment of press agent matter said there would be 2,000 delegates. Inasmuch as the council estimated it would cost $100 each to send delegates to the assembly, this would represent an investment of $200,000 on the part of some one. Louis P. Lochner, General Secretary of the council, has gone to Minneapolis to arrange for the meeting of the "peace-at-any-price" advocates.

Jacob Panken, a lawyer and agitator, Chairman of the Workmen's Council, which has been denounced by the Federation of Labor, announced that the convention would advocate the repeal of conscription, urge that the national army be not sent to foreign soil, and several other things which would react to the benefit of Germany.

A steamship that arrived yesterday at an Atlantic port reported that an attempt by a fireman to start a mutiny among his fellow-workers had delayed the arrival of the vessel by four hours. The fireman, who had signed as a member of the crew after being discharged from a sister ship, will be held pending an investigation of the report that he was inspired by enemy influence.

KERENSKY EXPLAINS ABOUT STOCKHOLM

Russian Government Neither Opposed Nor in Favor of Conference There.

NOT A GOVERNMENT AFFAIR

But He Thinks That Allied Opposition to Letting Delegates Go There Plays Into Germany's Hands.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The Petrograd correspondent of The Daily News telegraphs a conversation he had with Premier Kerensky. When the subject of the Stockholm Conference was mentioned Kerensky fired up and said:

"There has been a serious misunderstanding. They are drawing a wrong deduction from our note. We meant simply to state our position. We are a coalition government, and, therefore, since the conference is a party matter we cannot as a coalition be bound by its decisions. Our conference, the conference of governments, is the London Conference. The Swedish Conference is a conference of labor parties. That is all we wished to say. That does not mean that we are opposed to it, it is not our business to be opposed to it or in favor of it."

The correspondent then said:

"But it has been said that Albert Thomas declared you said you were personally opposed to the Stockholm Conference."

"Nothing of the sort," said Kerensky. "I think it is of great importance, although personally I think it would have been of greater importance if it had taken place while we were advancing instead of in the present condition. But I am not opposed to it, no. I have insisted again and again that any opposition offered to it by the allied Governments, any difficulties put in way of delegates, is simply playing into German hands."

LONDON, Aug. 16.—In the House of Commons tonight J. Ramsay MacDonald, ex-Chairman of the Labor Party, questioned the Government with regard to The Daily Mail's Petrograd dispatch giving the correspondent's version of Premier Kerensky's attitude toward the Stockholm convention. He accused the Premier with misleading the London Labor Conference, which induced Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to read the text of M. Kerensky's telegram, which the Chancellor asserted was spontaneous and not due to any inquiry from the British Government. The text of the telegram follows:

"You are hereby authorized to inform the Foreign Secretary that although the Russian Government does not deem it possible to prevent Russian delegates from taking part in the Stockholm conference, they regard this conference as a party concern and its decisions in no way binding on the Government."

Lord Hugh Cecil, Member for Greenwich, had previously intervened in the debate and accused the proposed delegation to the Stockholm conference of being unfit either mentally or by training to discuss the problems that would arise. To go to Stockholm, Lord Hugh said, would be unwise and foolish.

Members of the Executive Committee of the Labor Party have recommended that a resolution be adopted at the adjourned Labor Party conference next Tuesday to the effect that the conference remains of the opinion that it would be desirable for the British Labor Party to be represented at the Stockholm Socialist conference, in order that the opinions of the party be not misunderstood or misrepresented.

The resolution also says the conference regrets that the Government has expressed the intention of not issuing passports to the delegates to the peace conference at Stockholm and directs that representation on this subject be made to the Government.

In the House of Commons today, however, Bonar Law announced that the Government did not intend to change its decision on the subject of the Stockholm conference. It would destroy the morale upon which victory depended, he said, if the soldiers in the field knew that citizens at home were hobnobbing with the enemy.

TAMMANY FINISHES SLATE FOR THIS FALL

DONNEGAN FOR REGISTER

John V. McAvoy to Run Against Ordway for the Supreme Court —O'Dwyer Named Again.

Tammany Hall, through its Executive Committee, completed its New York County and judicial slate yesterday. To the surprise of many of the faithful, Leader Charles F. Murphy picked a candidate for Sheriff who is as little known in the organization as is County Judge John F. Hylan, the Wigwam's Mayoralty candidate. He is David H. Knott, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Hotel Men's Association. It is said that he is interested in eleven hotels and apartment houses in the city and is a member of a syndicate which is constructing three large hotels at Atlantic City. His city address is 45 Fifth Avenue.

For District Attorney the present incumbent, Edward Swann, was designated. Mr. Swann, it was said, sent Mr. Murphy notice that he was not desirous of a Supreme Court nomination, but insisted upon a renomination as a vindication of the attacks that have been made upon his administration. For County Clerk William F. Schneider was designated for re-election. Mr. Schneider is Chairman of the Democratic Fusion Committee that selected Judge Hylan for Mayor, Charles L. Craig for Controller, and Sheriff Smith for President of the Board of Aldermen. For Register James A. Donnegan was selected. He is Chairman of the State Committee of the Independence League and present counsel to the County Clerk.

John V. McAvoy, now Judge of the City Court and a son of Thomas F. McAvoy, one of Mr Murphy's closest advisers, was selected as Tammany's candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court for the First District, to run against Justice Samuel H. Ordway. The candidates for the six places on the City Court bench are Edward F. O'Dwyer, Chief Justice, designated for re-election; Peter Schmuck, for re-election; Alexander Finelite, for re-election; John J. Walsh, for re-election, and Abraham G. Meyer, present Assistant District Attorney, and Louis A. Valente of 60 Wall Street.

Chief Justice O'Dwyer's designation caused some comment, for it was remembered that he headed a movement a few years ago to have Mr. Murphy deposed as leader of Tammany Hall, as well as suspended from the National Democratic Club. The quarrel, it was said, was made up some time ago. There are two Hearst men on the ticket, Meyer and Donnegan, and the Tammany leaders who resented the successful effort of Mr. Hearst to nominate Judge Hylan did not take either designation gracefully. In fact, they frankly said that it looked as if Mr. Hearst had "put another one over on the Chief." Mr. Valente represents Italian constituents, and is unknown in the organization. He was selected to fill out the unexpired term of Judge Ransom, who resigned to become counsel of the Public Service Commission. The term expires in 1921, while the other candidates are named for fourteen-year terms.

The selections of yesterday completed Tammany's city, county, and judicial slate, with the exception of Municipal Court candidates. While there is considerable dissatisfaction among the district leaders and the rank and file over the ticket, Mr. Murphy and his advisers expect it will subside before election. For Justices of the Municipal Court in the Fourth Municipal District, Michael F. Blake and Herman N. Kirke were designated.

A brisk fight developed over the selection of a Democratic county ticket in Brooklyn yesterday. Register Edward T. O'Loughlin demanded the designation for President of the borough, but John H. McCooey, the Democratic leader, told him he could have a renomination for Register or nothing. Mr. O'Loughlin continued refractory, and the Democrats went ahead and designated Edward Riegelman for Borough President, Representative Daniel J. Griffin for Sheriff, Richard Webster, a writer of The Brooklyn Times, for Register, and William J. Kelly, Edward Lazansky, and Richard S. Newcombe for Justices of the Supreme Court. Justice Kelly is on both the Democratic and Fusion tickets for renomination. Mr. O'Loughlin said last night that he would run in the primaries for the nomination for Borough President, either on the Democratic ticket or independently.

The Bronx Democrats yesterday selected James F. Donnelly as the candidate for Sheriff of that borough. He will be pitted against Eugene McGuire, the Fusion choice for Sheriff. Mr. McGuire is an independent Democrat, who split with Arthur H. Murphy, the Democratic County Chairman, four years ago. The Bronx Democratic ticket as it now stands is:

Borough President—Representative HENRY BRUCKNER.

District Attorney—FRANCIS MARTIN.

County Clerk—JOSEPH M. CALLAHAN.

Register—EDWARD POLAK.

Sheriff—JAMES F. DONNELLY.

The Executive Committee of the Bronx County Democratic organization also decided upon Alderman Harry Robitzek and Justice Peter A. Shiel for Justice of the Municipal Court in the First District. They will oppose Julius Tobias and Justice John Boyle, Jr., the Fusion nominees. In the Second District, Justice Michael J. Scanlan, a Democrat, will oppose Assistant Corporation Counsel Thomas G. Price, the Fusion nominee.

The Queens Democrats, it was said last night, will indorse Public Works Commissioner Richard S. Newcombe for Supreme Court Justice. County Judge Burt J. Humphrey and George Hanavan intend to enter both the Republican and Democratic primaries as candidates for this nomination.

Martin Mager, former County Clerk, will run independently for Borough President. He has been nominated by a combination of independents from all parties and his platform has been adapted from a platform that is being used by pacifist organizations throughout the borough.

Suit Against Vincent Astor.

A summons without complaint in a suit brought by Mary Commons against William Vincent Astor was filed yesterday in the County Clerk's Office by Frank L. Tyson, the plaintiff's attorney. Amos H. Stevens, as the defendant's attorney, filed a notice of appearance. No information as to the nature of the proceedings is contained in the summons, and Mr. Tyson would not discuss the case.

DOCTOR MAY TAKE DISMISSAL TO COURT

Says He Lost Health Bureau Job Because He Reported Moderate Use of Alcohol Harmless.

DENIAL BY DR. EMERSON

Asserts That Luttinger Was Disobedient and That His Work Was Unsatisfactory.

The courts will probably be asked to review the recent dismissal of Dr. Paul Luttinger of 1,265 Boston Post Road, the Bronx, as bacteriologist in the research laboratories of the Department of Health. Dr. Haven Emerson, Health Commissioner, says he was dismissed on charges after a hearing because of disobedience following unsatisfactory work. Dr. Luttinger, however, alleges that the real reason was Dr. Emerson's dissatisfaction with a report which he made on the effect of alcohol on warm-blooded animals.

This inquiry was conducted by Dr. Luttinger over a considerable space of time, and he reached the conclusion that, while alcohol in large quantities was a poison, in small quantities it was not harmful to the life processes of warm-blooded animals, and might even be beneficial. "This report," said Dr. Luttinger, "disagreed with Dr. Emerson's well-known beliefs in favor of prohibition. He was very much displeased when I presented my conclusions, and I was given to understand that my resignation would be acceptable. I did not resign, but some time afterward Dr. Emerson asked me to come and see him and talk over an insignificant matter of office detail. I did not understand that our interview was a hearing or that I was on charges, but two weeks later, when I was on my vacation, I got notice that I was dismissed. I had never thought that Dr. Emerson would let his belief in prohibition interfere with science and professional ethics."

Dr. Emerson said that the report on alcohol had nothing to do with the case. "The report which Dr. Luttinger made on that point," he said, "was never published because it showed a poor quality of work and lack of appreciation of scientific method. I looked it over myself and from my knowledge of physiology I saw that it was a bad piece of work. But that had nothing to do with Dr. Luttinger's dismissal, and he was not asked to resign.

"The reason for his discharge was in connection with a report which he prepared on the effect of whooping cough vaccine. I had his work on this matter checked up by a colleague in the laboratory, who reached different conclusions. Dr. Luttinger had not been altogether accurate in times past, and when the other investigator reached such different conclusions the two reports were published together in a medical journal. After this was done Dr. Luttinger wanted to publish a reply of a controversial nature. He submitted this to me and I told him that I could not give my consent to its publication unless its conclusions were checked up by the head of the research laboratory. Because of his disregard of this order he was brought up on charges, received a hearing, and dismissed.

CROPSEY DECIDES TO STAY ON BENCH

for County Clerk, and J. Harry Tiernan for County Judge and Register. The candidates had already been indorsed by the Republican County Committee of Richmond. Gannon and Bannif are Republicans and Tiernan is a Democrat.

Brooklyn Democrats Protest.

The Democratic members of the Fusion Committee from Brooklyn did not let the Brooklyn and Queens judiciary slate go through without a spirited protest. As on the day before, when they protested against putting only Republicans on the Kings County ticket, the Brooklyn Democrats insisted that the committee was making a grave mistake by ignoring Democratic candidates. Thomas C. Whitlock, former State Senator, led the fight yesterday. He is an independent Democrat.

"To be elected," said Mr. Whitlock, "Mitchel must get the Democratic vote in Kings County. The attitude you are taking is not going to appeal to the independent Republicans of Kings, either. We don't believe we should be deprived of a place on that ticket. I'd like to say that I don't believe there is a man here who thinks we should be ignored. If this thing goes through it is going to split our organization wide open."

Charles Jerome Edwards, another Democrat, also strongly opposed the selection of an all-Republican ticket.

"If you gentlemen persist in nominating five Republicans in Kings without recognizing any Democrat and expect the support of the Democrats, you are not going to get it," he said.

W. A. Eastmond asserted that the Kings County ticket had been made up of selections from only one part of Brooklyn. In the Seventeenth District, he said, Lewis M. Swasey had been selected for Sheriff, while in the adjoining district, the Eighteenth, of which F. J. H. Kracke is leader, Borough President Pounds had been chosen. In the next district, the Twelfth, John T. Rafferty had been chosen for Register. Mr. Eastmond said that there were 40,000 more Democrats than Republicans in Kings County, and he attacked Borough President Pounds for appointing only Republicans in his office.

"Why, Pounds has fired out every Democrat in his office except one," said Mr. Eastmond, "and that Democrat gave $400 to McCall's campaign fund four years ago."

The independent Democrats wanted the committee to take Thomas F. Magner, Assistant Corporation Counsel in charge of the Brooklyn office, for one of the Justiceships. When a vote was taken the choice was overwhelmingly for William J. Kelly, the present Democratic Justice, and Lewis L. Fawcett and Leander B. Faber, both Republicans. When it was asserted that Justice Kelly was considered an organization Democrat, the Fusion leaders said that he had made a good record on the bench and deserved renomination. It was denied that any "deal" had been made with the Democratic organization in his case.

In the afternoon a committee of twenty-five representing the East Side Business and Professional Men's League called on Mayor Mitchel at the City Hall and presented a set of resolutions praising his administration. The committee was headed by Arnold Kohn, Vice President of the State Bank. The resolutions recited that the city had been governed for four years in a most efficient manner and had been kept free from scandal. They also declared that the health of the people had been effectively guarded, that the streets had been kept clean, and that gangs in the tenement districts had been suppressed.

In reply the Mayor said that the sole reason for his accepting the Fusion renomination was a desire to continue good government in this time of crisis. He added that sanity and common sense had governed the administration of the police department.

GOVERNMENT FEARS I. W. W. STRIKE PLOT

Will Meet Any Patently Seditious Attempt with Swift and Drastic Action.

HAS DETECTIVES ON WATCH

Pacific Coast and Far Northwest the Trouble Zone—Senator King Puts in Bill to Meet Situation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Grave menace to industries whose continuation at high speed is deemed vital to the prosecution of the war is seen by officials here in the growing activities of Industrial Workers of the World leaders on the Pacific Coast and in the far Northwest.

The movement apparently is nearing its maximum, and the full scope of its possibilities is not minimized here. A pretentious program calling for strikes in seven States, or about one-fourth of the area of the country, has been brought to the attention of the Department of Justice by scores of expert field investigators now in the affected territory.

Swift and drastic action to check the movement, in so far as it would cripple industries or curtail production of commodities necessary for war, is planned by Department of Justice officials. In many instances, however, the department labors under the handicap of being unable to proceed until an overt act has been performed. Prosecution of strike leaders, where justified in the opinion of the department, on charges of conspiracy, or under the Espionage act is contemplated in specific cases, but no general prosecution of I. W. W. leaders is expected.

The entire movement, culminating yesterday in the declaration at Spokane of James Rowan, District Secretary of the organization, that a general strike would be called Aug. 20 in Washington, Oregon, Montana, and Idaho, unless certain demands were complied with, is regarded by many officials as being political and not a labor movement. Instructions have been sent to field workers to determine, as far as can be done, whether the threatened strike is part of a program deliberately designed to hamper the Government in the prosecution of the war.

District Attorneys in the four States affected, as well as in California, Arizona, and New Mexico, have been instructed to devote unceasing attention to the situation and to institute prosecutions promptly where justified.

Another industry which has already been affected to some extent by activities traceable to I. W. W. sympathizers is spruce logging in Washington. At one stage of the labor disturbance the Government program of aircraft construction appeared to be menaced, but the situation in this industry has been restored nearly to normal within the last few days.

Spruce logs, used in building airplanes, have been damaged and destroyed, it was said, in great quantities, and the machinery used to convert the logs into lumber damaged in many instances by hidden spikes driven into the logs. Spruce is the only timber used in building airplanes in this country, and curtailment of the supply of logs would menace construction of machines. Department officials have been advised of an attempt by I. W. W. sympathizers to destroy the reserve supply of spruce timber in the Northwest. This attempt has been frustrated.

A third industry which might be seriously affected by I. W. W. strikes is copper mining in Montana. The Government is following this situation closely.

The President's personal investigator, Chief Justice Covington of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, may visit the Northwest and the Pacific Coast to study the situation there. The exact whereabouts of Justice Covington were unknown today, it was said by Department of Justice officials, and no authoritative statement of his plans was forthcoming.

A bill aimed to reach activities of members of the I. W. W. was introduced today by Senator King. It provides for the punishment of persons who bring about breaking of contracts made by the United States for the manufacture and transportation of things needed by the Government. The text of the bill follows:

A Bill to punish seditious opposition to the laws and seditious attempts to procure the breach of contracts with the United States or relating to the production of commodities for the use of the United States.

Be it enacted by the Senate and the House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, that if two or more persons shall conspire or combine together to oppose the execution or to impede the operation of any law of the United States, or to intimidate any officer or person charged with the enforcement of any law of the United States; or if any person or persons shall counsel, advise, or incite by words or statements, whether spoken or printed, sedition, riot, insurrection, or unlawful assembly, to oppose the execution or enforcement of any law of the United States; or if any person or persons shall advise, counsel, persuade, or incite, or shall utter words or statements which shall tend to persuade or incite any person to break any contract which has to do with the production, fabrication, manufacture, or transportation of any article, commodity, or thing, for the use of or intended for the use of the United States, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or be imprisoned for not more than one year, or may, in the discretion of the court, be both fined and imprisoned.

Other Senators who want legislation to deal with the I. W. W. situation conferred today and agreed to join in drafting a bill for introduction by Senator Hollis, designed to curb improper activities without injuring interests of organized labor.

NEW FREE MARINE SCHOOL.

Stevens Institute to Teach Engineering for Shipping Board.

A second free Government school in marine engineering will be started on Aug. 20 at Stevens Institute of Technology, in Hoboken, to accommodate an unlimited number of students, the United States Shipping Board, Recruiting Service, of which Henry Howard is Director, announced yesterday. This decision was made because of the interest shown in the first school. Professor Frederick L. Pryor will be head of the instruction staff.

Seven free marine engineering schools and thirty free navigation schools are being started on the Atlantic, Gulf, Pacific, and Great Lakes coasts to train men already having some experience for better places at advanced pay as engineers and deck officers in the new merchant fleet. The graduates are being placed as fast as they are graduated. The need for their services is expected to last for many years after peace is restored.

The headquarters for the free schools all over the country are at the Boston Custom House, where application may be made for enrollment blanks.

NO MORE SPEED WARNINGS.

Reckless Drivers to be Arrested for First Offense.

Warnings to automobile speeders by the police will be discontinued, it was announced by Magistrate House in the Traffic Court yesterday, on the ground that preliminary notices had failed to lessen the number of offenders.

"There is no law for it," said the Magistrate, "but when the warning system was inaugurated by the Police Commissioner six months ago he felt that operators of automobiles would meet him half way. Statistics kept by the department show that a large number of drivers pay no attention to the warnings, as also does the number of repeated warning cases brought into this court."

The report of the Traffic Court for July, issued yesterday, shows that 972 cases were tried, an average of 46 a day. Of this number 454 were for minor offenses. Amount of fines collected was $7,877. Twenty-four were committed to prison without alternative of fine.

RED CROSS NEEDS KNITTERS

Urges Haste in Providing Comforts for Soldiers and Sailors.

The Atlantic Division of the Red Cross, acting under instructions from the War Council at Washington, appealed yesterday to the chapters in its jurisdiction to furnish 510,000 of the 1,500,000 knitted sets urgently needed by soldiers and civilians in Europe. The apportionment, the largest of any of the Red Cross divisions, was made on the basis of one knitted set to every two members. The Atlantic Division includes the States of New York, Connecticut, Delaware, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania.

In its appeal the division headquarters emphasized the importance of "speeding up" the sets, which will be received at the Red Cross storerooms at Bush Terminal, Brooklyn. The sets consist of mufflers, sweaters, socks, and wristlets.

OPENS CLAUSSEN CASE.

Woman's Competence to Manage Own Affairs to be Decided by Jury.

A Sheriff's jury is to be convened to pass upon the claim of Mrs. Ida Claussen Dona that she is now competent to manage her own affairs and take charge of the $5,000-a-year income which was left by the will of her grandfather, Matthew Byrnes. This action was directed yesterday by Justice Ordway and was taken in response to an application in behalf of Mrs. Dona by Robert B. Honeyman, her attorney.

Francis A. Dona, husband of the applicant, in an affidavit says that during the eighteen months that have elapsed since his marriage the petitioner has always been quiet, sensible, proper in demeanor and that his life and hers has been happy.

Swann Takes Up Bullock Charges.

William Greve, Vice President of the American Realty Company, and Frank Bailey, a Vice President of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, met District Attorney Swann yesterday regarding the allegations of conspiracy against the Board of Estimate made by William Bullock, Director of the Bureau of City Inquiry, concerning the purchase by the city of the Dreamland property, at Coney Island. The nature of the information given by Mr. Greve and Mr. Bailey was not disclosed by the District Attorney.

Romantic stories that combine delicate charm and the native aroma of youth with those larger visions in which the tragedy of the individual blends with the eternal comedy of living, come very rarely to any generation. Ours has had "Alt Heidelberg" and "Milestones"; and now in "Maytime" the two, or echoes from them, are combined in a musical setting. Most fortunately, the production is in every way worthy of the material, the acting being really noteworthy, and the result is an evening that rises whole regions above the conventional Broadway musical comedy, and bids fair to be with us until the dog-days are here again.

The musical success of last season in the German theatres was "Wie einst im Mai." In view of the present international difference, this was thought to be unfitted in locale, and even in the nature of its music, to allied consumption. Rida Johnson Young took out the naturalization papers of the book, and though some violence is done to the probabilities and to local color, the hyphen has been, on the whole, very successfully eliminated. With what apparently amounted to recklessness, the task of naturalizing the music was entrusted to a young man named Sigmund Romberg, but the resultant Americanism is all that any one could wish—and sometimes more. The music is often persuasively melodious, and never really objectionable; but it is not to be concealed that Mr. Romberg has hitherto been chiefly associated with the Winter Garden.

The story, like "Milestones," is told in episodes, which range, in this case, from 1840 to the present—from the earliest crinoline, with pantalettes, to clinging satins of a brevity that has inspired much mistaken wit. The fair and spirited daughter of a Washington Square Van Zandt (none other than Peggy Wood) is girlishly in love with an apprentice in her father's cooperage, which—oh, vanishing touch of Teutonism!—is located in his back yard. The difference in their stations, abetted by theatric contrivances, separates them. Paternal influence marries Ottillie to a drunken libertine; and when, in the era of the polka and "Jump Jim Crow," Dick Wayne returns with fame and fortune he chivalrously renounces the hope of his lifetime and the romantic promise of his May to save Otilie from false scandal.

The be-bustled period of the eighties finds the Van Zandts obliged to sell the old house in Washington Square, and the auction brings Ottillie and Dick face to face as old man and old woman—still living, after the mood of "Alt Heidelberg," in the aroma of their youth. One catches a glimpse of a little Dick and a word about a granddaughter Ottillie. The final episode, in which this modern Ottillie has transformed the old mansion into a dressmaking establishment, brings the young people together, and crowns today the romance that was blighted three generations ago.

The plot, quite original and charming as such plots go, centres in a box which the first Dick and Ottillie place beneath an apple sapling, planted to commemorate their love and to afford blossom and shade to their children's children. In the final episode the tree, which is shown in each scene, is dead, and beneath the root of it are found the old song of May and the long lost deed which unite worldly advantage with romance in the happiest of endings. Lives are blighted, and even old apple trees die, but youth and joy live forever.

Almost as surprising as the quality of the tale was the acting. Peggy Wood, last seen as one of the chorus of principals in "Love o' Mike," was not only her own amiable, spirited, and comely self, but portrayed the unhappily married woman of 30 and the faded widow of 60 with a skill in technique, a subtlety and fineness of feeling, which were truly memorable. The nature of the play, to be sure, favored her, in that it permitted at most a light sketch of each phase; but the result was none the less astonishing.

Charles Purcell was almost equally happy in portraying the development of Dick, his performance as the old man being especially happy, both in the refinement of his makeup and in his restraint in employing the mimique of age.

The honors of the evening histrionically went to William Norris, whose genuine ability as an actor has had all too little scope. It is the part of an amiable spendthrift and gallant, and in three of the episodes he marries a new heiress. In the final scene he survives the historic apple tree to wed a chorus girl of the Winter Garden.

Tastes differ widely as to the precise point at which the portrayal of senile decrepitude addicted to gallantry ceases to be amusing and becomes painful. Some will no doubt find that Mr. Norris's performance erred. But it was none the less a work of extraordinary skill, and even in its greatest extremes had a power of inward feeling, an instinctive sense of humor and pathos blended, which went far, and perhaps all the way, toward redeeming it.

INNOCENT MAN ACCUSED.

Tennessee Clothing Buyer Is Arrested Here on Abduction Charge.

A case of mistaken identity, which resulted in an innocent man being imprisoned in a cell in the West Forty-seventh Street Station for several hours until he obtained a bondsman, at considerable expense to himself, came to light in West Side Court yesterday morning when Norman Silverberg, 27 years old, a clothing buyer of Memphis, Tenn., was arraigned, charged with abduction.

The complainant against Mr. Silverberg was Harris Baron, a tailor, of : West 118th Street, who caused the young Southerner's arrest on Broadway on Tuesday night. He saw Silverberg in company with several acquaintances and summoned Policeman Shapiro of the West Forty-seventh Street Station. Baron accused Silverberg of having abducted his daughter Rose three years ago and insisted that he be locked up.

In court yesterday morning Miss Rose Baron denied that Silverberg was the man who took her away from home and Magistrate Frothingham promptly discharged him, expressing regret at the inconvenience caused him.

OPENS HAMMERSTEIN CASE.

Lexington Avenue Opera House Deal Goes to Magistrate.

District Attorney Swann began an investigation yesterday of the complaint of Oscar Hammerstein that he had been unlawfully deprived of his property known as the Lexington Avenue Opera House. He decided that the case did not warrant a Grand Jury hearing, and asked Magistrate Groehl to make an inquiry and decide if an offense had been committed.

Assistant District Attorney Louis Wandel said Mr. Hammerstein had alleged that he was unable to recover the property after deeding it to Frank Gerston, on the understanding that the property was to be returned on demand. Mr. Hammerstein said the only value he had received for the transfer was a third mortage for $200,000 at 2 per cent. interest. He claimed it was worth $600,000 above a first mortgage held by the Manhattan Life Insurance Company.

According to the complaint Mr. Hammerstein transferred the property because of complications in the vaudeville field which would prohibit him from giving such performances there, but which Gerston would be able to do as manager at $60 weekly. Mr. Wendel said that Hammerstein had also complained that Louis J. Vorhaus had introduced Gerston to him, and he had thereby been led to believe that he could deed the property under this arrangement with safety to his interests. It was further claimed that stock of an amusement company organized by Gerston had been turned over to some one connected with the Manhattan Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Vorhaus and H. C. Forbes, a realty manager for a department of the insurance company, were summoned to the Tombs Court yesterday for a conference with Magistrate Groehl as to the form of the inquiry. Gerston was out of town and could not be reached with a summons.

Charles G. F. Wanle, who appeared as attorney for Mr. Vorhaus, told the Magistrate that Mr. Hammerstein's charges were "wild" and could not be substantiated, and that after he had stated the facts in his complaint to four law firms and had asked them to represent him, each had refused to do so. Mr. Wahle said the property would be turned over to Mr. Hammerstein within five minutes after he should pay the Manhattan Life Insurance Company the $450,000 mortgage.

'CHEER UP' FOR HIPPODROME

C. B. Dillingham's New Production to Open Next Thursday Night.

"Cheer Up" is the title chosen for Charles B. Dillingham's third Hippodrome production, which will be presented for the first time next Thursday night. The show is the product of the trio responsible for last year's offering—it was devised and staged by R. H. Burnside, John L. Golden wrote the lyrics, and Raymond Hubbell the music. It is in three divisions or "cheers," as the authors choose to call them, the first consisting of five scenes, the second of six, and the last being devoted to a water spectacle, which will be on a more elaborate scale than any of its predecessors and will take the place of the ice ballet of the last two seasons.

The company includes more than 800 persons. Among the soloists are Clair Rochester, Frances Roeder, J. P. Coombs, Henry Taylor, John Hendricks, Nellie Doner, and Helen Osborne. Nat M. Wills heads the list of comedians, which also includes Fred Walton, Charles Ravel, Eddie Russell, Stanley Ferguson, Dippy Diers, and Mallia, Bart, and Mallia. Among the specialty teams that will contribute to the huge entertainment are the Mirano Brothers, the Berlo Sisters, the Boganny troupe of acrobats, the Four Amaranths, the Ladella Comiques, the Bud Snyder company, the Slayman Ali troupe, Powers's elephants, and Lane's trained horses.

John Philip Sousa has composed a musical setting for a patriotic tableau called "The Land of Liberty" that will form the finale to the second act.

Jean Havez Sues for Separation.

Charging that his wife, Cecil Cunningham Havez, an actress, abandoned him after he had assisted her to rise from a humble beginning to a place of prominence in her profession, Jean Havez, author and song writer, has begun suit for separation in the Supreme Court. In papers filed yesterday he alleges that the case was aggravated by his wife's exhibition of temper before servants and by her disposition to brag about her earning capacity.

ASKS THE PRESIDENT TO DEFINE TREASON

Cleveland Moffett Says There Is Disloyalty in High and Low Places.

HOW FAR CAN SPEAKERS GO?

Writer Also Declares That a Police Official Knows Germany Has Paid Money to Promote Sedition Here.

Calling on President Wilson to define treason to the United States generally and to say whether attacks upon Great Britain constitute sedition to this Government, as an ally of England, Cleveland Moffett wrote to the President yesterday an appeal authorized by the American Defense Society on Wednesday as the opening of its campaign to stamp out the street corner propaganda of treason in New York and other cities. Mr. Moffett was arrested Monday night for interrupting a speaker at Broadway and Thirty-seventh Street who was assailing Great Britain.

Incidentally, Mr. Moffett said yesterday that a high official of the Police Department had evidence of the trail of money from Germany to the seditious street corner meetings of New York. He said that if the German Government was willing to finance the undertakings of Sir Roger Casement in Ireland it was easy to believe it would be willing to finance treason in the United States. Most of the street corner meetings to which Mr. Moffett referred are under the auspices of the Friends of Irish Freedom.

The letter to the President follows:

Aug. 16, 1917.

The President of the United States,
the White House, Washington,
D. C.

My Dear Mr. President—As a Trustee of the American Defense Society and an American citizen, I appeal to you for enlightenment as to what constitutes treason of speech.

As you may know, I protested Monday evening, Aug. 13, when, on Broadway, New York, an obviously pro-German orator denounced Great Britain as "the most degraded and despicable nation on earth." I again protested when this orator declared that George Washington and Benjamin Franklin were no better than the German spy and convicted traitor, Roger Casement. I would also protest, and I am sure all real Americans would join me in protesting to the last drop of their blood if they heard a statement reported to the American Defense Society by a credible witness as having been made on Broadway and Thirty-fifth Street on Wednesday evening, Aug. 8, by a pro-Irish agitator: "We soon will start a revolution in this country, and the first man we will get will be the greatest traitor in the land—Woodrow Wilson."

Asks if Magistrate Was Right.

I am anxious to know whether I did right or wrong in making the protest I did. At any rate, I was arrested on the charge of "interfering with a lawful meeting" and was brought before a Magistrate, who gave me an honorable dismissal, congratulated me on my patriotic action, and said that the police ought to have arrested the orator. But the next day, when I was summoned to appear before a high New York police official, this gentleman very courteously but officially told me that I had done wrong, that I had broken the law, although he intimated privately that under similar circumstances he might have acted in the same way.

On behalf of thousands of American citizens who desire to do their patriotic duty, but are uncertain as to what their duty is, I earnestly ask: Was the Magistrate correct in his ruling, or was the police official correct?

It seems to me that, with disloyalty working in various high and low places, (not much disloyalty, thank God, but some,) the time has come when Americans, including the police, must be told clearly what is treason and what is not treason. What is sedition and what is not sedition? How far can a street speaker go in attacking and insulting our allies, our flag, our most sacred traditions? Are there no limits to the right of free speech? If the Constitution of the United States guarantees to orators a certain wide latitude in time of peace, does that latitude obtain in time of war, when it may constitute a menace to the safety of the nation?

I respectfully submit, inasmuch as we have entered this war for the loftiest reasons, for the welfare of humanity, that we must regard loyalty to our allies as a sacred duty and disloyalty to our allies as not less treasonable than disloyalty to the Stars and the Stripes. Those who are not against Germany are for Germany—there is no middle ground. Any American who assails the enemies of Germany assails America itself. All Germans know this. All Americans should know it. It does not matter whether we love England or hate her—I myself am half Irish and sympathize with Irish wrongs—that is not the question now; the question is whether this nation is going to fight or die!

Says Police Stand Idly By.

It seems to me an abomination that young Americans, some of them wearing the uniform of the United States Army, the uniform of the United States Navy, as they stroll along the streets of our American cities, find themselves, night after night, in seditious gatherings, in anti-British gatherings that are tolerated in various American communities, and listen, perforce, to disloyal, poisonous, un-American utterances that are apparently approved by our uniformed police, who stand idly by, unless some patriot protests, whereupon they arrest and censure him. Is not that intolerable?

I submit, Mr. President, that this is a very grave state of affairs, and I make bold to urge that you define clearly what constitutes treason and sedition and that you deal vigorously with these well-attested evils of disloyal street speaking all over the land by such means legislative or other, as may commend themselves to your wise judgment. In bringing this matter to your attention, and in publicly protesting as I did, in New York City, I had only one desire—to serve America and to further the great work of world regeneration toward which you are so ably and fearlessly leading us.

Very sincerely,
CLEVELAND MOFFETT.

"I don't believe the President can ignore this appeal," said Mr. Moffett, "or fail to rule on what is treason, and if these street corner seditionists cannot be punished under our present laws, that he will have a law enacted under which they can be punished. The police now, as they tell me, don't know whether talking against our allies is treason or not. They must be set straight."

Mr. Moffett said that he had been summoned to a hearing at the Police Headquarters this morning at which an inquiry will be made into the report of a patrolman detailed to watch the Monday night meeting, who reported that the speeches were all within the proper bounds.

According to Mr. Moffett three men went to his home Wednesday night after midnight, knocked on the door until the housekeeper answered, and then demanded to see Mr. Moffett. They were not admitted. Mr. Moffett's house is being guarded by the police.

More than fifty persons went to the headquarters of the American Defense Society, 303 Fifth Avenue, or wrote, yesterday, offering their services as active members of a Vigilantes Committee to watch the street corner meetings. Mr. Moffett is to be Chairman of this committee, which will formally organize tomorrow. Six vigilantes will be sent through the Broadway district every night with stenographers to make reports of the meetings. Speakers going too strongly in sedition will be arrested by these vigilantes on charges of disorderly conduct, awaiting instructions from Washington as to what other action may be taken.

The city government will be asked to require every person or organization holding street meetings to get a license. It will also ask consideration of the forbidding of all street corner meetings, except patriotic and religious meetings, for the duration of the war.

The society announced last night that its officers will have a conference today with Captain William M. Offley of the Department of Justice with a view to seeking his aid in curbing sedition. The society will not limit its work to the Broadway "soap box" orators, but will keep a watchful eye on Madison Square and Union Square.

DE SAULLES INQUEST ENDS.

Mrs. De Saulles's Maid the Final Witness Before Coroner.

MINEOLA, Aug. 16.—The inquest into the death of John H. De Saulles was ended here this afternoon when Susanne Monteau, the maid of Mrs. De Saulles, on the witness stand told her story of the shooting before Coroner Walter R. Jones.

Henry A. Uterhart, counsel for Mrs. De Saulles, was present, as well as Charles Wood, who represented the District Attorney's office of Nassau County.

Miss Monteau told the same story as she did last week before the District Attorney in his office. Coroner Jones will report his findings later.

"MODERATION SERIES" NO. 5

Too Much Food Is Bad for Man —and So Is Too Little

We can overindulge in almost anything, such as tea and coffee drinking, and even in the use of water. There is such a thing as "Aquamania" (water lunacy) and we also have food drunkards. Everyone knows that the intemperate use of alcoholic beverages is unquestionably injurious, just as every sane man knows that the temperate use of a mild Barley-Malt and Saazer Hop brew, such as BUDWEISER, is the drink of moderation. BUDWEISER sales exceed other beers by millions of bottles, because it is brewed in the good old honest way. Quality has for 60 years been the secret of its success.

THE POPE'S PROPOSALS AND GERMANY'S AIMS.

The full text of the Pope's proposed peace terms shows that they are much narrower than the advance summary indicated. He does not, as was reported, recommend the evacuation of Rumania and Serbia, but only of Belgium and Northern France. The fate of the two Balkan Kingdoms, together with most of the other questions, is to be settled by "the parties in conflict." He proposes disarmament and arbitration "according to rules to be laid down." He proposes that "rules be fixed" also securing the freedom of the seas. There should be "condonation" of all the wrongs done in the war, as an essential feature of which there must be no payment of damages. Germany should evacuate France and Belgium, but the disposition of all other countries and parts of countries which have been in question, including Armenia and Poland, should be the subject of subsequent negotiation.

These terms should be satisfactory to Germany and Austria, since they leave to the bargaining table every question except the evacuation of Belgium and France, and recognize the "freedom of the seas" as a real issue. As for Belgium and France, it is no real concession for Germany to agree to evacuate them, since it would be impossible to hold any kind of peace conference unless she did. If, however, these terms have received Germany's approval, it is a great step in advance for her to admit this fact, even though her admission of it is a necessity. The day when Germany formally admits that obvious fact will be a day of good omen for peace, though peace cannot be had until she admits many more facts.

The reason why the Pope's proposals do not evoke more enthusiasm in allied countries is that they seem to ignore the issue of the war. They make no distinction between the combatants, but place them all on the same footing, as apparently "stricken by a universal madness." If this war were over rival territorial ambitions and nothing else, it might be possible, as in the case of the Crimean war, to stop fighting with nothing solved, and let artful diplomatists outbid each other at a conference table. But it was not for this that the United States, for example, entered the war.

Germany has repeatedly expressed a burning desire to have the war settled by barter. On Dec. 26 last she proposed "an immediate meeting of delegates of the belligerent "States at a neutral place" for "an immediate exchange of views." On July 19 Chancellor Michaelis announced that Germany's aims must be obtained, or, as he put it, her "conditions of existence upon the Continent and overseas" must be guaranteed "by means of understanding and in a spirit of give-and-take." It is the way in which wars usually end when they proceed from conflicting greeds. Such a peace conference is in truth only a game of skill, in which the shrewdest players outmanoeuvre the others, not infrequently by backstairs bargains of which the members of the conference as a whole never learn until everybody learns them from books of history.

If nothing else were at stake in this war, it could and would end in that way. But more is at stake. How can the war aims of the United States be secured by such a diplomatic poker game as Germany desires? We have not entered the war to put our objects to the hazard of the dice. Such an issue of the war would leave Germany still under the control of the vision of world domination by military force which dominates her ruling military caste; it would leave democracy in the same peril in which it unknowingly lay on July 31, 1914. Our objects cannot be obtained by barter. The President told us, on April 2, that "our object is to vindicate the principles of peace and "justice in the life of the world as "against selfish and autocratic power." He told us that "no autocratic Government could be trusted "to keep faith" within a league of nations, and that "in such a Government" as Germany's, "following "such methods, we can never have "a friend; and that in the presence "of its organized power, always lying "in wait to accomplish we know not "what purpose, there can be no assured security for the democratic "Governments of the world." Therefore, he told us, we accepted this gage of battle, to fight "for the "rights of nations great and small "and the privilege of men everywhere to choose their way of life "and of obedience." "We shall be "satisfied when those rights have "been made as secure as the faith "and the freedom of the nation can "make them." And not till then.

These are our objects. We cannot gain them by barter, because we have nothing to barter for them. If Germany accepts the Pope's proposal as meaning nothing more than a peace conference held in "a spirit of give-and-take," it is idle to talk of any conference now. A conference of barter, a conference of "give-and-take," would be a conference to make the world safe for autocracy and to make it a continual nightmare of terror for democracy.

PACIFIST MATHEMATICS.

Today the Secretary of the People's Council will burst upon Minneapolis, where it is to establish headquarters, and where a "Presidential boom" for that shrinking statesman, the senior Senator from Wisconsin, is to be "launched" upon a country not worthy of it. The old familiar pacifist and pro-German figures are to show themselves among the Gophers. One wonders if the People's Council is anything more than the same old figures, of the same old societies, multinominous, succeeding, continuing one another.

And the old familiar figures are shuffled about till mere figures of enumeration flush and are dazed. Last week the People's Council was sure it had 1,200,000 members. This week it counts 1,500,000, 1,800,000, who knows? Plump Jack Falstaff, counting highwaymen, was a humble precursor of these pacifist mathematicians. One longs for a glimpse at the rolls. If any are kept, surely they are enriched with entries such as

> Stephen Sly and old John Noakes of Greece,
> And Peter Turph and Henry Pimpernel,
> And twenty other names and men like these
> Which never were nor no man ever saw.

THE NEW ADJUTANT GENERAL.

The appointment of Charles H. Sherrill to the post of Adjutant General of the New York National Guard will be commended. He has had ample military experience and is possessed of the administrative capacity the office requires. His skill of organization was shown in his management of the great preparedness parade in this city last year. Of course, the duties of the Adjutant General in connection with the mobilization of the State troops now mustered into the Federal service have been performed by the retiring Adjutant General, of whose services Governor Whitman gives testimony. General Stotesbury will be the Fusion candidate for City Judge.

But upon Adjutant General Sherrill will fall the task of organizing the new guard of 10,000 militiamen upon which the State must depend for home defense while the war lasts. He has shown his ability to do this work well.

OUR SOLDIERS IN LONDON.

The greeting of London to the American troops that marched through it Wednesday was impressive and memorable. British "phlegm," a favorite theory of the Continental writers who watched the imperturbable Milords of the eighteenth century, is largely a fiction, or a pose. The English are not as a class any colder outwardly or more taciturn than the New Englanders. Swayed by a great elemental emotion such as now possesses them, they do not seek to repress it.

They couldn't if they tried. The millions who waved and roared their welcome to our soldiers saw in them the rescuers of free civilization, the advance guard of the American democracy fighting to save itself and all democracy, to keep the world from being the footstool of Prussian Junkerism. They saw their oversea comrades ready to tread the path of peril and honor. Women, remembering their own sacrifices, wept softly at the thought of what may be in store for those brave lads marching by. Wounded soldiers cheered the stalwart beginners, the men who will help carry to a just and victorious end the task of free mankind. These marching men were more than the symbol of America. They were the hope of democracy. They were the augury of peace with freedom.

You see the Australians and Canadians and New Zealanders and English soldiers saluting or throwing their hats in air, the King saluting the Stars and Stripes. You hear that multitudinous roar from sidewalk and window and roof. In the Green Park, where memories of courtiers and great ladies and wits and the Merry Monarch have been crowded out by irresistible, overflowing democracy, our boys, their arms stacked, lunch at a hundred tables, while Buckingham Palace and Piccadilly clubdom, or what is left of it, watch them, and the crowd peers through the park railings.

It is a new world that Whitehall and Piccadilly and Pall Mall behold. The America of the twentieth century and the Great Britain of the twentieth century, democracies both, forgetting lingering differences inherited from an outworn order, march side by side for the preservation of democracy. Not since the old colonial wars, save in international troubles like the Boxer rebellion, have American and British soldiers and sailors fought for the same cause. As they stand together now in the cause of liberty, with France by their side, one likes to think that somewhere the generous ghosts of Conway, Barré, Burke, old friends of America, rejoice in the reconciliation, the comradeship, and the promise of victory.

THE BETTER MAN.

As usual, the British advance beyond Ypres was successful. The words "as usual" are employed because of the fact that in every case this year in which the British and Germans have come face to face without the element of surprise on either side the British have forced the Germans back. German victories have ceased on the western front. They resist the British stubbornly, but not with their old stubbornness, and they do not give way much, but they give way.

Field Marshal Haig reported last year, at the end of the battle of the Somme, that he had observed a deterioration in the German morale. It was probably slight. The real reason of the unvarying British successes is not the German deterioration so much as the British improvement. In other words, the British Army has become a more effective instrument than the German. It is superior in artillery and superior in aircraft. So militarism, having labored for forty years to extinguish the civilian spirit, on the ground that military spirit must be dominant in order to have efficiency, now finds that it is not as powerful as it thought it was; that in three years a peaceful, shopkeeping country with a "contemptible little army" can outmatch it at its own game. Was it worth while to destroy the civilian virtues for this?

SECOND-CLASS MAIL.

Senator Weeks of Massachusetts has offered an amendment to the War Revenue bill striking out the sections increasing the postal rate on second-class mail matter and imposing an additional tax on the income of newspapers and periodicals. So far as second-class postage is concerned, there will be no disagreement as to the obligation of the publishers of newspapers and periodicals entered in that class to pay all the cost of mail transportation, but it is obviously unfair to shift some of the burden of the large cost of transporting certain kinds of publications upon the publishers of others which can be carried more cheaply. There should be a distinction between magazines and newspapers. The magazines make much heavier mail. They are published once a month, some of them once a week, and an extra force is required to handle them in the Post Offices. The newspapers are put in the mails 365 days a year. Few of them have to be carried out of comparatively small areas. They are more easily handled, and by the regular force. If second-class mail included only the daily newspaper, the present rate of postage would more than meet the cost of transportation. As for the proposed tax, the provision of the bill relating to it reads as follows:

> An additional tax upon the net income from the publication of any newspaper, periodical, or publication entitled to be entered as second-class mail matter, whether so entered or not, of 5 per cent. of such net income in excess of $4,000.

A large number of publications passing through the mails as second-class matter have no net income in excess of $4,000. The proposed tax, therefore, would not be generally levied upon second-class matter. The purpose of the tax, to compel additional payment for the second-class privilege, would be defeated. It would be a special tax levied upon publications which already pay a heavy tax on incomes and other taxes. Viewed in this light, the proposed additional tax is shown to be unfair, discriminative, and arbitrary.

TAXED OR UNTAXED BONDS?

Washington telegrams forecast a probable increase of the rate of interest upon the next issue of Liberty Bonds, but say nothing regarding their exemption from income tax. An increase of rate with exemption from taxation would be objectionable from more than one point of view. As the matter stands, the Liberty Bonds already issued are worth more to the rich than to others, because the exemption rises with the rate of tax. As Mr. Loree remarked in his discussion of the point in yesterday's Times, "this exemption "amounts to the payment of higher "rates of interest to those having "large than to those having small incomes, a most indefensible practice." Exemption from even a 20 per cent. income tax in connection with a 3½ per cent. bond amounts to paying the holder 4.375 interest, a rate unnecessary at this time when the bonds range near par, although held almost wholly by those paying merely a normal tax or none. As the income tax is to be amended to range above 46 per cent. upon incomes exceeding $2,000,000, it is apparent that this artificial value for the Liberty Bonds is a gift to a few hundreds, perhaps even to a few scores, of those who need it least, and whom it is least agreeable to see favored. This discrimination is against those millions to whom it is desirable and necessary that the Treasury should look as the chief takers of the bonds of the nation.

When the same point was considered in connection with the 5-20s, the principal issue of the civil war, they were made taxable whenever the income from them was above the universal exemption of $600. Such exemption as there was favored the small holders, and only favored them as part of the universal exemption. Now, as then, there is an exemption which is sufficient. Federal bonds are not taxable under the Constitution by any other taxing jurisdiction. That makes them preferable upon purely economic grounds to any other bond at the same rate, or to such savings deposits as receive equal interest income. To enlarge this advantage is undesirable because of its unsettling the investment basis generally. There was experience of this when the first loan was offered, and the security market adjusted itself to the new rate. If that rate is increased, and particularly if the exemption privilege is re-enacted, there would be another readjustment to the new basis of interest and exemption. But if the exemption were to be confined to the existing authorization there is a chance that the exemption privilege would raise them to par, or more probably to a premium, without conversion of them into the new taxable bond at the higher rate. The Treasury would have an option to issue either class, taxed or untaxed, and there would be a prospect of saving interest, thus getting some return for the loss of income through the income tax exemption.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Czar on the Road to Siberia. To the reader of history there is nothing unfamiliar about a King in exile, for there have been scores and hundreds of them at one time and another and in one country and another. Some have presented a pathetic or dignified spectacle, and others have attracted only scorn or derision, according to whether their disasters were deserved or undeserved. Usually, however, they have lived out their lives comfortably enough, so far as material conditions went, and not a few of them could have echoed the Roman's scornful cry, "What is banished but set free?"

The case of the sometime Czar of Russia differs from that of most of his royal and imperial predecessors in exile, first, in that in no instance discoverable in recent centuries has a man fallen in a day, almost in an hour, from a state so high and strong as his at least nominally was to one so low and powerless. Napoleon came the nearest to a like declension, perhaps, but he was a victim of war waged against him by foreign powers, and not at all because he had become intolerable to his own subjects.

Another difference between Nicholas Romanoff and most Kings in exile is that his banishment—if his reported deportation to Siberia has really taken place, and there seems to be no reason to doubt it—is merely to a remote spot in what were his own domains, and what is called "poetic justice" can be found in the circumstance that he goes to the same cold and dreary region to which have been sent, in his name if not by him, an endless procession of men who had antagonized the system of government of which he was the head—or figurehead.

His journey to the frozen wilds will not be marked by the personal hardships encountered by those who went before him, but possibly his sufferings will be greater than theirs. That depends somewhat upon how seriously he took his former grandeur—upon how sincerely he believed in his right to rule the common mortals. As to that not many, in this part of the world, could speak with any confidence, but probably Nicholas had more doubts on those points than has, for instance, the Kaiser, and therefore the agonies of his situation are not likely to equal those his German cousin would feel after a similar reduction from next to everything to next to nothing.

Turning from "War" to "This War." Between what Henry Ford now says about war and the opinions of war expressed by normal Americans in and out of our military service there is not enough difference to be worth measuring or weighing. Certainly the difference is microscopic in comparison with the one that exists between what he says now and what he said on the lamentable day when he set sail with probably the queerest collection of impracticables that ever crossed the ocean to accomplish his announced purpose of getting the soldiers out of the trenches before Christmas.

One most important change in Mr. Ford's state of mind is indicated by the fact that at present the object of his discussion and characterization and determination is not war in the abstract, but war in the concrete—in other words, not "war," but "this war." That removes him completely and far from the ranks of "pacifists," properly so called, and sets him squarely among "militarists" as they exist in this country or almost any other except Germany. For no American, English, or French militant loves war or the destruction and slaughter of war any better than Mr. Ford does or did, or would be any less glad than he if it could be banished from the world forever. But like him now, and unlike him then, the English, French, and American militants realize that as regards this war there is nothing to do except to accept it as a desperate remedy for a more desperate ill, and to wage it to a successful ending at any cost of life and money.

Indeed, it is really the sane militant that would have a right to declare himself for "peace at any price." He alone is willing to pay any price for it, but before he does so he insists on defining what he means by "peace," and on denying that the name is applicable to a state of slavery and dishonor. Even as a pacifist Mr. Ford had excellent qualities that everybody recognized; as a militant declaring that "we must go to the limit in this struggle" he is a welcome addition to the forces of right and sanity.

"American" Will Do for a While. Apparently the nickname of "Sammy" for the American soldier abroad isn't going to stick. The Associated Press correspondent in France says that neither the men nor the officers were pleased when they learned, as they did only recently, that the word had gained considerable vogue and something approaching general acceptance on this side of the water, and though that doesn't necessarily settle the question, it should and will have its weight with those of us who hitherto had not given much thought to the matter.

In some cases nobody asks or cares whether a nickname pleases the person or persons to whom it is applied—"Hun" and "boche" as given to the Germans by the Allies illustrating that sort of indifference—but if "Sammy" offends our men, certainly they ought not to hear it—from us.

As it happens, the name was invented with no unfriendly intent, and its reference to the "Uncle Sam" to which none of us objects made it innocent enough. But, of course, concerning taste there is no disputing, and if the American soldiers want to be something else than "Sammies," something else they shall be. Just what else they shall be can safely be left for time to decide. Sooner or later a nickname as good as "poilu," which has precisely the right degree of humor, mystery, and allusiveness, will make itself for the Americans, and until then they, like the Canadians, can get along well enough and fight bravely enough without any title other than the one provided by their nationality.

The Australians and the New Zealanders have already had good luck in becoming "Anzacs," but "Amexes," a suggestion along the same line, was hopeless from the beginning. Possibly there is a good hint in the fact that the first National Guard division to sail has somehow come to be called a "Rainbow Division." That is at least a happy omen, for the rainbow promises fair weather after the storm, and for that and other reasons it has been much and justly admired.

William Macbeth.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The death of William Macbeth closes a life work of unusual value and significance. Twenty-five years ago he opened a modest gallery devoted solely to the works of American artists. It was the first of its kind, and this despite the noble achievement of American artists now dead and numbered among the greatest of the nineteenth century. He had the courage to believe not only in individual painters, but in the future of American art in America. He had little capital but boundless faith and pertinacity, all of which was needed to tide over the first lean years. He lived to see the realization of his dream, American art recognized by the American public. The value of his own labors in this realization he always refused to admit, but in this the artists themselves disagreed with him. It was, I should think, almost their sole disagreement. Those who like myself have had over a long period of years the benefits of his friendly, wise advice and encouragement have lost a friend indeed.

PAUL DOUGHERTY.

Sinn Fein Orators.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On several occasions during recent visits to this city I have heard Irish orators use language that would make the patriotic blood of any self-respecting citizen boil with indignation. I have even heard boasting of the number of British soldiers claimed to have been killed by a speaker during the Dublin riots a few months ago. I believe in the widest latitude being given to "liberty of speech," but open, boastful, treasonable language should be prohibited or we turn "liberty" into shameful license.

HENRY P. PORTER.

New York, Aug. 15, 1917.

WHEN PEACE SHALL COME.

When peace shall come, God grant it may be real—
No truce for breath by spent antagonists,
But compact of free peoples, firm resolved
To keep its every term inviolate—
A peace so fortified that nevermore
Can subtle statecraft or a monarch's nod
Unsheath a nation's sword. Naught else will serve.

The hour has struck for all mankind to know
That war is not a Glory, but a Shame;
That conscious might, unjustly used to crush
Instead of succor and defend, is vile,
Not great; that it is crime to prostitute
The lofty skill of human minds and hands
In labored cunning of device to kill
And needlessly destroy the works of years.

But, when peace comes, it must be surely just.
No victor's vengeance! "That is mine," saith God.
No greed for spoils! But likewise let there be
No light forgetting why this war began,
How it was waged, what was its dreadful cost.

There have been ruthless wrongs and bestial deeds
Beyond some men's believing. These must be atoned.
Most wanton devastation has been wrought.
There must be reparation—if, in truth,
Such thing be possible. The devil's brood
That has adventured thus must be destroyed.
A nation, seeming mad, must be restrained,
'Till its return, perchance, to sanity.
All these are matters for the Pact of Peace;
Else it were mockery to name it thus.

They that will frame this peace must needs be wise,
Gifted with vision that will comprehend
World-wide conditions, not alone today,
But of some far tomorrow, to the end,
That, for all time, the plan they may devise
For international life shall so appeal
To human conscience and intelligence
That neither boundaries nor stranger tongues,
Nor creeds nor customs, hostile though they seem,
Can be invoked against its permanence.

And with this single purpose, now, have we,
A nation hating war, but hating most
The things that make for wars, unfurled our flag
In this stupendous conflict for the right.
And we will fight for peace—aye! we will fight
Until peace comes that makes men surely safe
And rears our Goddess with her lifted torch
Above the harbor-gates of those wan lands

FREDERIC H. BARD.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a South African, your article headed "Boer Party Openly Preaches Sedition," in your issue of the 12th inst., was read with great interest. As your information may convey a wrong impression to those who do not know South Africa and its local conditions, I wish to make some of the points clear.

The National Party, headed by General Hertzog, is essentially anti-British, constituting irreconcilable Boers, German sympathizers, and others who would like to drive out the Uitlanders (English and foreigners) so as to get their property. They are desperate, and can easily give trouble. But, thanks to the good sense of the intelligent majority of the Dutch Afrikanders, they can be kept within bounds, as was proved in the last rebellion, which took place soon after the declaration of war with Germany. The tolerant and just rule of the British alone permits such free expression of opinion, of which advantage is taken to spread propaganda which leads to disturbance and unrest. Free speech is typically British, and that it is no misnomer is evidenced by the mischievous doctrines expounded by the official organ of the Nationalist Party.

I would warn readers that the views of the National Party must be taken with reserve, for they are without restraint. When they ask for a republic they are out for notoriety and vote-catching.

The population of the Union of South Africa includes 7,000,000 natives who to a man favor British rule. The National Party does not consider them, and treats them as of no account. Of the whites, who constitute the minority, numbering 1,250,000, about a half are Dutch or of Teutonic origin, the other half being English, Scotch, Irish, and Jews, who are stanch supporters of the British régime, and so are the great majority of the intelligent Dutch Afrikanders.

If South Africa were a republic at present it would spell the domination and tyranny by force of arms of a certain section over the majority. The history of the late South African Republic proves this conclusively.

The needs of South Africa are economic. Paramount among them are immigration, the conservation of water for purposes of irrigation, the uplifting of the native races, and the eradication of German influence, which is a menace to South Africa as it is to the rest of the world.

South Africa has her own Parliament, the members of which are elected by the people, and England does not interfere in her affairs. The so-called National Party can rave, but it deceives no one in South Africa, for all are aware that its interests are pro-German and that a republic formed by this party would mean cruel oppression to the rest of the white population and absolute slavery to the natives.

JACOB BEHRMANN.

New York, Aug. 12, 1917.

When He Will Quit.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just been passed by my draft board, have waived exemption, and am about to leave my wife and boy and my own young business to take an actual part in the present world trouble. So I think I am entitled to an expression on the terms of peace.

Following are the terms on which I am willing to quit:

1. Removal of the Kaiser, the Crown Prince, and any other canker in the side of Germany and of the world.
2. Establishment of a German republic, to work in harmony with the other great democracies of the world in preventing a repetition of the present horror.
3. Restoration of Belgium, Serbia, and Rumania, with heavy indemnities to the two former.
4. Freedom of the Dardanelles.
5. Restoration of Alsace-Lorraine to France.

Is it not a simple matter after all? The first two conditions are actually for the benefit of Germany herself. The remainder are necessities, which will be brought about sooner or later anyway, and do not impose an undue degree of hardship on her—in fact, practically none at all.

You will say that I am disregarding the Lusitania, Miss Cavell, Captain Fryatt, the submarine warfare, Zeppelin raids, and other matters. I am doing so purposely and only of necessity. We are not discussing grounds for continuing the war, but terms of peace. The other matters involved can be settled by arbitration when we can deal with true representatives of the German people, in whom we can have confidence.

Berlin Denials.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your headline this morning, "Berlin Repudiates Kaiser Telegram," is well chosen. Whatever William II. may be, he never will deny the authenticity of his message to President Wilson. But with "Berlin" the case is different. "Berlin" lies early and late about matters small and matters great. And today it is the falsehoods of Berlin, continuously told to the "German people," that are prolonging the war, and will prolong it until the ruin of Germany is complete—as it deserves to be.

W. T. HORNADAY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There was an article published in your paper of Aug. 12, "No Troops to Russia," by Miss Hapgood. I, too, voice these sentiments. Not a single American soldier should go to Russia. Russia does not lack man-power. The ex-Emperor during 1915-16 sent three armies to France and one to Saloniki to aid the Allies on the West. Surely it is the Western Allies who need aid. I do not know of another American who is such an authority on Russia and her people as Miss Hapgood.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with a good deal of satisfaction your article in this morning's Times entitled "The Supply of Ships." It is really encouraging that so much has been done toward solving the shipping question, and it seems that there will be a goodly number of ships available for work by the early part of the year, but is there any one raising an army of officers and sailors to man these ships? It will be poor comfort if when we have the ships we have no men to man them.

Noting the article in regard to, I think, the just complaint of our boys abroad in being nicknamed "Sammies," I suggest the name "Liberty Lads" as appropriate and conferring an honor upon them.

MEDICAL STUDENTS' PLACE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Last May the Council of National Defense advised the Deans of all the medical schools to dissuade their students from leaving school for the purpose of enlisting in hospital units, officers' training camps, or other branches of active service, but rather to remain and complete their medical studies, assuring them that by so doing they would render the greatest possible service to the country. The present policy of drafting medical students into the ranks is obviously contrary to this counsel, and is an injury to the country and an injustice to the students.

The percentage of medical students affected by the first draft is 29 and in the first two drafts 40. These percentages are daily increasing as the draft progresses. Of senior students who receive their degrees in 1918 40 per cent. are in the first draft and 60 per cent. in the first two drafts. These percentages show how seriously the immediately forthcoming supply of young doctors is menaced. With no assurance of being allowed to complete their studies, no prospective students will risk entering a training so long and tedious. It is the authoritative statement of the medical school Faculties that it will be quite impossible to continue their courses of instruction under such conditions.

This will not only reduce the number of medical men available for Government service, but has also, already, a matter quite as important, created a serious situation in depleting the staffs of the hospitals of the country. These hospitals for years have absorbed the entire output of the medical schools, and will be unable to obtain young graduate doctors to serve on their house staffs.

England and France at the outset of the war took for their armies large numbers of medical students. The shortsightedness of this policy became so evident that medical students were hurriedly recalled from trenches and training camps to complete their studies. At present in England, in spite of this recall, there is but one doctor to every 8,000 of civilian population. In the city of Havre, France, with a population of 135,000, there are just eighteen practicing physicians. Indeed, the visiting allied commissions have each felt this condition so acutely that one of their first requests from the United States was for doctors. This makes imperative the conservation of our medical resources both for our own military and civilian needs and for those of our allies. Let it be remembered that, while it takes months to make a soldier, it takes years to make a doctor. The students in question have already had years of specialized training; to throw away these years of technical training by drafting these men into the ranks is diametrically opposed to the spirit of the selective draft.

The local boards have no authority to exempt medical students. Dr. Goldwater, former Health Commissioner of New York, in an interview with Charles E. Hughes, Chairman of the District Board of New York City, learned that medical students could not be exempted either by the district boards or by the President himself according to the law.

The Medical Committee of the Council of National Defense has suggested, as a solution of the problem, to Secretary Baker that the drafted students be granted furloughs to complete their studies. This, Mr. Baker has ruled, is impossible under existing army regulations. According to the authorities the only solution of the problem lies in the enactment by Congress of legislation that will exempt students temporarily for the completion of their studies.

Therefore it is suggested that the press bring the facts conspicuously before the public and urge the people to influence their representatives in the houses of Congress, by letter and every means possible, to a speedy enactment of such legislation as will conserve the medical resources of the country.

Trying to Draft Soldiers?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Since some of the local Draft Boards are being investigated for various reasons, allow me to call attention to one peculiar piece of stupidity on the part of some one connected with the work of these boards.

On July 7 my son joined the National Guard, went through required examinations, and was sworn in the same day. Soon after July 15, when his company was mobilized, he went through a second physical examination by United States officers, was sworn into the United States Army, and is now a Sergeant in the Ammunition Train Company, No. 7.

On Aug. 10 he received notice of his place in the draft, and sent a reply stating the facts of his enlistment, certified to by the commander of his company, which he delivered in person and in uniform.

Today he has received a letter from the Chairman of the board saying "it will not be necessary for you to file any papers claiming exemption in the selective draft until you have received notice that you have been called to appear for physical examination."

What is the meaning of this last letter?

My son informs me that some ten men of his company, whose numbers were drawn in the draft, and receiving the regular notice, have appeared before the board, in uniform, with a written certificate from their commanding officer certifying that they were soldiers in the service of the United States; nevertheless, the board or boards have demanded that they take off their uniforms and undergo a third physical examination—by the local board!

And in one instance the soldier, refusing in a point blank manner, came near getting into a fight with the board by disputing its authority.

What is the meaning of all this? Is it stupidity? Or are the examining surgeons getting paid per head for their examinations?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am desired by the Consul General to inform you that a pathetic appeal has been received by this office on behalf of a lady named Mrs. Rassineux, nee Sullivan, who is dying of cancer in Paris, France, and who is most anxious to get in touch with her four sisters, Nellie, (now Mrs. Healy,) Norah, Julia, and Hannah, and her brother John, who emigrated to America from Ireland and were residing in or near New York when Mrs. Rassineux last heard of them.

Unfortunately, the New York addresses are unknown.

The Consul General would very greatly appreciate any publicity which you may be so good as to give this information, with a view, if possible, to assisting this unfortunate woman in again getting into communication with her brother and sisters before she dies.

SUPERPATRIOTISM.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the current issue of Viereck's Weekly, formerly The Fatherland, (changed in name but not in spirit,) Mr. Viereck, in the course of a rather flabby attack on The Vigilantes, an organization of writers and authors, with which I happen to be connected, speaks of "Hermann Hagedorn, a renegade German-American." From a man like Mr. Viereck denunciation is an honor, to be remembered in moments of depression like the famous kiss that "Jenny" gave Leigh Hunt. That, at least, is my personal feeling. I find, however, that certain German-Americans, even those who are unquestionably loyal to the United States, seem to feel that Mr. Viereck has said something noteworthy. Those who knew my father even insist, not without heat, that certain very limited endeavors of mine to call attention to the insidious and pernicious nature of the propaganda being conducted in German-language papers and in Viereck's Weekly constitute a disgrace to his name.

I am not writing this for the purpose of airing my personal affairs in your columns. This matter appears to me to have a wider than a merely personal aspect. It seems to me important to draw your attention and the attention of your readers to the fact that there are a great many people in the United States who believe that any one of German blood who works with any vigor at all against Germany is a renegade. It is unnecessary to ask, a renegade to whom? A renegade to Germany, of course. That goes without saying, so no one bothers to mention it.

But Mr. Viereck, in bestowing distinction upon me, does not call me a renegade German, but a "renegade German-American." Now, what under the canopy does he mean? I am not a renegade German, for I never was a German, having been born in the United States. I am certainly not a renegade American, for if I were Mr. Viereck would not be denouncing me. He would be calling me "a pillar of democracy," like Gumshoe Bill or Senator La Follette. I am neither a renegade German nor a renegade American. So I am "a renegade German-American."

There seem to be people in this country to whom German-Americanism is a definite entity, a mystic mating of German spirit and American clay, of German "Geist" and useful American dollars, a supernatural union to which a special superpatriotism is due. That is, of course, emphatically bunk—pernicious bunk. German-Americanism is not in any sense, mystic or otherwise, a union of anything. If it is anything concrete at all, it is a wedge, with the sledge-hammer in the hands of Germany.

As an American most desirous of not dishonoring the spirit of those of his forebears who worked and prospered and lived happily under American institutions, I heartily wish that you would endeavor persistently to make clear to your readers of German origin that the sacrosanct German-Americanism to which they raise their wooden images is a fatuous unreality, given an appearance of reality only by the editorial hocus-pocus of German propagandists. The breath of the Kaiser has for a time given it life. Choke that breath, (as we intend,) and their wispy god dissolves, leaving them alone and disillusioned in the midst of a hostile people whose fellowship they scoffed at and rejected. In those bitter days their German Alliances and their Staats-Zeitungs will be cold comfort.

FOREIGN-LANGUAGE PRESS.

A Hungarian Paper Considers That It Has a Mission.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Professor John William Scholl of the University of Michigan, in your issue of Aug. 12, makes the sweeping suggestion that "the foreign-language newspaper has no defensible place in the general scheme of American life, even in times of peace." A very general, very sweeping statement.

There are big, tremendously important problems facing the nation—the question of how to absorb the millions of aliens we have with us, how to make this land of many nationalities into a nation where all the aliens are fused into a unit, united in sentiment and patriotism and loyalty—but instead of working out these problems and recognizing their existence it is better to ignore them, à la ostrich, and simply suggest in a nonchalant way that the foreign press has no defensible place in the American scheme of things.

The foreign-language press has a most important place in American life. We need foreigners here to dig the coal, roll the steel, weave the cloth, &c., and as long as we need them—and ask any manufacturer or mine operator if he could get along without them—the question is how to utilize their labor force and implant in them an attitude of loyalty and devotion to the new land. Here is where the foreign-language press has a most noble, most important rôle.

It is our duty and pleasure, who are editors and publishers of these foreign-language newspapers, to Americanize our readers, to make them understand the spirit of the country they are living in. Just to show you what some of us are doing along this line:

My newspaper, the Magyar Munkaslap, (Hungarian Workmen's Journal,) is a weekly and contains week after week an English lesson, a citizenship lesson prepared for it by an expert of the National Americanization Committee, and we are going to conduct a regular, systematic course in "safety first." Every week we are publishing an editorial in English urging employers of labor to Americanize their workmen and making suggestions how to do it. To further the Liberty Loan we have given space of very great value to the Government, urging our readers to subscribe, and I have a letter from Mr. Woolley, formerly Director of Publicity of the Liberty Loan of 1917, expressing the Government's thanks for the very great help we have given in making the loan a success.

Has Professor Scholl any idea what a fiasco the registration of June 5 and the draft would have been, as far as the foreign-born are concerned, had it not been for the fact that the foreign-language press devoted thousands and thousands of columns to acquaint their readers with the machinery and scope of this radical innovation in our national life? The duty and necessity of the nation are to absorb its immigrants and turn them into good, loyal American citizens. When this process shall have been completed, then—and only then—will the usefulness of the foreign-language press have ceased.

TEN LIEUTENANTS; TWO CAPTAINS WED

BRIDE OF LIEUT. MILLER

Captain Otis Love Guernsey, a son of Nathaniel T. Guernsey, general counsel of the New York Telephone Company, and Mrs. Guernsey, and Miss Margaret Clarkson Henderson, a daughter of Francis Henderson, Vice President of the Empire Trust Company, and Mrs. Henderson of New York and Amidie Farm, Scotch Plains, N. J., were married at noon yesterday in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, by the assistant rector, the Rev. Mr. Matthews. Lilies and palms decorated the chantry. The wedding was quiet, with no reception after it, as the bridegroom has only a short leave of absence, and the ceremony was a hurried one.

The bride wore a girlish frock of white chiffon, having many silver stitched ruffles. The chiffon train was bordered with white satin, with touches of silver and orange blossoms. Her voluminous tulle veil was simply banded about her coiffure with orange blossoms, and she carried lilies of the valley.

Miss Maud Kahn, daughter of Otto Kahn, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a mauve chiffon slip with a plaited cape to match, falling from a filet lace collar in the back to the hem of the slip. The flowing sleeves were of chiffon, and her large round hat was of chiffon to match.

Miss Witherbee a Bride.

The wedding of Lieutenant Charles Duncan Miller, a son of Mrs. Charles Addison Miller, and Miss Evelyn S. Witherbee, the only daughter of Mrs. Frank Spencer Witherbee and the late Mr. Witherbee of 4 Fifth Avenue and Ledgeside, Port Henry, was solemnized at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Grace Church, the Rev. Dr. Charles Lewis Slattery performing the ceremony. The church was decorated with giant palms and masses of hydrangeas, even the vestibule being massed with flowers and palms.

The bridegroom, who has been at Plattsburg, was recently commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the national army, and wore khaki. The bride, whose uncle, W. Rhinelander Stewart, gave her in marriage, wore a white satin gown with a long court train. A panel of rosepoint went from the low neck in the front to the bottom of the skirt, and was caught with orange blossoms, and her wide veil was of old family rosepoint, yellowed with age and arranged in a ruffled diadem in front. She carried lilies of the valley and wore a handsome diamond necklace. She also wore a short string of pearls.

Weds Lieutenant John Clinton Gray.

Lieutenant John Clinton Gray, a son of the late Judge John Clinton Gray, and Mrs. Grace Eaton Schoonmaker, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Eaton, were married quietly at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Church of the Heavenly Rest by the Rev. Joseph E. Ivie. Lieutenant Gray's brother, Henry G. Gray, who married Miss Edith Deacon, was his best man. There were no other attendants and there was no reception, the families going to the bride's apartment, 899 Park Avenue, for refreshments.

Those present at the ceremony were Mrs. John Clinton Gray, Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Hitt, Austen Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Zabriskie Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. Eltinge Warner, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Iselin.

Mr. Gray has just been commissioned a Lieutenant, and after a brief honeymoon will report for service.

Carll-Eilbeck.

Lieutenant James H. Carll, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Harvey Carll of Garden City, L. I., and Miss Helen Cowperthwait Eilbeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs John Herbert Eilbeck of New York, were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of the bride's uncle, Herbert M. D. Cowperthwait, North Broadway, Yonkers, the Rev. Oscar F. Treder, Dean of the Cathedral of the Incarnation, Garden City, officiating.

The bride, wearing a white satin gown trimmed with point lace and a veil of old family point lace, carried orchids and wore a diamond brooch, the bridegroom's gift. Her only attendant was Mrs. Jesse Wasserman, as the matron of honor, in yellow chiffon over blue satin, with a blue hat. Thomas B. Stillwell was best man. There were no ushers.

Lieutenant Gorham Takes a Bride.

Miss Lucille Antoinette Cahill, daughter of Mrs. Lawrence F. Cahill of 159 Watchung Avenue, Montclair, N. J., and Lieutenant Edwin F. Gorham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Gorham of New York, were married yesterday noon at the home of the bride by the Rev. J. A. McGeary, rector of St. Cassian's R. C. Church. The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Frederick W. Palmer of Kew Gardens, L. I., and the best man was Mr. Palmer. Lieutenant Palmer is in the cavalry section of the Reserve Officers' Corps, and after a short wedding trip will report for duty.

Married at the Biltmore.

Frederick E. Robins, President of Robins, Limited, of Toronto, a real estate corporation, and Mrs. Charles Reed of Great Barrington, Mass., were married at noon yesterday in a private suite at the Hotel Biltmore, the Rev. Joseph Lyons of Great Barrington officiating. A luncheon at the Biltmore followed and Mr. and Mrs. Robins then left for a tour of Canada.

Among those at the wedding were Lieutenant Kenneth F. MacLaren of the Tenth Royal Grenadiers, and Mrs. MacLaren, a daughter of the bridegroom; Captain Charles Reed, U. S. A., stationed at the Mineola flying grounds, and Mrs. Reed; Lieutenant Alfred Reed, an aid on General John F. O'Ryan's staff; Major Edwin Moore, Miss Helen Reed, Stephen K. Reed, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Skitt, the parents of the bride, of Yonkers, N. Y.

Captain Stanleigh Greene Weds.

Captain Stanleigh Greene, U. S. R., and Miss Constance Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mills Alden, were married last evening at the National Arts Club by the Rev. Mr. McCormack of the Chapel of the Intercession. Mrs. William Parker Sedgwick, Jr., was the matron of honor, and Miss Margaret Sumner maid of honor. Mrs. Nelson Greene of Princeton, Mrs. Mortimer Arnold, and the Misses Claire River and Margaret Widdemer held the ribbons for the temporary aisle.

Lieutenant Frank Greene, U. S. A., was his brother's best man. The ushers were Lieutenant Philip Meany, Lieutenant Harry Robbins of Boston, Lieutenant Clifford Dennis, and Lieutenant Maurice Blake.

Lieut. C. H. Halsted Marries.

Lieutenant Cornelius H. Halsted, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harsen Halsted of Morristown, and Miss Marie B. Letchford, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Letchford, also of Morristown, were married yesterday in the chantry of St. Thomas's Church, Fifth Avenue. The engagement was announced in April. Mrs. Halsted is a sister of Mrs. Endicott Flake of Morristown and Palmer Letchford. Mr. Halsted is a brother of the Misses Ethel and Marie Halsted.

Seligman-Jaretski.

The marriage of Eustace Seligman, a son of Professor Edwin R. A. Seligman of Columbia University and Mrs. Seligman, and Miss Maud Jaretski, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jaretski, took place yesterday at the residence of the bride's parents, 121 East Seventy-third Street. The Rev. Dr. John Elliott of the Ethical Culture Society performed the ceremony in the presence of the families. There were no attendants. Mr. Seligman is a lawyer and is about to enter the army.

Kidde-Banta.

Lieutenant Regnar Theron Kidde and Miss Mildred Banta, daughter of Dr. Francis M. Banta and Mrs. Banta of 15 West 101st Street, were married yesterday at noon in the Broadway Tabernacle by the Rev. Robert S. MacArthur. Lieutenant Ridgely Bryan was best man. Lieutenant Kidde is to go to camp on his return from his honeymoon.

Mitchell—Stoddard.

Because he must leave for his post in a few days, Lieutenant John Randolph Mitchell of New York City, a Plattsburg graduate, and Miss Alice Stoddard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Stoddard, were married Wednesday night at the bride's home in Pelhamwood by the Rev. Tilman B. Johnson, pastor of Salem Baptist Church of New Rochelle. There were few guests present and no attendants.

De Bevois—Crosby.

Miss Mary Ganson Crosby, daughter of former Assemblyman and Mrs. W. Clive Crosby of East Orange, was married last night in St. Thomas's Church, Newark, to Second Lieutenant C. Richmond De Bevoise, son of Mrs. Charles R. De Bevoise of Newark. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Henry C. Swentzel, rector of St. Luke's Church, Brooklyn. A reception followed at the Robert Treat Hotel.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 17.—Miss Louise E. Morgenthau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mengo L. Morgenthau of 38 West Seventy-third Street, New York, and Hugo S. Joseph of 47 West Eighty-sixth Street, New York, were married at 1 o'clock today at the Morgenthau home on Cedar Avenue. Two hundred guests witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Samuel Schulman of Temple Beth El, New York.

The ushers were Leo S. Joseph and Leonard B. Shoenfeld, and M. H. St. Joseph was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Agnes Morgenthau, Miss Beatrice Joseph, Miss Joseph, and Miss Kathleen Shoenfeld. The bride was gowned in white satin court train lace and carried white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Special to The New York Times.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 16.—The marriage of Second Lieutenant John Hunter McIlroy, son of J. Hunter McIlroy of Philadelphia and Mrs. G. D. Worrell of Mt. Holly, N. J., and Miss Phyllis Barber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Barber of Morristown, took place here today in Mr. Barber's private chapel. Chaplain C. B. Dunball and the Rev. H. C. Mitchell officiated. The wedding was hurried as the battery has been ordered to go to Alabama tomorrow.

OUR OFFICERS' CLUB IN LONDON ASSURED

WILSON'S EMBARGO PRAISED

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

LONDON, July 25.—Harry Brittain is busily engaged getting in readiness for an American Officers' Club the handsome residence in Curzon Street of Lord Leconfield, which the latter has vacated for the purpose. There are twenty bedrooms in the house, and it is otherwise admirably suited for the purpose. There will be a small charge for the rooms, to go toward club maintenance. Meals will be served at absolute cost. The Pilgrims, of whom Mr. Brittain is the leading spirit, are in charge of the enterprise, which owes its inception to Lord Leconfield's unselfish liberality. He has moved into a smaller house in another part of town. He and the Pilgrims hope that this club will exert an influence in bringing officers in the American Army to London for their times of rest.

⁂

The Rev. Dr. Hugh Birckhead of Emmanuel Church, Baltimore, and formerly rector of St. George's Parish, New York, came over on the Baltic to spend a few weeks in England and France. The purpose of his visit is to get "local color" for addresses to be delivered in America on war conditions in Europe. While here Dr. Birckhead is accepting invitations to talk to English audiences on the American point of view. He is one of the really brilliant speakers of America, and his activities will be of benefit on both sides of the Atlantic.

⁂

I was talking with a well-known London editor on the subject of lack of protection for merchantmen, many of which are still provided only with one gun, as before America's coming in removed limitations. "Why don't you start a campaign in America?" he suggested. "Adopt the slogan, 'Gun the ships.' America should do it. We are stretched full length in our race with manifold needs. In respect to gunning the ships, there will be a great economy in America's doing it. You have more labor, and ore and steel are immensely more plentiful and cheaper on your side."

I suppose there are organized methods for considering and deciding such questions. They would seem to fall under Lord Northcliffe's authority.

⁂

The President's stand on supplies for neutrals has given great satisfaction here. Sir Edward (now Viscount) Grey lost his popularity in England largely through his effort to accommodate the English blockade to the demands of the Washington Government. It is no exaggeration to say that the war might have been won by now if the screws had been clamped down hard from the outset upon the neutrals who supplied Germany. Sir Edward Grey reasoned that it was better to take chances in Germany than in America. A particular point was made about cotton. The Southern States produce both the cotton crop and the vote which makes a Democratic Government possible. A blockade which shut out cotton would have had a painful repercussion in the South, and the Washington Administration might have been tremendously and peculiarly embarrassed. Even the comparatively lax blockade under Sir Edward Grey was constantly criticised and resented in Congress, and England was held up to scorn as an arch-tyrant using on Germany the merciless method of Oriental strangulation and incidentally interfering with American trade. I heard at the British front, in high quarters, expressions of gratification that the President had now taken hold of the neutral situation with a firm hand, and that the money-makers of the North Sea were no longer to be allowed to sell supplies to Germany against the lives of allied soldiers.

⁂

Speaking of the prolongation of the war by the half-way measures of the blockade, I tried to gather at the front the best opinion on how long the war would last. It was everywhere held that there were no military reasons why the war shouldn't go on two years longer; now that Russia seems definitely in a state of collapse, this putative period will stand considerable prolongation. Furthermore, speculation among army authorities whom I met was predicated upon having the submarine in check to such an extent as to be able to eliminate it as a military factor. It has since become apparent that the submarine must not only be considered a factor, but perhaps the chief factor. The war is so big, and so many activities of a spectacular character are in progress, that it is difficult to put non-essentials on one side. Confusion of counsel and division of action have interfered fatally with the conduct of the war. At every stage there has been some one thing upon which effort might have been concentrated with decisive result.

⁂

Within the last few days I have heard military authorities giving a serious opinion to the effect that the war could be won right now by providing Italy with money and material. It was contended that she had the Generals and the soldiers, but was paralyzed for lack of coal, steel, munitions, and war tackle in general. Napoleon was quoted as authority for thrusting at Germany through Austria. While the discussion was proceeding a shrewd old Balkan General put in with this advice: "If America should stake Italy for a big drive into Austria she should send at least six divisions of officers and soldiers to stiffen the Italians. It is true that their soldiers are healthy, hard, and brave; but American flesh, blood, and brains should go along with American money and material."

⁂

The news of vast multiplication of German artillery through the adoption and general use of the 5.9 gun and its standardization jumps with what I have already sent you from the front in reference to the abandonment of big guns except for siege and other specific and limited purposes. The six-inch gun, which as a howitzer is good for 10,000 yards and as a naval gun for 17,000, now commands approval for steady work. I assume that the British and French are doing what the Germans are to facilitate production on a large scale. The news from America of the appropriation of over $600,000,000 for airplanes gives great satisfaction here, especially in view of the certainty that America will pursue the most modern methods, including standardization.

⁂

The sensational turn in the enlistment investigation and Lord Derby's sudden "chucking" of the whole business recalls an impression gained at the front from actual contact. For example, I met a former newspaper correspondent of my acquaintance who had just enlisted. He is 35 years old, a very bright fellow, with an astigmatism that renders him blind without his glasses. He gave up a salary of about $5,000 a year to be a private, with possibilities of promotion to the grade of Sergeant, not to fight in the trenches, which would be an absolute waste of material, but to do mental work of some kind. "The idea is," said he, 'that men like myself capable of service in private life shall come into the army and render corresponding service. What we are able to do will release able-bodied men for the trenches." The philosophy of it seemed sound.

⁂

The increasing number of women employed back of the front is worthy of remark. One sees scores of women in uniform driving ambulances, and they seem to be doing it cleverly. They certainly look sweet as they flash by. I spoke of that to the Tommy who was driving me. He snarled back that every one of these female drivers had to be helped by a male mechanician.

DANIELS WITHHOLDS REPLY.

Will Answer Thompson's Resignation Challenge When He Gets Letter

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Secretary Daniels said today that he had no answer to make at this time to the proposal of Colonel Robert M. Thompson to resign from the Presidency of the Navy League, as Mr. Daniels called upon him to do, if Mr. Daniels would retire from the Cabinet. "A sporting proposition" Colonel Thompson called it in the letter he gave out last night in response to Mr. Daniels's condemnation of the Navy League for publishing a statement that at the instigation of labor leaders the department had suppressed information that an explosion in a powder magazine at the Mare Island Navy Yard had been caused by a time fuse placed by an incendiary.

Mr. Daniels said that his answer would be given when he received Colonel Thompson's letter. Close associates of Mr. Daniels declared that he would not accept Colonel Thompson's "sporting proposition."

DELAHANTY LOSES POINT.

Appellate Division Decides Against Him in Election Contest.

In a decision handed down yesterday by the Appellate Division the complaint in a suit brought by ex-Judge James A. Delahanty in contesting the election of John F. McIntyre for a place on the Bench of General Sessions is dismissed.

The action of the higher court marks the end of another chapter in the legal proceedings by which Mr. Delahanty seeks to have a recount of the vote cast for Judge McIntyre at the last election in which Mr. Delahanty in the face of the returns was defeated. Justice Dowling wrote the prevailing decision in favor of McIntyre and Justice Page dissented. The action of Justice Page makes it possible to appeal the case to the Court of Appeals, which, if it reverses the Appellate Division, will allow Judge Delahanty to bring the suit to trial without filing a new suit.

Mr. Delahanty was the Republican nominee for re-election to General Sessions and his opponent on the Democratic ticket was Judge McIntyre. The latter was declared elected by a plurality of 819. As soon as the results were announced Delahanty began his suit, alleging that a new canvass of the ballots would show that he was elected. It was alleged for Judge McIntyre that even were some of the invalid ballots declared void there was still a plurality of about 200, leaving a safe majority for McIntyre.

WAR CALLS MANY MEN FROM BANKS

DRAFT TO TAKE THOUSANDS

Guaranty Trust Co. Has 150 in Service and 700 Subject to Call—Salary Payments Stop.

The war has made serious inroads on the organizations of large Wall Street banks and trust companies, and the practice of hiring women to fill places made vacant by men called to arms has become widespread. Many institutions which formerly employed only one or two women as telephone operators now have on their staffs a considerable number of women workers, and their activities are not limited to stenography and filing, but extend to practically all departments, including the counting and sorting of money.

These changes were first made in the Fall of last year, when practically all the banks had to give up the services of young men who had been called to duty on the Mexican border. The number lost then was relatively small, and many institutions managed to get along by promoting office boys and by having some of the remaining clerks "double up" on their work. The situation became more acute upon the declaration of war by the United States, which was followed by wholesale enlistments in the army and navy and registrations in officers' training camps. The men lost through enlistments appeared negligible when banks began to compute the number of employes who were subject to the selective draft. Bankers were amazed to find that the plans for the conscript army affected from 35 to 50 per cent. of the total number of men employed, the percentage varying. While it is impossible to figure out the number of men who will be called on the first draft, various institutions estimate that they will lose from 30 to 100 men.

An idea of the extent to which Wall Street banks have been hit by the war is afforded by figures obtained yesterday. These show that the Guaranty Trust Company, the largest trust company in the United States, already has 150 men in service; that nearly 700 of the 1,400 men in its employ are subject to the draft and that about 100 will probably be called in the first contingent. The bank has 1,700 employes in all, of whom 300 are women. The number of women has greatly increased in the last few months.

The National City Bank, the largest national bank in the country, has 140 men in the military service and 453 are subject to the draft, with the expectation that about 75 will go on the first call. The bank employs 400 women in addition to a staff of about 1,000 men. Sixty-five per cent. of the women employes have only recently been added to the roster. These figures are exclusive of the National City Company's staff, which is also very large.

The National Bank of Commerce, which has 630 employes, has fifty men in service and 168 are subject to the draft. The women employes number 147. The Bankers Trust Company, exclusive of its Fifth Avenue branch, has 525 employes, of whom 185 are women. Forty-one of the men are in military service and more than 100 are subject to the draft. The Chase National Bank has about fifty men in service and 100 are subject to the draft.

Besides the loss of a large number of employes, practically all of the banks have contributed officers to the Red Cross organization and to the Treasury Department. Among the bankers who have temporarily given up their regular duties are Henry P. Davison of J. P. Morgan & Co., President Gibson of the Liberty National, Brig. Gen. Grayson M. P. Murphy, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company; Vice President Perkins of the National City, and Vice President Franklin of the Guaranty, who is assisting Secretary McAdoo.

While up to the present time the practice of banks has been to pay the salaries of the men who have gone into training or service—some institutions adopting the policy of paying the difference between the regular salaries and the payments made by the Government—from now on the general disposition will be to discontinue all salary payments. A number of institutions, among them the Columbia Trust Company, have advised their employes that all salary payments to men not actually working would terminate on Sept. 1. In a number of instances the banks have decided to give their men a bonus of two weeks' or one month's salary, the idea being that the same would help them to arrange their affairs before going away to training camps.

Although the general policy will be to discontinue the salaries, most banks have decided to make no hard and fast rule, but to consider each case on its merits. In instances where it appears that an employe has dependents, who cannot be adequately supported by the funds received from the Government, the banks will make liberal allowances. In practically every case the men have been advised that they will get their jobs back upon their return.

In discussing the policy of not paying salaries to men in their employ who go to war, a banker said that the Chamber of Commerce of the United States had recommended that employers adopt this policy. He called attention to the experience of banks in England and Canada, where at the beginning of the war in 1914, to encourage volunteering, they decided to continue the salaries, but later found it necessary to stop the payments. The banker said that the war called for sacrifices on the part of everybody, and that banks contributed their share in the form of heavy taxes. The support of dependents, he said, was a Governmental function and that bills had already been introduced in Congress providing for money disbursements to relatives of men conscripted.

In Canada army and navy dependents have three sources of income to draw upon, all independent of any allowances by employers in their individual capacities. First, a portion of the pay of each soldier or sailor is sent to those dependent upon him, the percentage of this deduction being determined by individual conditions; second, the Government makes a "separation allowance," a flat sum regardless of the size of the family, which is designed to enable dependents to approximate the pre-enlistment maintenance standard, and, third, there is a National Patriotic Fund, raised by voluntary public subscription and distributed by a corporate organization which takes care of unusual and needy cases.

REV. DR. G. H. McGREW DIES.

President of Methodist Episcopal Archdeaconry of Washington.

The Rev. Dr. George Harrison McGrew, President of the Methodist Episcopal Archdeaconry of Washington, D. C., and President of the Ecclesiastical Court, died Wednesday at the home of his sister in Morgantown, W. Va. He was born in Kingswood, Va., in 1846, and was educated at Wesleyan University, Conn., at Harvard, and at the Drew Theological Seminary.

In 1875 Dr. McGrew went to India for ten years as missionary of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and while there he was acting chaplain of the famous Black Watch Regiment, the Forty-second Highlanders. Later he was pastor of St. Paul's Church in New York and assistant in the parish of St. Bartholomew, New York, from 1892 to 1897.

Dr. Hosea Ellsworth Walker.

Dr. Hosea Ellsworth Walker, a Staten Island physician attached to St. Vincent's Hospital, S. I., died suddenly yesterday at his home on New York Avenue, Fort Wadsworth. He was born in Springfield, Mo., fifty-two years ago. He was graduated from Bellevue Medical College, and since that time had practiced medicine in and about New York. He had been a resident of Staten Island for nineteen years. Dr. Walker was formerly a member of the staff of St. Vincent's Hospital, Manhattan. He was a member of the Richmond County Medical Society. The body has been sent to his birthplace for burial.

SANTA ANNA'S CAPTOR DIES.

Peter S. Daly, Mexican War Veteran, Succumbs at 94.

Peter S. Daly, one of the few remaining veterans of the Mexican war, and said to be the man who captured General Santa Anna, died yesterday in his home, 843 Elton Avenue, the Bronx, in his ninety-fifth year. After his return from the war Mr. Daly was a member of the metropolitan police force. Later he was attached to the Controller's office and became well known in the politics of the old Sixteenth Ward.

He took part in the first border war as a Sergeant in the Federalized Seventh New York Cavalry. There he saw service at Buena Vista and at Palo Alto under General Winfield Scott. By the conclusion of the campaign all the commissioned officers of Daly's company were killed, and it was to him as senior Sergeant that Santa Anna surrendered. After his retirement from business and politics Mr. Daly became a large property owner in the Bronx.

Kinahan Cornwallis.

Kinahan Cornwallis, a prominent lawyer of this city for many years, with offices at 95 Nassau Street, died on Wednesday in St. Luke's Hospital in his eighty-third year. Mr. Cornwallis, who was born in London, came to this country at an early age and at one time was financial editor of The New York Herald, later taking up the practice of law. On the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales, afterward King Edward VII., to the United States, in 1860, Mr. Cornwallis was appointed by the State Department as a representative of the Government to accompany the Prince on his tour of the country. Mr. Cornwallis was the oldest member of the St. George's Society. He left a son, Major Kinahan Cornwallis, now serving with the British army in Egypt, and a daughter, Miss Frances Cornwallis, now abroad.

Capt. F. W. Vogel of the 71st Dies.

Frederick W. Vogel, Captain of Company H, Seventy-first Regiment, now in camp at Van Cortlandt Park, died Wednesday night of stomach disease in the Mount Vernon Hospital. He had been under treatment since Aug. 9, when he was brought to the hospital from Hudson, N. Y., where he was in service with his regiment. He was 41 years of age and had been for many years a resident of Plainfield, N. J., where he was in the phonograph business. He enlisted in the Seventy-first Regiment at the beginning of the Spanish-American war. Captain Vogel was on the border last Summer with his regiment. A wife and daughter survive him.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

Skin Tortured Babies Sleep After Cuticura

It's really wonderful how quickly a hot bath with Cuticura Soap followed by a gentle anointing with Cuticura Ointment relieves irritations, burnings and chafings, permits sleep for infant and rest for mother, in many cases when it seems nothing would do any good. This is only one of the many things Cuticura does for the skin. Use them for everyday toilet purposes. They will aid you in having a clear skin, clean scalp, good hair and soft hands. Samples free by return mail for the asking. Address post-card: "Cuticura," Dept. 6M, Boston. Sold everywhere.

SALLEE ADDS TENTH VICTORY TO STRING

ZIM AND KAUFF ACTIVE

Heinie Contributes Three Hits and Benny Two as Their Share Toward 5 to 3 Outcome.

Sheriff Slim Sallee placed his tenth straight victory of the season on the shelf yesterday when he turned the St. Louis Cardinals back to defeat by a score of 5 to 3. As Sallee played hookey from the Cards to catch on with the Giants, there is no sweeter occurrence for the Cards than to beat him. They tried hard to turn the trick, especially in the last two innings, but Sallee, encouraged by good support, pulled out of the difficulty.

With the passing of the Brooklyn disturbers from the Polo Grounds, peace and quiet reigns once more under Coogan's Bluff. It takes a lot more fuss and trouble to beat Brooklyn than the Cards. Miller Huggins, the St. Louis manager, is just as small as ever, but his ambitions have grown considerably. The Cards are now in third place, and have an eye on beating the Phils for the second berth. In beating the Cardinals the Giants took another jump nearer the National League pennant. They are getting so close to it now that they can easily read the word "Champions" on it.

The work of Heinie Zimmerman and Benny Kauff again stood out in the game. Kauff, with two hits to his credit, upheld his place as the second best clouter in the National League, Eddie Roush being the only batsman who is in front of him. It is two former Federal Leaguers who are now setting the batting pace in the older league. For a long time Benny was the target for much fun about his confidence as a ball player, but his work with the Giants bears out the opinion that Benny had of himself.

Sallee, in winning his tenth straight, is rounding out a better record than he has ever made in his baseball career. He couldn't pitch that way in St. Louis and he can in New York, so the fault all must be with St. Louis. Arthur Fletcher was back in the game, evidently none the worse for his recent engagement with Casey Stengel.

Giants Undaunted by Doak.

Willie Doak, one of the best of the Cardinal pitchers, was sent against Sallee, but the heavy artillery of the Giants had no trouble in hitting him often. Strange as it may seem, there wasn't a home run in yesterday's game, although Hornsby, the Prince of St. Louis, got a triple in the first and Baird got one in the ninth. The Zim person was very active with the stick, driving out three singles. While Kauff performed famously with his bat, he was slightly off in his fielding and throwing yesterday, two errors being chalked up against him.

With two gone in the first, Miller tapped the Higginsport Sheriff for a single to centre. Roger Hornsby cracked a triple to left, sending Miller home. Fletcher got Cruise at first for the third out. The Giants got that run back in their portion of the same inning. After two runners had expired at first, Kauff plastered a safe hopper between short and second. Benjamin promptly stole second. Zimmerman singled to left, scoring Kauff. Zim kept right on to second and was safe when Doak, after intercepting the throw from left, made a bad toss to the middle corner. Fletcher's rocket to Miller ended the inning.

The Giants hammered Doak hard in the third. After Sallee died at first, Burns ambled and went to second on Herzog's tap to left. Kauff banged a single to centre sending Burns over the plate. Zim's second single scored Herzog, and Kauff counted when Fletcher delivered a single. Robertson bounded a hopper to Paulette, who got Zim at the plate. Holke's balloon to Miller brought the entertaining little session to an untimely end.

Benny's Throw Wild.

Gonzales greeted Sallee in the fifth with a single to left. Doak pumped a long fly to Kauff, and when Benny threw the ball into the Giants' bench trying get the Cuban before he got back to first, Gonzales traveled around to third. He registered on Long's sacrifice fly to Kauff. Fletcher opened the sixth with a single to left and Robertson outraced a tap along the first base line. Holke sacrificed the boys along a station, and Doak was so afraid of Gibson's bat that he walked him purposely, filling the bases.

Sallee banged a grasser to Hornsby, who threw to Miller, forcing Gibson. Fletcher counting on the play. Burns's demise at first ended the scrimmage. St. Louis showed dangerous symptoms of staging a rally in the first half of the eighth. Long singled to left centre and was forced by Smith. Miller rolled to Zim, who made a bad toss to force Smith, and Smith went to third.

Hornsby was up and looked dangerous, but the Giants emitted a sigh of relief when the Prince lifted an innocent foul fly to Gibson. Cruise, the hard hitter was up, and Miller stole second unmolested. Cruise got a pass and the bases were overflowing. It was now up to Gene Paulette. He hit the ball, and far, but Benny Kauff administered immediate relief when he camped under the rocket.

Baird tripled to right centre in the ninth and scored when Fletcher was throwing Gonzales out at first. Snyder, batting for Doak, singled to left, but the trouble was ended when Smythe, batting for Long, hit into a double-play.

PHILLIES TRIUMPH TWICE.

Bancroft's Home Run Helps in Double Defeat of Pirates.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—Philadelphia won two games from Pittsburgh today, the scores being 5 to 3 and 3 to 0.

A home run by Bancroft with two men on the bases in the third inning, following the scoring of one run in that session, gave the home team the victory in the first game.

In the second contest Philadelphia bunched hits in two innings with run-getting effect. Bancroft and Whitted made wonderful fielding plays in both contests.

Ackerman to Run Unattached.

The latest of the New York A. C. athletes to request the Amateur Athletic Union officials to change his registration to unattached is Hugh Ackerman, the Winged Foot Club's distance runner. This will permit Ackerman to compete in the coming senior metropolitan championship track and field games to be held at Celtic Park on Aug. 25. If he is successful in these, he may earn a trip to St. Louis to compete for the national titles.

MATTY'S REDS TOO MUCH FOR DODGERS

Homecoming of the Robins to Brooklyn Is Considerably Saddened by 3 to 2 Defeat.

Christy Mathewson's Cincinnati Reds were a bit too energetic for the homecoming Dodgers at Ebbets Field yesterday, when they stole away the opening game of the series with the score 3 to 2. There was only a handful of Brooklyn fans on hand to see the contest, and even those few felt their hopes slip away to low tide when Fred Toney was called to face Leon Cadore. By the victory over the Robins Toney increased his total of games won this season to twenty-one.

In many respects it was rather a livelier ball game than has been played in Brooklyn for some time. Several slips by Wilbert Robinson's men threatened disaster, but until the winning run crossed the plate in the ninth inning the Dodgers were keyed up for a victory. Cadore almost lost the struggle in the eighth inning with a lurid heave that nearly permitted Groh to score from second.

Even now Groh insists that he did score, and the whole Cincinnati team backs him up. Quigley was at the plate, and he waved Groh out as Cadore caught the throw from Miller. That Cadore knew he had not touched the runner was evident by the fact that while Groh argued with Quigley, Cadore put the ball on him. In reality, Groh never did touch the plate, but went clear over it when he slid for the goal.

One of the unusual plays of the game came in the ninth, after Cincinnati had scored what proved to be the winning run. Cadore deliberately passed Wingo for a play on Toney, and thereby filled the bases. Toney forced Magee at the plate, and Cadore made the putout unassisted.

Errors played a part in the initial runs by both teams. Brooklyn was the first to score, a tally coming in the first inning. Johnston singled to right, and stretched it to second base when Neale threw wild. He advanced on Daubert's infield out and scored when Kopf's return of Myers's grounder was a bit late to get him at the plate.

The Reds corralled a pair of runs in the next inning. Chase opened with a double to right, and took third on Magee's sacrifice. Johnston messed up Neale's grounder, and Chase scored. Johnston foozled another grounder from Shean's bat, and Neale moved around to third on the error. Wingo's sacrifice fly to left scored Neale.

Brooklyn tied the score in the fifth, when Myers scored after starting the trip around the bases with a pass. He went to third on a passed ball and scored on Stengel's out.

The final Cincinnati run was put across in the ninth. Roush singled to centre and went to second on Chase's out. He scored on Magee's single to centre.

The game scheduled for this afternoon has been moved forward, and will be played as the first one of a double-header tomorrow.

BAKER SUPPORTS GAMES.

Enlisted Champions May Get Furloughs for National Contests.

That the officials of the War Department are in favor of continuing athletic championships and will do all in their power toward making a success of any title-involving athletics contemplated was the announcement made yesterday by Verne R. C. Lacy, Chairman of the Registration Committee of the Western Association of the A. A. U., who is in this city to attend to business in connection with the national A. A. U. track and field championships, to be held at St. Louis on Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 and 3.

Lacy gave the above view while discussing an interview he had with Secretary of War Baker at Washington, with whom the Western A. A. U. official was in consultation on the possibility of procuring furloughs or short leaves of absence for enlisted athletic champions, so that they would be enabled to defend their titles at the coming meet. Secretary Baker admitted to Lacy that he was in favor of fostering all branches of sporting competition, despite the war, but added that he could not issue an order permitting furloughs or leaves for enlisted athletes.

Because of this, Secretary Baker referred Lacy to Adjt. Gen. McCain of Washington, who said that, while he could not undertake to issue a general order granting furloughs to all the athletes in the service on the days of the championships, he would hold the fact that the men were to participate in the championships sufficient reason for granting the furloughs to those who applied for them, and advised Lacy to have the athletes make individual application. This concession, however, was made conditional on its not conflicting with the issuance of other orders, such as the movements of the units to which the applicants belong.

This attitude on the part of the war officials at Washington added to the confidence of the promoters of the meet in its success this year, despite the war. It is expected now that the majority of those holding A. A. U. titles who are in various parts of the service will take advantage of this liberal offer, and a representative entry of title holders is predicted for the St. Louis meet.

The proceeds of the meet are to be donated to the Red Cross Society, and 3,000 representatives of this society have been enlisted for the purpose of selling tickets, which will be put on sale at a nominal price. The games will be held on Francis Field, Washington University's athletic field, which was the scene of the Olympic games in 1904.

TO COMPETE UNATTACHED.

Another of the prominent local athletes who has had his registration changed to unattached so that he could compete in the senior metropolitan track and field championships to be held at Celtic Park on Aug. 25 is Jack Eller, the champion hurdler, who formerly competed under the colors of the Irish-American A. C. Announcement was made yesterday at the headquarters of the local association of the A. A. U. that Eller's request had been granted, and that the former I. A. A. C. star would start in his favorite event at the coming metropolitan championships.

Donations for prizes to be awarded at the championships were received yesterday by Herman Obertubbesing, Chairman of the Metropolitan Association Senior Track and Field Championship Committee, from the Pastime A. C. and [illegible] With the prizes came entries from [illegible] athletes of these two clubs. Entries for the games close on Aug. 20 with Mr. Obertubbesing.

CHAJES IS N. Y. CHAMPION.

Obtains Unbeatable Lead for Chess Honors at Rochester.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 16.—By beating Harold M. Phillips in a Sicilian defense after thirty-three moves, Oscar Chajes of New York, the Secretary of the Isaac L. Rice Progressive Chess Club and ex-champion of the Western Chess Association, won the championship of the New York State Chess Association this afternoon at the Hotel Seneca, where the association is holding its annual midsummer meeting. He won a total of six and one-half points, with one more game to play, and his total cannot be reached by any other competitor. He will therefore hold the silver Staunton King, a trophy given years ago by the late Professor Isaac L. Rice.

The results of this morning's and afternoon play in the championship tourney were recorded as follows: Howard and Phillips drew a Sicilian defense after thirty-three moves; Searle lost to Howard a Caro-Kann defense after sixty moves; Jennings and Chajes drew a Ruy Lopez after forty-two moves; Searle and Jennings drew a three knight's game after forty-three moves, and Phillips lost to Chajes as stated above.

In the evening session two games were begun. Howard got the better position in his game against Jennings, a queen's gambit declined, while Phillips and Searle discussed a Spanish game, which was pretty evenly contested. These games were still pending at a late hour in the evening.

The record to date:

Chajes, 6, 1-2—1-2; Phillips, 2, 1-2—1-2; Howard, 1, 1-2—2, 1-2; Jennings, 1-3; Searles, 1-2—3, 1-2.

CORNELL STATES POLICY.

Proposes to Broaden Scope of Athletics in Every Branch.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Cornell's attitude toward intercollegiate athletics and the policy to be pursued during the coming year are outlined in the official statement issued by the Athletic Association today, which says, in part, as follows:

> The fundamental principle that will govern Cornell's policy in athletics next year will be to broaden, as far as possible, the scope of every branch of sport so that a larger number of men than ever before may receive the benefits of physical training and discipline derived from participation in athletic contests. For years Cornell has consistently sought to encourage general participation among the students in all branches of sport, with the result that approximately half of the undergraduates have taken part in some form of athletics, and it will now be the aim to give every student an opportunity of participating in some form of athletic exercise. This will be the spirit in which all 'Varsity athletics will be carried on in the future.
>
> This policy conforms with the recommendations of the National Collegiate Association and the advice given by Secretary of War Baker. Intercollegiate contests at Cornell will be conducted in accordance with the resolutions adopted by the association, the freshman rule will be kept, the usual early season practice for football will be eliminated, no appropriation will be made for training tables, and all expenses will be eliminated that are not absolutely necessary, and it is the intention of the Athletic Council to make such changes permanent as far as possible.
>
> The War Department has detailed Lieut. Col. F. A. Barton as Commandant of the Cornell Reserve Officers' Training Corps, and all freshmen and sophomores will be required to drill as in the past. However, no excuses from military training will be granted on account of athletics, as has been the custom. Upper classmen who can meet army requirements may take voluntary military training in the R. O. T. C., and upon completing the course are given commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps.
>
> Jack Moakley and Al. Sharpe, the coaches of the 'Varsity teams, will aid in every way possible the carrying out of the above policy, and Cornell's athletic plant is well adapted to this program.

NO PRINCETON 'VARSITY.

Freshman Football Schedule, However, to be Carried Out.

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 16.—There will be no 'Varsity football at Princeton this Fall, the entire football squad of last year and a large part of the three upper classes having entered the Federal service. The usual freshman schedule, however, will be carried out, it was announced tonight, with Fred T. Dawson, formerly head coach at Union College, in charge.

ELEVEN FOR WEST VIRGINIA.

Morgantown Institution Has Fourteen Old Football Players for Team.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 16.—Of the twenty-nine members of the West Virginia University football squad who finished the season last year fourteen will be available for the team when training begins on Sept. 10 at Mont Chateau, near here. Four men were graduated last June, these being Captain Curry, Brannon, Cheneweth, and Hutchinson.

Two of these men are in the military service, and in addition to these eleven other men who have not graduated have gone into the service of Uncle Sam, making a total of thirteen men of the twenty-nine, or about 47 per cent. of the total available strength of the team that represented the university last year, who are now ready to fight for the country.

Four of those who will return are under military age, so that more than 50 per cent. of the available strength of the West Virginia University football team of 1916 is with the colors.

The men who will return are Rodgers, King, Bailey, Henrie, Lentz, Hager, and Brooks, all of whom played as regulars last year, and Latterner, Cardon, Mills, Lewis, Creighton, Duke, and Duling, who were members of the first string squad, but did not play regularly.

LEWIS IN RING TONIGHT.

Will Meet O'Dowd at the St. Nicholas A. C.—Other Bouts.

Ted Kid Lewis of England, the welterweight champion, is reported in excellent condition for his ten-round bout with Mike O'Dowd, the hard-hitting St. Paul middleweight, which will be held this evening at the St. Nicholas A. C. This will be the second meeting between these two boxers in about two months, and it will mark the first local ring appearance of Lewis since acquiring the welterweight title. If their previous bout is to be taken as a criterion, the contest this evening should result in one of the best held in recent years in New York.

"Jimmy" Johnson, manager of the St. Nicholas A. C. and also of Lewis, announced last night that the incentive to the winner is a match with Mike Gibbons of St. Paul. Johnston said that he had wired Gibbons an offer of a guarantee of $5,000 to meet the winner at the St. Nicholas A. C. at an early date. With this incentive it is expected that the boxers will give their utmost efforts toward scoring a decisive victory.

Other bouts arranged for this evening are:

Vanderbilt A. C., Brooklyn—Dutch Brandt vs. Young Limbo; Leo Johnson vs. Ray West. Both ten-round bouts.

Mike Gibbons Will Box Dillon.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 16.—Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul boxer, and not his brother, Tommy, has been matched to meet Jack Dillon of Indianapolis in a ten-round bout here on Labor Day.

WILSON VICTORIES COSTLY TO OWNER

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, Aug. 16.—Richard T. Wilson, Jr., President of the Saratoga Racing Association, won two costly races today. The enthusiasm which naturally follows the scoring of a double was tempered when both winners, which carried the Old Gold and Green sleeves, were bought in and taken from the Wilson stable.

The victories were scored by home-bred horses, the get of Olambala. In the second race for three-year-olds and upward Mr. Wilson started Mannchen, which, after following the pace set by Pollyanna, came away in the stretch to a very easy victory. After this finish M. T. Reynolds, who was generally supposed to be acting for J. W. Hedrick, bid up Mannchen from his entered price of $600 to $1,100, at which figure Mr. Wilson surrendered the gelding.

In the following race, the Catskill Selling, a seven furlong offering, Kildee was almost as easy a winner as his stablemate and this same M. T. Reynolds carried him from $1,500 to $2,500, and he had bought another horse.

The field for the Catskill was not particularly brilliant, it being framed under selling conditions, but some fairly smart horses started. J. J. Lillis, a Marrone Stable representative, dominated the running to the head of the stretch, but was unable to withstand the rush of the Wilson colt. J. J. Lillis stuck it out to save the place from Harry Shaw.

John W. Schorr furnished the most sensational winner of the afternoon in Butter Scotch II., an imported son of Radium and Macaroon, making its first start in the East. Butter Scotch simply played with his field in the six furlongs of the Luzerne, a highweight handicap of six furlongs. At the end he was being pulled up half a dozen lengths in front of Tea Caddy.

This race marked the first appearance of the year for Oscar Lewisohn's imported gelding, Benevolent, a horse that had to be doctored up during the cold months to bring him back this season. He did not show anything in the running, but he came out of the ordeal in good shape and it is probable that he will race well during the Fall season.

Warsaw, a plater that John O. Talbott bought from Thomas Clyde recently, was another of the winners of the afternoon, and at the end of the program James Corrigan's filly Rahu beat a big field of maidens chiefly because Jockey Hunt was of no help to Joseph E. Widener's imported Memories II.

To Send Twenty Athletes.

The officials of the Paulist A. C. announced last night that the club would send twenty of its foremost athletes to Philadelphia to compete in the national track and field championships of the Catholic Young Men's National Union, which will be held at Houston Field, Philadelphia, tomorrow. Among those who will make the trip are Harry Wigger, J. Georgio, Pat Flynn, H. Cunningham, G. Hulseboach, and the Cornetta brothers.

HARVEST GALE IN FRONT.

Conquers Bertha Dillon at Cleveland Harness Races.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 16.—The three-year-old trotting stake furnished the thrill in today's Grand Circuit meeting at North Randall, Mich. Bertha Dillon, the favorite, broke badly in the first heat, but won the second, and in the third was trotted off her feet by Harvest Gale, who won the first and also the final heats, taking first money.

The 2:11 trot also provided considerable excitement, as Early Dreams won in straight heats. Busy's Lassie, the favorite, was not even within the money.

The Toddler, the favorite in the 2:13 trot, gave his backers a bad scare when he broke badly in the first heat, but he straightened out in the next two and won the race handily.

DRIVERS HAVE FAST TRIALS.

Oldfield, the last to take the track, drove a mile in his "Golden Submarine" at the rate of 122 miles an hour, while De Palma covered a lap of two miles in 0:59⅗, or more than 120 miles an hour. Chevrolet spun around the track in his emergency car at the rate of 119 miles an hour. After this performance Chevrolet was undecided whether to use his spare car in the race or pilot the one in which he has won the two leading auto classics of the year.

Oldfield will race against De Palma and Chevrolet in special matches at fifty, thirty, and twenty miles. There will be an extra heat of ten miles should each win one of the first three heats. In addition Oldfield will engage in an "earth-and-air" duel at two miles with Miss Katherine Stinson, who recently piloted her army airplane from Buffalo to Washington. Miss Stinson will arrive from Chicago this morning. Besides racing Oldfield, she will give looping exhibitions and bombthrowing demonstrations.

Thirty-five thousand $1 tickets will be on sale at the track tomorrow.

SHARP MATCH LOST BY PELL AND NILES

Alexander and Throckmorton Take Five-Set Contest, Gaining Doubles Final.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—A big gallery watched one of the most brilliantly played men's doubles matches seen on the Longwood courts in many years today when F. B. Alexander and H. A. Throckmorton fought through five sets against T. R. Pell and N. W. Niles, beating them 6—4, 4—6, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4. This puts the winners in the men's doubles final at the National Patriotic Tournament.

After losing the first set, Pell and Niles played great tennis and went ahead two sets to one, but after that Throckmorton, whose game had fallen off in the third set, came back with a rush and was a great factor in bringing his team through to the finish. Alexander played tennis that recalled the best he ever has played. His service was very effective, and he was consistently making places from his back court that could not be covered by either of his opponents.

Pell was very steady at times, his general play being superior to that of his partner. He and Niles were favorites before the match, but Alexander and Throckmorton earned their victory if ever one was earned.

Irving Wright and Harry Johnson had another long doubles match with Strachan and Inman, winning one deuce set 10—8, and then making an easy finish in a four-set match. Owing to the lateness of the hour of the men's doubles finish there were no matches in mixed doubles today.

In women's singles, however, both Miss Molla Bjurstedt and Miss Mary Browne were easy winners, the Norwegian beating Mrs. B. E. Cole 2d 6—1, 6—2, and Miss Browne taking two 6—2 sets from Miss Eleonora Sears. Miss Bjurstedt and Miss Browne will meet in the final tomorrow.

The summaries:

WOMEN'S SINGLES.—Miss Molla Bjurstedt beat Mrs. B. E. Cole, 2d, 6—1, 6—2; Miss Mary K. Browne beat Miss Eleonora Sears, 6—2, 6—2.

MEN'S DOUBLES.—F. B. Alexander and H. A. Throckmorton beat N. W. Niles and T. R. Pell, 6—4 4—6, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4; Irving Wright and Harry Johnson beat J. R. Strachan and F. C. Inman, 4—6, 6—3, 10—8, 6—3.

Anderson Reaches Final.

F. T. Anderson advanced to the final round of the metropolitan junior tennis tournament at Forest Hills yesterday when he defeated Francis Middleditch in straight sets at 6—2, 6—3, 6—3. Anderson will play Benjamin Letson in the final round this afternoon.

Brady Overcomes Ouimet.

BELMONT, Mass., Aug. 16.—Michael J. Brady, the professional golfer, defeated Francis Ouimet, Western amateur champion, 6 up in a thirty-six-hole match, for the benefit of the American Red Cross, on the links of the Oakley Country Club here today. Brady finished in 139 and Ouimet in 146.

"Have Never Lost a Day in Two Years"

Keegan Brothers, of the Wadsworth Coal Co., of Dongan Hills, Staten Island, own three Autocars, the first having proved such a business getter that they soon added the others.

"In two years of Autocar delivery we have not lost a single day," they state. "The cars are never laid up—they run 10 hours a day. We have now spread out to four or five miles from our yard, whereas with horses, we had to stay right around home."

For information on the Autocar in your line or business, see the Autocar Sales Co., 553-557 West 23rd Street, New York City. ('Phone Chelsea 6060)

EXEMPTION DISTRICT QUOTAS ARE REVISED

ONLY SIX ARE UNCHANGED

In Some cases the Increase Is 25 Per Cent., In Others the Decrease Is 100 Men.

The new quotas for the 189 New York City local exemption districts have been received by the Chairmen of the various boards. The quota has been changed in all but six of the districts, in some districts the increase being more than 25 per cent. of the original quota and in two districts the decrease being more than 100 men. District 81, which was originally called upon to supply 202 men for the national army, under the readjustment has to supply only 82 men, while District 86, the original quota of which was 225, now has to obtain only 100 men. The greatest increase is in District 84, which instead of 203 men is now called upon to provide 281. The revision of the quotas is due in the main to credits, allowed under the selective draft law, for volunteer enlistments in the naval and military service after April 1 and up to the time the New York quotas were called for examination.

The total number of men New York City is called upon to supply for the National Army under the new quotas is 68,621, or 244 less than the original quota.

The revised quotas, with the increase or decrease indicated in the case of each district, are as follows:

COLLAR INSIGNIA FOR ARMY.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The War Department made public today the new regulations in regard to collar ornaments to be worn on service coats and flannel shirts. There will be no change as to collar ornaments for the officers of the regular army and the officers of the reserve corps. Officers of the National Guard taken into Federal service will wear the letter "N. G." superimposed on "U. S. A.," the whole design to be stamped from one piece of metal. Officers of the National Army will wear the same ornament, excepting that the letters "N. A." will take the place of the letters "N. G." The same general scheme will be followed in the collar ornaments of enlisted men, the letters "N. A." or "N. G." being superimposed on the design now in use.

When the National Army is organized there will be three sub-divisions of the United States Army. To prevent confusion, officers serving by appointment or under commission in a sub-division of the army other than that in which they hold permanent commissions will in each case wear the monogramic letters of the sub-division in which they hold a permanent commission and the insignia of the new rank and insignia of the corps, department, or office in which commissioned at the time.

In view of the increasing number of classes of special and technical troops no effort will be made to design collar ornaments for these various classes, excepting in a general way. For instance, an ornament on the left side of the collar will show membership in the Quartermaster Corps, whether the man is a baker or a truck driver. There will be no corps or department insignia for members of the enlisted Reserve Corps or for recruit training units as such.

DRAFT BOARDS MUST SERVE.

Resignations Not to be Accepted Except in Urgent Cases.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Except in very urgent cases the President will not accept the resignations of members of the local exemption boards in charge of the work of drafting men for the national army. Governors of States were so notified tonight by General Crowder, in a telegram which made it plain that the local board members were regarded as drafted for this important national work. In his telegram General Crowder said:

"Resignations of members of boards are still reaching this office without the recommendation of the Governor as to the necessity of the circumstances upon which relief is requested. Members of boards are drafted for the service upon which they are engaged under the provisions of Section 6 of the law. Their responsibilities are so heavy that it is altogether well that this feature should be emphasized, and it is well from another standpoint—the execution of the law cannot be delayed by refusals based on reasons of individual benefit.

"The President will decline to accept resignations except where they are accompanied by a specific statement of grounds, and the recommendation of the Governor. Except in urgent cases, resignations should not be sent by telegram, since the necessity for specification of reason makes the telegram too long to be economical. In urgent cases, of course, and in the discretion of the Governor, the telegraph may be used. Please notify members of all local boards."

MANN'S BRIGADIERS NAMED.

Brown, Lenihan, and Summerall to Command Under Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Three of the Colonels who were promoted on Tuesday by President Wilson to be Brigadier Generals holding commissions in the new national army have been assigned to take command of the brigades in the Forty-second National Guard Division which will be assembled immediately at Camp Mills, Mineola, L. I., for early dispatch to France. This is the division which Major Gen. William A. Mann will command, and which was formed as a composite organization, taking in National Guard troops from Twenty-six States.

The brigade commanders are Brig. Gens. Robert A. Brown, Michael J. Lenihan, and Charles P. Summerall. General Brown will command the Eighty-third and General Lenihan the Eighty-fourth Infantry Brigade, to the former of which the Sixty-ninth New York Regiment has been assigned, while General Summerall will command the Sixty-seventh Artillery Brigade.

General Brown has been in command of the Twenty-third Cavalry on the Mexican border. General Lenihan has been commanding the Sixtieth Infantry at Gettysburg, and General Summerall is a field artillery officer, who has been stationed in Washington. Major Douglas MacArthur, until recently Censor of the War Department, will be General Mann's Chief of Staff, with the rank of Colonel.

LIGHTNING HURTS SOLDIERS

Twelve Rendered Unconscious When Bolt Hits Tent at Camp Mohawk.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 16.—During a heavy thunderstorm this afternoon a bolt of lightning struck three of the tents of the Eleventh United States Infantry, formerly the Second New York Infantry, in Camp Mohawk, a short distance west of Schenectady, and rendered twelve of the soldiers unconscious.

The bolt entered one of the tents in the street of Company G of Gloversville, destroyed three of the rifles stacked inside, and knocked out eight members of that company. From there the bolt entered one of the tents of Company F of this city, just south of Company G, and two men were struck. On the other side of Company G is the street of Company H of Amsterdam, and one man there was made unconscious.

The lightning tore through the three streets crossways, striking one tent of each of the three companies mentioned.

The men were carried on cots through the blinding storm to the dispensary tent, where they were resuscitated by Major Oakesford and his assistants in the medical department. None of them was seriously injured. They will be able to report for duty again in a few days.

The storm was one of the worst that has visited this section for some time, and toppled over every one of the large cook tents and a number of other tents. By sundown Colonel James M. Andrews had his camp again in order.

NEW OFFICERS TO FRANCE.

Graduates of Training Camps to Have Fresh Instruction Abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Members of the Officers' Reserve Corps recently graduated from the thirteen training camps throughout the country have been selected for service in France, where they will undergo a period of work with French troops and at French schools for training officers. It was reported that 2,000 of these officers would go to France, but the War Department indicated that the number mentioned was too large. At least three men will be taken from each company, battery, or troop of all the training camp regiments, which would provide a minimum of about 640.

Preference has been given to men who speak French. The exact nature of the studies to which the men will be assigned has not been determined, nor has it been settled whether these officers shall return to the United States after their period of training to impart the knowledge they gained to officers and men of the United States forces undergoing instruction at camps. One suggestion is that these men should take the places of officers of the regular army now in France, to enable the regular officers to return home for service as instructors to troops.

The War Department declines to publish a list of the reserve officers assigned to this duty.

TO SUCCEED STOTESBURY.

Governor Will Appoint Col. Charles H. Sherrill Adjutant General.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 16.—Governor Whitman announced today that he would appoint Colonel Charles H. Sherrill of New York City Adjutant General to succeed General Stotesbury, who resigned to accept a nomination for Judge of the City Court on the Mitchel Fusion ticket. Colonel Sherrill will assume office on Sept. 5 when General Stotesbury's resignation takes effect. In making the announcement Governor Whitman warmly commended General Stotesbury's service to the State.

Colonel Sherrill has been at the Capitol as a member of the State Defense Council since it was created early this year. He is a lawyer by profession, and received his military title as a member of the Governor's Staff from 1901 to 1907. He was made United States Minister to Argentina by President Taft and retired from that post to become Ambassador to Japan. Owing to ill-health, however, he did not accept this position.

Colonel Sherrill organized the sound money parade in the McKinley campaign of 1896, the preparedness parade of last year, and at present is engaged in making plans for the military parade with which the New York contingent, mustered into the Federal service, is to be sent off.

CITED BY DRAFT BOARD.

Business Man Accused of Falsely Saying His Son Was Ill.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 16.—G. Howlett Davis, proprietor of the Standard Music Roll Company of Orange, has been slated to appear before the Examining Board of the Fourth Essex County District, sitting at West Orange on Friday, to show cause why action should not be taken against him for making a misstatement to the board today.

Mr. Davis appeared before the board today and informed them that his son, Howlett S. Davis, who had received notice to appear today, had been ill in bed for the past four months. A few minutes later the son walked in for examination and denied his father's statement.

POLICE PROTECT PICKETS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The rough handling that suffragist pickets at the White House have suffered caused the police today to adopt new tactics. Heretofore the police have not interfered when men attacked the pickets and tore from their hands the banners they carried to the White House gates. Today the police forbade the women to carry banners containing the "Kaiser Wilson" legend or any other inscription, and made an effort to keep the pickets from being treated roughly by the crowds.

The action of the police did not spare the women in every instance. Some of them were so roughly treated that men spectators who had no sympathy with the picketing protested and sought to protect them. Two arrests were made, one of a man who had been active in heckling the pickets, and the other of a newspaper reporter who became indignant over an attack on some pickets and used his fists to emphasize his feelings.

Workers were kept busy at suffragist headquarters making new banners, and at 6 o'clock this evening no less than nineteen of them were displayed by pickets who formed a long line in front of the White House, extending from the east gate to the west gate, a distance of a block.

McCOY TRIES TO ESCAPE.

BIG STONE GAP, Va., Aug. 16.—W. V. McCoy and J. W. Phipps, on trial in the Federal Court here as a result of their alleged activities in organizing mountaineers to oppose the draft, attempted to escape from jail tonight by sawing away the bars to their cell windows. The attempt was frustrated when another inmate of the jail notified the authorities. The alleged conspirators were aided in their efforts to escape by two other prisoners.

A charge that German agents were responsible for the "conspiracy to seize and destroy arms and munitions of war," the specific indictment on which the men are being tried, was made today by Federal District Attorney Byrd in outlining the case to the jury. Noah Johnson, a Government witness, later testified that McCoy had sought unsuccessfully to induce him to join in a plan to blow up bridges, saying German agents had offered $30,000 for destruction of three important railroad trestles in this section.

A charge against the defendants of "enlisting men for the purpose of waging war against the United States" was thrown out today on instructions from the court. The jury then was selected and trial proceeded.

McCoy and Phipps were placed under heavy guard tonight.

27,341 OFFICERS GRADUATED.

Practically All from Training Camps to be on Duty by Aug. 29.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Brig. Gen. H. P. McCain, the Adjutant General of the army, announced today that 27,341 officers had been graduated from the training camps and that all had been assigned to duty with the sixteen national army divisions or elsewhere and, with few exceptions, were to report for duty on Aug. 29.

There are in the recapitulation of graduates so appointed two Colonels, one Lieutenant Colonel, 235 Majors, 3,722 Captains, 4,452 First Lieutenants, and 18,929 Second Lieutenants. The assignment of these officers has been made as follows:

To Infantry—2 Colonels, 1 Lieutenant Colonel, 141 Majors, 2,274 Captains, 2,315 First Lieutenants, and 8,376 Second Lieutenants. Total, 13,109.

To Cavalry—15 Majors, 231 Captains, 258 First Lieutenants, and 955 Second Lieutenants. Total, 1,482.

To Coast Artillery—1 Major, 170 Captains, 170 First Lieutenants, and 497 Second Lieutenants. Total, 838.

To Engineers—30 Majors, 419 Captains, 747 First Lieutenants, and 750 Second Lieutenants. Total, 1,966.

To Quartermaster Corps—3,067 Second Lieutenants.

To Statistical Service—75 First Lieutenants and 77 Second Lieutenants. Total, 152.

To the Ordnance Department—61 Captains, 203 First Lieutenants, and 121 Second Lieutenants. Total, 385.

To be Provisional Second Lieutenants—Infantry, 1,375; cavalry, 178; field artillery, 510; coast artillery corps, 224.

Eighth Division Ordered to Training Camp at Anniston, Ala.

CAMP EDGE, SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 16.—The New Jersey troops which will take part in the initial movement of the Eighth Division to the training camp at Anniston, Ala., have been selected, and also some of those from the other States in the division. About 3,500 men will take train for the Southern camp as the vanguard of the division. New Jersey will provide the engineers, the signal corps, a battery of field artillery, five companies of infantry, and probably the camp medical officer and the camp quartermaster.

The First Regiment of Newark will send Company E under command of Captain Harold Wakefield. The Fourth of Jersey City will send its E company with Captain Charles Wild in command. The Fifth of Paterson will send C company, Captain John S. Cooke. The Third Regiment's representative will be Company K of Bridgeton. The First Artillery will send Battery F of Morristown, Captain Clarence A. Nordine.

Seven concentration points have been named for the entrainment. They are Newark, Sea Girt, Wilmington, Baltimore, Washington, Norfolk, and Roanoke.

The First Ambulance Company, which has been detailed to the Rainbow Division, which is assembling at Mineola, L. I., has received no orders to go there. Captain Rafferty says he is under orders to remain here. The company has been relieved of all camp duty and is working hard on its own specialties.

HONORS NEW ARMY OFFICERS.

Newark Gives Dinner to Its Men Who Graduated at Fort Myer.

A dinner in honor of the Newark men who were graduated from the Officers' Reserve Corps training camp at Fort Myer was given last night in the Washington Restaurant in Newark by Mayor Thomas L. Raymond's Committee on National Defense. About sixty men who won commissions and about fifty prominent municipal officials and business men were present. Mayor Thomas L. Raymond was the only civilian speaker.

The other speakers were Chaplain Warren P. Coon and Colonel John D. Fraser of the First Infantry Regiment of Newark; Major A. V. P. Anderson, recruiting officer for the army in Newark; Captain Bruce B. Butler, who had charge of the New Jersey men at the training camp; Captain W. W. Shaw, British recruiting officer, stationed in Manhattan; Lieutenant Whitwell, in charge of the British recruiting in Newark, and Captain Cervaix, a member of the Belgian Commission in this country.

Woman Pursues Intruder.

Michael Doyle, an alleged burglar, ran over roof tops yesterday in an effort to elude Mrs. Florence Freedman, 22 years old, of 104 Lenox Avenue, whose apartment he was accused of having attempted to enter, but finally surrendered when a policeman, joining the chase, displayed a revolver and threatened to use it. Mrs. Freedman told the desk Sergeant at the West 123d Street Station, where she accompanied Doyle, that upon returning from a shopping trip she found the prisoner using a "jimmy" on the door. Upon seeing her he ran and she followed him until the policeman arrived.

PICKED MEN OF 7TH WELCOMED BY 69TH

Col. Fisk's Entire Regiment Accompanies Selected Detail to Doors of 69th Armory.

The bandmaster of the Seventh swung his silver-topped baton grimly as the regiment marched down Fifth Avenue yesterday. He was leading a good-bye march for 360 of the comrades the Seventh was taking down to present to its friends, the Fighting Sixty-ninth, to help make up the 3,167 fighters the Irishmen must have before their regiment becomes the One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Infantry and goes to France. Just to show the way they felt about being called on to help out the Sixty-ninth, the whole Seventh Regiment escorted the 360 picked men in full equipment down to the armory, at Lexington Avenue and Twenty-seventh Street, and handed them over proudly.

And the ovation the smart Seventh got from proud and admiring New Yorkers wasn't anything compared to the reception the Sixty-ninth extended. The Seventh likes the Sixty-ninth and the Sixty-ninth likes the Seventh. Over the doors of the Sixty-ninth Armory big letters spelled "Welcome," and within the doors big voices yelled "welcome." While the 360 men were being transferred from the command of Col. Willard C. Fisk of the Seventh to the command of Lieut. Col. Lathem Reed of the Sixty-ninth the crowd in front of the armory was so great that reserves from two police stations had to be called to keep a way clear so that the Seventh could go back home. Among those who welcomed the gift of the Seventh to the Sixty-ninth were Colonel William Haskell, who commanded the Sixty-ninth on the border, and Chaplain Duffy. Everybody connected with the Sixty-ninth told the boys from the Seventh they were going to feel at home.

Before the 360 went to join the Sixty-ninth, they received an affectionate farewell at their armory, Park Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street. General Daniel Appleton, former commander of the Seventh, expressed to the departing men the good-will of their regiment, and their relatives and friends crowded the floor of the armory to say good-bye.

With Colonel Fisk leading and with other members of the Seventh in front of and behind the picked men, the regiment marched down Park Avenue to Fifty-seventh Street, then to Fifth Avenue and down to Twenty-sixth Street and to the Sixty-ninth's armory.

The friendship of the Seventh and the Sixty-ninth has existed for years. It goes back before the time many years ago when the Seventh, because it had a lot of men who had money, decided to build its own armory. The structure at Park Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street was erected. The State then transferred the old Seventh Armory to the Sixty-ninth. There were furnishings left in the old armory that belonged to the Seventh. The Sixty-ninth, newly come to the armory, had no furnishings. They went to the men of the Seventh and asked to be allowed to buy the equipment of the old armory.

"You want it?" asked the men of the Seventh, "then its yours."

And the Seventh and the Sixty-ninth were better friends than ever.

The exact time of the departure of the Sixty-ninth for camp at Mineola has not yet been determined, but Lieut. Col. Reed reported to Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell yesterday that the regiment, which is now officially known as part of the Federal forces as the One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Infantry, would be ready to move on one hour's notice.

Immediately after receipt of an order from the War Department for the Fourteenth Infantry of Brooklyn to encamp at Sheepshead Bay Speedway Colonel James R. Howlett sent a detachment to the Speedway to perfect the plumbing facilities.

Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, accompanied by Captain H. A. Kehlback, inspected the Van Cortlandt Park camp yesterday, where provision has been made for 6,000 men. The General was pleased with the arrangements and good conditions prevailing generally.

The final detachment of the Seventy-first Regiment, Company L, commanded by Captain George F. Terry, marched to the park yesterday afternoon and went into camp with the other companies of their regiment who had preceded them. In addition to the 2,000 men of the Seventy-first, there are 2,000 men there from the Twenty-third Regiment of Brooklyn. Squadron A is expected to go to the park today, with the First Regiment of Infantry from the upper part of the State following in a day or so, together with the First Field Hospital unit, which will exhaust the facilities of the camp.

Hundreds of friends and relatives of the Seventy-first followed the marching company to the Park. All entrances to the Park were guarded and no one was admitted without a pass, except individuals in uniform, but many of the members of the regiments managed to get permission to go out for a few minutes and exchange greetings with the waiting relatives. Company L was cheered by the waiting crowds and again by their comrades of other companies as they marched onto the field.

After their hard day's work the 4,000 men of the Second Brigade were called to attention by a score of bugles, then followed "The Star-Spangled Banner" by the band of the Seventy-first Regiment, and the hungry and tired soldiers were free to quickstep march to mess.

Arrangements for the farewell dinner to the New York troops on the eve of their departure for Spartanburg were decided upon yesterday at a conference between Major Gen. O'Ryan and the Executive Committee of the Business Men's Committee of the Farewell Dinner. It was decided to have the dinner the night preceding the parade. The dinner will be served at Van Cortlandt Park, Sheepshead Bay Speedway, and at Mineola, and in some of the armories.

The committee in conference with Major Gen. O'Ryan were August Silz, General Chairman of the committee; Charles E. Geering, Secretary; Thomas D. Green, President of the Hotel Men's Association; H. E. Taylor, President of the Society of Restaurateurs; C. R. McDonald, Adolph Lorber, Patrick Kyne, P. O. Foy, R. S. Maffitt, and John F. Doherty. To facilitate the work of the committee General O'Ryan has detached from duty Captain Moore and assigned him as special aid and adviser to the committee. To Van Cortlandt Park, Sheepshead Bay, and Mineola the food will go by truck. At the armories the food will be served by caterers. All of the supplies of food will be donated by the business men.

At the Federal recruiting headquarters, 280 Broadway, it was reported yesterday that 83 men had been accepted. Forty-four of them were received from the east side, 33 from the west side, and 6 from Brooklyn.

At the Officers' Training Corps, 19 West Forty-fourth Street, 19 applications for the Officers' Aviation Training Corps had been received. At the Quartermaster's Reserve Corps, at Thirty-ninth Street and Eighth Avenue, 15 men were enlisted as clerks, cooks, and teamsters.

Drs. George Richards, Emanuel Sterns, and D. H. Winternitz of Bellevue Hospital, who had tendered their services to the Government, were notified yesterday to report for duty. Dr. Winternitz has performed several operations that were successful in combating the anthrax epidemic some months ago. The departure of these physicians makes a total of fifteen members of Bellevue now in the service.

WANTS VICE SUPPRESSED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Secretary Baker has written an identical letter to the Mayors of all cities and small towns in the neighborhood of national army cantonments and National Guard camps, and to the Sheriffs of all counties in which or near which these camps are located, urging the suppression of vice resorts.

In his letter to the Mayors and Sheriffs, Secretary Baker warns them that unless there is such suppression the troops may be moved to other points. He urges that all places of bad repute, if within easy reach, even if more than five miles from the camps, should be abolished.

Fifty-third Infantry Brigade of the Twenty-seventh Division is Brig. Gen. Robert E. Lee Michie, a prominent officer of the regular army, a member of the General Staff, and who accompanied Major Gen. Hugh L. Scott on his recent mission to Petrograd. The officer picked to command the only other infantry brigade in this division, and which will be designated as the Fifty-fourth Infantry Brigade, is Brig. Gen. Harry E. Dewitt Hamilton, who has been serving as a Colonel in the New York National Guard. The Fourth Brigade commander under General O'Ryan will be Brig. Gen. Charles L. Phillips of the Coast Artillery Corps. His Brigade will be known as the Fifty-second Field Artillery Brigade and will consist of the New York Guard's artillery units.

Brig. Gen. William Wilson of New York's Guard will command the Seventy-fourth Depot Brigade of the Thirty-ninth National Guard division at Camp Beauregard, Alexandrea, La. This division will be composed of National Guard troops from Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

While there was no official admission of the fact, it is believed this assignment means that some New York infantry forces will be sent to Camp Beauregard, although it was recently announced that this plan had been abandoned.

Order of Assignment.

War Department,
Washington, Aug. 16, 1917.

In announcing the accompanying assignment of officers the War Department calls attention to the fact that the numbers of divisions are no indication of the order in which units will be sent abroad. The personnel of the command of camps and of units of the army wil undergo a great deal of shifting as men prove their fitness. Such changes are likely up to the very moment that units actually depart for foreign service. These selections are for the purpose of starting the training under the best available men and to make the troops ready to move at the earliest possible date.

The Secretary of War directs that the following assignments be made, and that officers designated be ordered to proceed to camps indicated so as to arrive not later than Aug. 25, 1917, except that such officers as are now on foreign service or en route to the United States be ordered to arrive at designated camps on Aug. 25, 1917, or as soon thereafter as practicable:

WHOLE ARMY REORGANIZED.

Companies to Have 250 Enlisted Men and Six Officers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Complete reorganization of all branches of the American army to conform with European standards, as recommended by Major Gen. Pershing, is provided for in army orders revealing that the recently announced divisional reorganization plan is to be carried down into the regiments and companies.

The administrative unit of the infantry arm hereafter will be a company with 250 enlisted men and six commissioned officers, in place of something over 100 men and three officers. The company will be divided into four platoons, each in command of a Lieutenant. There will be two Captains as first and second in command, one First Lieutenant and three Second Lieutenants. Reports of the review of American troops in France yesterday show that this plan already has been carried out in General Pershing's forces.

The object of assigning two Captains to each company, it is understood, is to provide against disorganization of the unit through the loss of its commander. The second Captain, under the European system, does not go into battle line with the company if his senior is present; he is held as a reserve to reorganize the company if necessary.

Under the new plan each regiment will have three battalions of four companies each, making a total of 3,000 men. Supplemented by the regimental headquarters, supply, and machine gun organizations, the strength of the new regiments will be brought up to approximately 3,600 men, as against little more than 2,000 in existing war strength regiments.

The unit organization of the field artillery and other arms of the service has not been changed. As a result of reducing the number of regiments in a division, the division, instead of 28,000 men, will total hereafter about 19,000 men, 15,000 of them infantry.

The advantages of the system, in addition to the better adaptation of the divisional unit to trench warfare, lie chiefly in the reduction in overhead expense. One Colonel and his regimental staff, including his three battalion commanders, will now handle 3,600 men instead of little more than 2,000.

Today's orders show that provision has been made for organization of 32 new infantry divisions, in addition to the regular divisions, out of troops already called to the colors, including the first increment of 687,000 drafted men. A system of numerical designation has been worked out under which any division numbered below 26 will be regulars, between 26 and 75 National Guard, and 76 and above National Army. Regular infantry brigades will be numbered from 1 to 50 inclusive, National Guard from 51 to 150, and National Army from 151 up. Regular regiments will be numbered from 1 to 100, National Guard from 101 to 300, and National Army from 301 up.

Assignment of brigade, regiment, or other numerical designation will be in accordance with the numerical order of divisions, with the result that any person familiar with the system will know that the 335th Infantry, for instance, is attached to the 167th Brigade of the 84th Infantry Division, and that it is composed of National Army troops, while the 300th Infantry Regiment, by the same process, would be in the 150th Brigade and the 75th Division, composed of National Guard troops.

The department approved today collar insignia to designate the three elements of the army. Regulars will wear the standard "U. S." monogram, national Guardsmen will wear a similar monogram with the initials "N. G." superimposed, and National Army men will have the initials "N. A." superimposed on the "U. S."

SHIP STRIKE THREAT BECOMES SERIOUS

STANDARD WAGE DEMANDED

Government Scale of $4.50 Not Being Paid to Machinists on Merchant Fleet Construction.

The danger of widespread strikes in shipbuilding yards which would seriously hamper the production of a merchant fleet to break the submarine blockade seemed greater yesterday. For months machinists, boilermakers, and other workingmen employed in private ship yards have been attempting to get higher wages, and the Navy Department has exerted its efforts to harmonize the differences between the employers and the men with a certain amount of success. There are still, however, about 4,500 men of various trades on strike in ship yards in and about New York, and some thousands of others over the country, and, according to E. J. Deering, Business Agent of the Machinists' International Association, the danger of a general strike of machinists all over the country has become acute in the last few days.

The sharpening of the discontent of labor in the ship yards at present, according to Mr. Deering, is due to the fact that some construction work which has been tied up on account of strikes at private ship yards has been taken over by navy yards, and that union men employed there feel that they are, in a sense being employed if not quite as strikebreakers, still in the completion of work which belonged to other union men.

"Union officials have managed to persuade the men that they ought to continue working in the navy yards," said Mr. Deering, "but there has been considerable discontent, and we have just wired to James O'Connell, International President of the Machinists, at Washington, to make representations to the Navy Department that intervention to settle the disputes with private shipbuilders is urgently desirable to prevent a general walkout. Since July 2, when the machinists' strikes in private yards began, the men have continued to do the navy yard work, much against their will, in order to help the Navy Department and the Shipbuilding Board. But apparently many of the contracting shipbuilders have taken advantage of the situation to continue their refusal to meet the demands of the men."

The demand of the machinists is for a wage increase to $4.50 a day, the present rate being $4; the boilermakers want a 10 per cent. increase. In general, according to union officials, the conditions in navy yards are satisfactory to the men, and the unionists would be satisfied if conditions in private yards are brought up to the same plane. The $4.50 rate is in force in navy yards.

Mr. Deering and Louis Weyland, representing the Marine Trades Council, had already wired to Mr. O'Connell asking for permission to call strikes in yards at Wilmington, Del., and Chester, Penn. This was followed yesterday by the appeal to get the Navy Department to step in and persuade the private builders to meet the demands of the men. Reports of the results of the conference in Washington are expected today, and after receiving them local labor leaders will be in a position to forecast the possibility of settling the wage dispute without tying up shipbuilding all over the country.

CONSTRUES DEXTER WILL.

Income of the Trust Estate Awarded to the Daughter.

The Appellate Division decided yesterday in an opinion written by Justice Dowling that the Young Men's Christian Association, the Salvation Army, and the American Bible Society would have to wait until the death of Miss Clarissa Treadwell Dexter before they could obtain bequests amounting to $972,000 provided for them under the will of Henry Dexter, the founder of the American News Company. Mr. Dexter died in his ninety-seventh year in this city on July 15, 1910. His estate was valued at $1,400,797, and the bulk of it was placed in trust for Miss Dexter, an incompetent, during her lifetime.

The executors, Everett L. Crawford and S. Minton Sherwood, were directed to see that she had every comfort. The accounting shows that of the $60,000 a year income they have used but one-third. When, in 1915, the accumulation of income amounted to $209,845, the Supreme Court was asked to direct that the money be used to liquidate the legacies pro rata. The Appellate Division's decision written by Justice Dowling says:

"As I read Mr. Dexter's will, its provisions are inconsistent with an interpretation which would give the daughter less than the whole income of the trust estate, subject to the exercise of the discretion of the executors as to how much should be applied to her care and maintenance."

As the decision stands, the accumulated income will be kept intact, to be used by or for Miss Dexter during her lifetime if she should require it.

TO CLOSE LOAN ASSOCIATION

Newark Concern Embarrassed by Poor-Paying Property.

The Four Corners Building and Loan Association of Newark, N. J., which was organized nine years ago, is to be liquidated. The Directors and shareholders have decided that that is the only way to get out of the muddle into which the association was plunged when Roland D. Crocker, a lawyer, left the city three years ago. Crocker was one of the founders and advised loans, it is charged, in which the property given as security eventually reverted to the association and became a burden instead of a profitable asset.

Theodore F. Keer, President of the association since its organization; Henry Allsop, a retired jewelry manufacturer, and Andrew McCabe, a manufacturer, have been selected trustees to close up the association. The bonds and mortgages amounting to $110,000 will be called at once and the proceeds distributed pro rata among the shareholders who have paid in $185,390. Real estate appraised at $87,500, it is believed, will bring sufficient to enable the trustees to pay almost dollar for dollar of what has been paid in by the shareholders. It is believed that it will take about two months to complete the liquidation. The trustees will not receive remuneration.

Appoints Two Magistrates.

Mayor Mitchel yesterday appointed William Blau and John E. McGeehan City Magistrates. Magistrate Blau lives at 40 Avenue C, and has practiced law here for twenty-two years. He was a Deputy Attorney General under Julius M. Mayer, and Tax Commissioner under Governors Higgins and Dix. He is a member of the Republican and City clubs. Magistrate McGeehan lives at 1,970 University Avenue, the Bronx. He is a graduate of Fordham University School of Law. He was Deputy Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity in 1914.

For Nathan Straus Testimonial.

After a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Nathan Straus Testimonial Committee at 192 Rivington Street yesterday it was announced that Harry Schlacht, the Chairman, will see Park Commissioner Ward today for the purpose of obtaining his consent to the erection of the projected testimonial structure in Seward Park. The testimonial is to memorialize the twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the first [illegible] milk depot in this city for the [illegible].

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday..4¾@5 per cent. for the best names
Wednesday.4¾@5 " " " " " "

War Cuts Into Department.

The head of a department in a large wholesale house who was asked what effect the draft would have on his sales and office force, said that six of his twenty men were already gone. "This is a pretty large percentage," he said, "but it means more than that. The best men are going, and that's where it hits us hardest. When a department is crippled in such a way I think it is a good policy to notify customers of the fact in order that they may make allowances and give us time to get back into working shape."

Prospects Bright for Retailers.

The opinion seems to prevail in retail stores at the present time that business will not diminish as a result of the war, but on the contrary ought to show an appreciable gain over peace time figures. The retailers base their opinion on what has happened abroad in such cities as London, where the stores, since the war began, have eclipsed former sales records. Not only do the store representatives believe that a larger volume of business will be done, but they also figure on lower operating costs as a result of the measures now being introduced to insure economy.

New Things in Millinery.

Milliners in Paris are showing hats trimmed with black-spangled and jet-beaded effects in bands, pins, and ornaments, according to a bulletin of the Retail Millinery Association of America. The use of old gold and steel metal laces is also noted. Girdles of all kinds are used. Georgette is making beautiful toques of spangle galloons and spangle quills. Among the new things shown locally is a soft effect on the order of a Bishop's hat. It is made of black and combination colored panne velvet, and is considered much more effective and pleasing than the old style "tam."

Deliveries Will Be Delayed.

Not the least of the many things that will grow out of the declaration of peace between the garment trades and the retailers will be the general lateness of deliveries resulting from the delay in placing orders. Already there has been a picking up in buying here, but the real rush is not looked for until next week. This means that the manufacturers will be swamped with business at a time when they should be making real headway in getting their goods out. Not only will this delay throw the goods on to the carriers at a time when the gathering of the new National Army will be giving the railroad executives something to think about, but, with important Jewish holidays only about a month off, it is said that additional retardation of shipments is to be expected.

Hosiery Makers Delay Openings.

In most cases manufacturers of hosiery are as coy about naming prices for next Spring as Spring was about showing herself in these parts this year. Makers of cotton goods especially are in this class. Prices on some lines of fibre silk goods have been made lately, and show liberal advances over those of last year. Compared with two years ago, prices are up very sharply. A line which then cost $1.75 a dozen from the mill, for instance, cannot now be had under $3.25 to $3.50, and none too plentiful at that. One of the features of current trade is the marked scarcity of children's and infants' hose. Lines of infants' plain goods that once sold as low as 62½ cents a dozen are almost impossible to get now at $1.25@1.50. More than one mill is sold up to Jan. 1, or beyond, on children's goods.

Knitters Still Holding Sway.

If one were to judge from the orders now being received here for all kinds of knitting equipment, ranging from the most elaborate bags to the cheapest kind of needles, it would not be hard to come to the conclusion that every female person in the country above the age of 8 is now engaged in getting out something with which to comfort some soldier or sailor. The fact that some of the gifts being turned out bear a marked resemblance to lace work, and are calculated to give the wearer more perfect ventilation than warmth, does not injure wholesale business a bit. Second to the orders for all kinds of knitting supplies come those for comfort kits. Among the separate articles selling well are unbreakable polished metal trench mirrors, the number of sales indicating that the troops will have no excuse for growing whiskers when they get on the firing line.

Bleached Cottons Moving Slowly.

Recent advances that have been made in this market on leading lines of bleached cottons appear to be having exactly the opposite effect of those that were made earlier in the year. At that time every rise was followed by a virtual storm of orders, and, in many cases, by requests for anticipation of deliveries. Now, however, higher prices are having the reverse effect. Not only is there no great rush for deliveries, but there is no great call for goods. This is said not to indicate any uncertainty on the part of jobbers concerning future selling conditions, but rather it is looked on as a case of not being able to eat very much after a hearty meal. There is a "sneaking suspicion" in certain quarters, however, that the possibility of Government regulation of cotton prices, which might be reflected in the cost of the finished goods, is at least partly responsible for the quiet.

Waistmakers Are Doing Well.

Manufacturers of women's waists in this city are not complaining of the business that is coming in to them, in spite of the conflicting reports that are heard concerning sales of suits. Whatever stimulus for waist buying is lacking as a result of buyers' uncertainty regarding the possibilities of suits appears to be more than offset by the continued good demand for separate skirts. In common with other lines of ready-to-wear, there is a marked leaning this season to the darker colors, and especially so in the more popular-priced goods. While the higher-priced lines are being put out with the usual complement of dainty and expensive trimmings, there is a marked trend toward simplicity in some of the more staple goods, possibly as a result of war-time urging of economy. Especially active have been sales of lines in which the designers have succeeded in combining attractiveness with utility.

Gray Goods Trading Light.

Not a great deal of trading was done in the local gray goods market yesterday, the reason for which was not clear. The drop in cotton was not large enough to check buying to any extent, and by some sellers the dullness was attributed to a "fed up" condition on the part of buyers. In the print cloth end of the market sales were made on 39-inch 68-72s both from first and second-hands. Spot and nearby goods brought 11⅝ cents, while contracts were sold at 11½ cents. Spots of this construction are very scarce, which is one reason why the goods sold from first and second hands at the same prices. Other print cloth business was of a scattering nature. In the sheetings, about the only feature was the selling of four-yard 48-squares at 11¾ cents for September shipment. Print cloths closed more or less nominal at these levels:

39-inch, 72-76s	13c	38½-inch, 64-56s	10¼c
39-inch, 68-72s	11⅝c	38½-inch, 60-52s	9¼c
39-inch, 56-44s	8¾c	38½-inch, 60-48s	8⅞c
29½-inch, 64-64s	*10⅞c	27-inch, 64-60s	7⅛c

Raw Silk Prices Fluctuate.

The feature of the Yokohama raw silk market in the last week has been the extent to which some of the most-used grades have flutuated, marked strength following a decline that was almost as marked. Ready stocks there are below last year's, but the ffects of this condition are offset more or less by the slowness of shipments. The Canton market is firm and higher, the extraordinary rise in silver further adding to the lay-down costs. The increase in exchange at Shanghai is equal to a rise of 20 cents a pound in the lay-down cost of tsatlees. Steam filatures and tussahs continue firm. At Milan prices are at a level which approximates $9 a pound for extra classicals in this market. As a result American buying of these sorts is nil. Locally, business has been only moderately active, but prices are rising in sympathy with the upturn in Japanese silks. So scarce are ready silks here that shipments this side of Oct. 1 are commanding premiums.

ASK FOR STORE RECEIVER.

Small Creditors Institute Proceedings Against W. & A. Bacon Co.

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—Bankruptcy proceedings were instituted today against the W. & A. Bacon Company, owners of a department store in this city. Creditors whose claims aggregate $2,503 appeared as petitioners and alleged that the company had made an assignment today to Charles G. Bancroft of Framingham.

The Bacon company, which had conducted a smaller store here for many years, succeeded to the larger business of the Henry Siegel Company after that concern was declared bankrupt and placed in receiver's hands several years ago.

B. J. Crowley, Treasurer of the George D. Emerson Company, claiming to be a creditor, later filed a petition in the Federal Court asking that a receiver be appointed to carry on the business of the Bacon company. The peitioner stated that the business of the concern amounted to nearly $5,000,000 a year and set forth that the assignee was not in a position to conduct its affairs. The matter went over for consideration by the court tomorrow.

TO IMPROVE NEWARK PORT.

Government Will Further Shipbuilding Operations There.

The Newark Board of Works received information yesterday that the Federal Government is preparing to further shipbuilding operations at Port Newark Terminal. It is understood that about $4,000,000 is to be spent on the Newark Bay front property. A letter sent by the Submarine Boat Corporation to the officials of Newark indicated that shipbuilding would be continued longer at the port terminal than was contemplated at first.

Because of information that the boat corporation had received from Admiral Capps, head of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, it desired to have its lease on the terminal property extended from ten to twenty years.

Admiral Stokes Quits Drug Farm.

Rear Admiral Charles F. Stokes, U. S. N., retired, tendered his resignation to the Board of Inebriety yesterday as Director of the Warwick Farm for drug addicts. He said he intended to devote his time to other work. The resignation was accepted. Dr. Stokes was formerly Surgeon General of the Navy. On Dec. 15, 1914, he entered the city's service and took over the work of building up the drug colony in Warwick. Last April he discovered a new drug remedy which is now in general use. The salary of the office is $6,000 a year.

WILL SELL

a Dress Mfg. Establishment that has been successfully conducted for several years. The owner has established an excellent reputation for his product and for his method of doing business. Past ten months' sales over two hundred thousand dollars. The purchase of entire business would require approximately $15,000. A truly splendid opportunity for a wideawake business man. Only reason for selling due to ill health of owner. If interested act quickly.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Work Lower in the Absence of New Developments—Little Peace Talk.

In the light of the dullness in financial lines, the volume of dealings on the New York Stock Exchange in recent days has been surprisingly large. At the same time, traders find little to interest them in the gradual working out of the new terms upon which business is to be done while the war lasts, and there is no indication as yet of an early return to the market of the investing public. Yesterday's transactions were generally accompanied by declines, declines which were based on the theory that when the market will not go up it can be made to go down. The Street is not displaying as much interest as might have been expected in the Pope's communication suggesting the groundwork for peace discussions, and the other factors which have been interfering with trading operations remain nearly as much in the discussion stage as they were weeks ago.

When the public is not in the market, and dullness continues from one session to another, professional operators try to pick up profits through selling issues which are without visible support. Sales of small blocks of such issues as American Tobacco, Cuba Cane Sugar, Gulf States Steel, and other less active industrials sufficed to bring recessions running up to several points. Activity centred yesterday in the steel and marine issues, Central Leather, Great Northern Ore, and Tobacco Products. Of these, the last named scored a small advance, but the others closed under Wednesday's final prices. Marine stocks enjoyed an advance in the early part of the day, but closed off 1½ from the high for the common and 1¾ for the preferred, with the net losses smaller. Steel common dropped back to 123⅝ at the close, off ⅞, while Crucible declined 1¾ and Lackawanna 1⅛. It was not a market to invite either buying or selling orders from those who do not try to catch quick turns.

The thought that serious peace overtures might result from the efforts of Pope Benedict was finally dismissed when it was learned that Secretary Lansing had unofficially told visiting diplomats that he did not believe that this Government could enter into negotiations promising so little by way of reparation or assurance that the world's peace will not again be disturbed in a few years. It is felt in banking quarters that the German leaders now recognize the fact that every week must see their strength diminished and their arguments for peace on the pre-war status quo less telling. It is felt that the Allies have undergone too fearful a sacrifice to be turned aside now by offers of a peace that would leave Germany almost where she was in 1914. Wall Street is beginning to discount the ending of the war, but does not look for it until disintegration has made more progress within the German Empire.

The Liberty Bonds sold as high as 99.96 in the early part of yesterday's session, but worked down to 99.88 at the close. There was a fair degree of activity in this issue but little trading in the rest of the list. Call loans were mostly made at 3¼ per cent., with some money loaning at 3½ per cent.

Buda Company Stock Offered.

E. W. Clark & Co. are offering $1,000,000 of the 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the Buda Company, manufacturers of railway supplies and internal combustion engines, at 96, to yield about 7.3 per cent. The money is to be used for expansion needed because of the growth in the company's business. The company's factory is at Harvey, Ill., and has lately been turning out engines for commercial trucks and farm tractors. Net earnings reported for the last five years have far exceeded the preferred stock requirements, and have shown steady increase.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Supply and Demand.

Wall Street applauds the Food Administrator's energy and wishes him success, while doubting that he will be able to accomplish more than a small part of the conservation that he is attempting. It is possible to control supply, but never demand. Not even super-efficient Germany, with all her bread and meat cards, has succeeded in controlling demand. In this country, with wages running abnormally high and the people as yet almost untouched by the scarcity of food that has frightened Europe, it will be difficult, if not impossible, to make people reduce consumption. There is room, however, for a vast saving through the elimination of waste, and for the conservation of certain foodstuffs through substitution of others. As Mr. Hoover perfects his organization he will undoubtedly discover new ways of applying the great power that has been intrusted to him.

A Stale Market.

An active bank executive remarked yesterday that he did not remember a time when there were so few matters requiring his attention. The Street has known duller weeks, but few where the dullness followed so abruptly a period of great activity. The determination of the new price-fixing policy, the gradual closing down of speculative markets, the outcropping of new strikes, and the customary hot weather inertia have held business back. The stock market had become stale for want of new material upon which to work. All the factors now controlling the situation have been threshed out and discounted, as far as any one can discount them while they are subject to sudden change, and the wearied office manager is at a loss what answer to make to a customer who asks him what is going on in the market. It is a condition that may be changed in an hour, but which threatens to drag along for some days.

Tardy Liberty Loan Payments.

About $10,000,000 of the money due on the fourth Liberty Loan installment was received by the Federal Reserve Bank yesterday. It should have come in on Wednesday, the 15th, but some of the country banks evidently thought that if they mailed their check on the 15th they would be complying with the requirements. The total payments on the 30 per cent. installment amounted to approximately $24,000,000, the sum of $13,500,000 having been received on Wednesday. In figuring the interest the banks which were tardy in making their payments will lose the interest for the one day.

Control of Gold Exports.

That the United States should come to some definite agreement with Great Britain in respect to the control of gold exports is suggested by The London Statist, which has observed the movement of the precious metal from this country to Japan and Spain, and to a lesser degree to South America. "It must be remembered," says The Statist, "that for some time we have exerted great care with regard to the amount of gold we allowed to drift away, and as a consequence, no doubt, we have suffered some additional shrinkage in the foreign exchanges, which, in turn, must have affected the prices we have had to pay for our imports. So long as America was a neutral we should not have liked to suggest that she curtail her exports of gold, because that course is always distasteful to any great monetary centre. Now, however, what is required is that America and Great Britain should mutually decide to pursue such a course in the matter of the settlement of international balances as will be most helpful to the financial conduct of the war, having regard to the possibility of its long continuance."

⁂

Strain on London.

It is pointed out that gold shipments from the United States arose directly through the indebtedness of this country to the countries to which gold is sent. This condition, The Statist remarks, presents a question of the adverse trade balance against the Allies as a whole, producing conditions in the international exchange markets which offer a profit on such gold shipments as a purely exchange operation. "Inasmuch, however, as the net result is to bring increased strain upon this centre, (London,) which already has to bear the brunt of the financing of the war," says The Statist, "the matter is one which requires careful consideration of those here and in the States who have such great responsibilities in all that pertains to war finance. The matter is, we admit, complicated, but we have referred to it at some length because we are persuaded that it is a point which may materially affect the future of the London money market."

Rights and Powers.

Robert H. Treman, Deputy Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank in New York, in a letter to the President of all the State banks and trust companies in this district, calls attention to the rights and powers that would accrue to those institutions if they became members of the Federal Reserve System. Among the rights enumerated are the following: (a) To rediscount eligible commercial paper; (b) to receive advances from the Federal Reserve Banks, for periods not exceeding fifteen days, on its own note, secured by commercial paper or Government bonds; (c) to obtain Federal reserve notes and other currency as needed from the Federal Reserve Bank; (d) to receive deposits of postal savings and other Government funds; (e) to "accept" drafts and bills of exchange based on foreign or domestic commerce, subject to certain conditions, if State charter permits; (f) to have checks and drafts drawn upon it received at par by all Federal Reserve Banks; (g) to make its drafts on the Federal Reserve Bank available for immediate credit at any Federal Reserve Bank, and (h) to participate in the check clearing and collection facilities of the Federal Reserve system.

Tonnage and Ocean Freight Rates.

A recent transaction in which eight big steamers changed hands at a price averaging about $235 a ton has created considerable comment in shipping and shipbuilding circles, largely upon the probable effect of Government owned and operated shipping, when it reaches proportions sufficient to have an effect, upon freight rates in general and consequently upon the price of shipping which will be called upon to meet the Government competition. The fact that eight steamers, not, presumably, in the best condition, brought more than a million dollars apiece indicates an opinion on the part of the purchaser, at least, that it is going to be a long time before there is enough Government-owned tonnage, with the demand for cargo space still running far ahead of the supply, to make its competition felt in the profits of private owners. The problem of regulating ocean freight rates in the face of the tremendous tonnage scarcity is one with which to cope the combined power of all the allied Governments may be needed.

Operation of Government Ships.

Incidentally, there is increasing speculation among shipping men as to how the Emergency Fleet Corporation—that is, the Government—proposes to operate the ships it is building. It will be some months before these ships begin to take cargoes, but some big shipping men are already inquiring whether the Emergency Fleet Corporation will operate them itself or will charter them to private shipping concerns, and in the latter case what the terms and conditions are likely to be. It is reported that one of the biggest American shipping companies has hopes of operating some of the Government ships under permanent charter, on reasonably favorable terms. If this policy is adopted by the Shipping Board, its reactions upon privately-owned competing tonnage, and the extent of the control the Shipping Board will retain for itself, will be points eagerly watched by shipping men, the more so that this is one problem and experimental solution that will be carried over, and perhaps increased in scope, into peace times.

STOP SUGAR TRADING AS HOOVER REQUESTS

PRICES CLIMBED RAPIDLY

Decreased Production Abroad Stimulated Speculation and Government Advised Cash Sales.

Trading in contracts for the future delivery of sugar was suddenly suspended yesterday afternoon by the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange in compliance with the suggestion of Food Administrator Hoover, who, in a letter to officials of the Exchange, pointed out that under present conditions dealings in futures did not perform the normal function of stabilizing prices, but, on the contrary, had the effect of inflating prices. Mr. Hoover directed attention to decreased production of sugar in France and Italy and to the isolation of Great Britain from her usual Continental supplies.

In announcing that trading in sugar futures would be suspended, President Lawrence of the Exchange said that it was the purpose of the Exchange to co-operate in every way with Government officials, and he promptly appointed a committee to go to Washington to confer with Mr. Hoover.

Business was stopped at about 1:40 P. M., and prices then current will be used as the basis of settlement for outstanding contracts. The suspension of sugar trading came as a climax to a long period of advancing prices, in which raw sugars have climbed from about 2 9-32 cents per pound, cost and freight, at the outbreak of the war, to 6¾ cents last week, the highest price on record. The price of granulated sugar has jumped from about 4½ cents a pound in 1914 to 9.15 cents at the present time quoted by one refiner, with others asking 8.40 cents.

"As you are aware," wrote Mr. Hoover, "the decreased production of sugar in France and Itay and the isolation of England from its usual Continental supplies has thrust those countries into the markets from which we also must draw our supplies. The consequence of an undersupply is to stimulate speculation and the function of dealings in futures in normal times toward stabilization of prices is largely lost and such dealings operate as the means to inflate prices.

"Under the circumstances it seems to me desirable to ask the Exchange if it will not assist the economic solution by suspending all dealings in sugar futures and by limiting itself to cash transactions and further establishing such self-regulation as will limit these dealings solely to actual producers and buyers of sugar for their own requirements."

Among brokers in the Street the closing of the sugar futures market was regarded with satisfaction, although it was admitted that it might result in higher prices, as with hedging facilities operators have frequently been able to undersell Cuban planters in the local market. Ever since the establishment of the business in sugar futures on the Coffee Exchange, many of the raw sugar brokers have shown antagonism to the futures market, but this opposition of some members of the trade was said to have nothing to do with the action taken, the suspension of trading being entirely a war measure.

It was asserted that present high prices were the legitimate result of a number of bullish factors in the sugar trade, one of the most prominent of which was the weekly shipment to England of a large quantity of Cuban raw sugar. It is estimated that there are some 250,000 tons of sugar now in Cuba awaiting shipment to Europe. Owing to the revolution early in the season, estimates of the Cuban crop were cut from 3,300,000 tons to about 3,000,000 tons. The stocks of raw sugars at Atlantic seaports on Aug. 8 were estimated at 176,791 tons, or approximately 120,000 tons less than last year, while consumption for the first half of the year 1917 increased 10 per cent. over last year, when, for the entire year, 3,658,609 tons were consumed.

Taking the figures published by Willett & Gray, the total stock in Cuba and the United States aggregates 653,553 tons, including the 250,000 tons in Cuba awaiting shipment to Europe. Estimating a balance of production of say 125,000 tons to approximate a total crop year of 3,000,000 tons, from which about 85,000 tons should be deducted for local consumption during the year, would leave 40,000 tons of Cubas yet in sight to be marketed, or a total of 443,553 tons available for refiners' meltings. To this can be added about 25,000 tons Porto Ricos and 50,000 tons of other sugars, a total of 518,553 tons remaining to be melted. With Atlantic port meltings, including New Orleans, averaging about 80,000 tons a week, would give only about six to seven weeks' supply.

The beet crop will be available by the end of October and will care for the West and Middle West, but the new Cuban crop will not be on the market much before the end of the year. It is estimated, however, that Java has a large supply available if there were ships to bring it forward.

Hoarding by housewives and abnormally large canning requirements have also contributed to the advance in sugar.

President Lawrence announced the appointment of a Quotation Committee, consisting of Messrs. Hopkins, Schierenberg, Mayer and Hess, which will assist members in liquidating their outstanding contracts. This committee will meet between 11 A. M. and noon, and between 1 P. M. and 2 P. M., daily except Saturdays. The following prices have been fixed for evening up outstanding contracts: August, 6.28c; September, 6.18c; October, 5.98c; November, 5.73c; December, 5.38c; January, 4.98c; February, 4.80c; March, 4.80c; April, 4.82c; May, 4.84c; June, 4.86c, and July, 4.88c.

It was said that it was not compulsory to settle up contracts now, but if settlement were made it must be in accordance with this schedule. No new contracts will be allowed.

COTTON DECLINES

The cotton market yesterday showed considerable strength, due to the more numerous crop complaints, bullish spot advices, and a disposition in some quarters to take rather a more serious view of peace prospects. Advances were followed, however, by a very severe break in the late trading, and sentiment seemed to be nervous and unsettled, following the announcement that trading in sugar futures had been temporarily suspended. The talk around the ring traced no connection between this action and the cotton market, and it was pointed out that cotton was not among the commodities mentioned in the Food Control bill. Nevertheless, the unexpected news evidently stimulated liquidation, and there was a break from 25.23 to 24.60 for December contracts, or at a decline of practically $3 per bale. That delivery closed at 24.70, with the general list closing steady at a net decline of 27 to 37 points.

The market opened at a decline of 3 to 7 points, under overnight selling orders, but, after some early irregularity, turned firmer on trade buying and covering. There were crop complaints from districts further north in Texas than previously, and scattering complaints from the Eastern belt were more numerous. The detailed weather reports, showing no rain in the droughty sections and more rain than considered desirable in some sections east of the river, served to color these reports. Another feature was the comparative scarcity of October contracts and reports that exporters were paying a very high basis for spots in the Southwest. After showing a net advance of 18 to 25 points, the market hesitated, and early buyers liquidated on the afternoon decline, which carried prices 85 to 90 points net lower. The close was a shade up from the lowest, on covering.

English and Japanese interests were reported to be buyers for both spots and early new crop shipment in the Southwest, and there were reports of domestic mill buying in the Eastern belt. The demand seemed sufficient to absorb all immediate offerings, but bearish sentiment as to the effect of increasing new crop receipts was still very much in evidence even while prices were advancing.

Exports for the day were 3,272 bales, making 147,302 so far this season, against 201,022 last year.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The wheat market was again unsettled owing to efforts to adjust conditions to the new Government control. Prices for September contracts in Chicago remained unchanged at $2.00; cash wheat in Minneapolis showed a further break of 30c to 35c, while in Kansas City prices for the cash article were unchanged to 3c higher. Agents will be located in the leading cities, and purchases will be made from any one who has wheat to offer, including brokers as well as producers. After the price is fixed by the committee appointed for that purpose, the law will be strictly enforced and no deviation will be allowed. In the local cash market No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at $2.32, and No. 2 hard Winter at $2.49 nominal, cost, insurance and freight, New York export.

CORN.

The action of wheat, together with the peace rumors and favorable crop accounts, have created more bearish sentiment in the corn market and as a result prices developed weakness during yesterday's session, closing 1⅝ to 1½c net lower. The trade was rather inclined to take a more bearish view of the new crop cash position, however, and this feeling was intensified by a report from St. Louis to the effect that new-crop corn was being offered there at $1.28 for October shipment. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow was quoted at $2.07 and No. 2 mixed at $2.05, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The oats market was weak and lower, closing with net losses of 2c to 2⅜c. The action of corn had a sympathetic influence, and the increased receipts at Western points has brought about more hedging pressure against the new crop. Exporters were again in the market for prompt delivery and sales were reported of about 300,000 bushels. The local cash market was weak; standard quoted at 75½@76c; No. 2 white, 76@76½c; No. 3 white, 75@75½c; No. 4 white, 73½@75c; fancy clipped white, 80c nominal; ordinary clipped white, 75@78c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was only moderately active, but prices early were strong. Hogs showed further gains, and sentiment was apparently influenced by the persistent peace talk. The late decline in corn caused a partial reaction, but prices showed moderate gains. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 10,000 head; estimated for Friday, 10,000 head; Kansas City received 6,000 head and Omaha, 4,900 head.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was nervous and feverish. The situation at large is believed to contain elements of strength which are occasionally manifested in sharp upturns in price. The strength in lard yesterday brought about a sharp early advance, but subsequently prices reacted, and the close was easy at net unchanged to 4 points higher. Sales for the day were 17,900 barrels. COFFEE.

The suspension of trading in sugar futures by request of the food administrator seemed to have a sympathetic influence in the coffee market yesterday. Liquidation of near months had been in evidence before this action was taken, but the selling became a little more active later, with the close showing a net loss of 1 to 8 points. Sales were reported of 23,500 bags. A very moderate demand was reported for spot coffee in the local market, with prices unchanged at 9¼ for Rio 7s and 10¼ for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

The market for sugar futures was quiet during the early trading, and prices moved within a narrow range with sentiment unsettled. After 1 o'clock business was suspended until further notice on request from Mr. Hoover, Food Administrator. Thursday's closing prices are those fixed by the Quotation Committee as a basis for settlement of outstanding contracts. Range of prices.

There was no change in refined sugar prices, although sentiment was unsettled, influenced by the action of the Board of Managers of the Sugar and Coffee Exchange. Prices ranged from 8.40@9.15c for fine granulated. The suspension of operations in sugar futures had a depressing effect in the local raw sugar market and prices were lower, although trading was light, with both buyers and sellers being inclined to hold off and await developments. There were sales of 8,000 bags of Cubas for August shipment to the Federal at 6⅝c cost and freight, equal to 7.39c for centrifugal and 6.51c for molasses.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 9,879 packages. EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 12,176 cases. High quality eggs are still scarce. Mixed and irregular qualities move slowly at a wide range of prices. Rather more demand for storage stock, including some speculative interest. URGE FEDERAL CONTROL OF PRICES FOR COAL

Representatives of Thirteen States Confer on Situation in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Representatives of the Councils of Defense of thirteen Middle Western States at a conference held here today adopted resolutions urging immediate action by the Federal Government in fixing a reasonable price for coal and regulating the distribution of fuel by the railroads in order to relieve the crisis which threatens the country. A copy of the resolutions was telegraphed to President Wilson.

The conference adjourned to meet again in Chicago next Thursday, when the representatives of the different States will report on the cost of coal production at various mines. Indiana has been at work collecting this information for three months, while Illinois and other States have similar investigations in progress. The various States will co-operate in every possible way with President Wilson and the Federal Trade Commission in fixing the price of coal and arranging for its distribution.

The report of the Committee on Resolutions, which was adopted, read in part as follows:

"The production of coal must be stimulated, encouraged, and increased to the utmost capacity of the mines, so that the needs of the people and industries of this country and of our allies may be fully and promptly met. In bringing about this result there must be no interference with the earnings and wages of laborers.

"The price of coal is unreasonably excessive, and in many cases extortionate. Therefore, it is recommended that the Governors and the State Councils in the coal-producing States should immediately proceed, if they have not already done so, with the ascertainment of the approximate cost of producing, handling, and distributing coal to the ultimate consumers, and we recommend that this be done, so that a report can be made to an adjourned meeting of this conference to be held in Chicago on next Thursday, Aug. 23.

"These resolutions are adopted with the single end in view of protecting not merely the people of the coal-producing States but equally the consumers of coal of all other States, it being the design and intention of this conference to avoid all possible discrimination and to take steps for the common good of the entire nation."

FUNDS OUTGROW ANNUITIES.

Surrogate Orders Division of Surplus from Kohler Estate.

Mrs. Olga Florman, wife of Nils Florman, received yesterday from Surrogate Cohalan an award of $150,000, pending a decision on the report of the referee in the matter of distributing the $1,200,000 excess income, the surplus of the trust fund created under the will of her father, Charles M. Kohler, piano manufacturer. Her sisters, the Misses Vera and Rita Kohler, receive each a like amount.

The Kohler will created $25,000 trust fund annuities for the widow and each of the three daughters. To maintain these annuities the executors set aside a trust fund of $881,831 for Mrs. Kohler and $1,182,028 for the daughters. The value of the stocks of the trust increased to such an extent that an excess of more than $1,000,000 has accumulated. The executors applied to the Surrogate for information whether the surplus could be treated as residary estate.

Mrs. Florman seeks a division among the heirs of the surplus from the trust fund. She objected to the accounting by the executors and said that the trust funds were so large that the income was more than sufficient to met the annuities. Mrs. Florman, who is 23 years old, some time ago asked the Surrogate to increase her allowance of $25,000 a year because she could not live on that amount. Her apartment, she told the court, cost $5,000 a year, and besides her cottage at Sands Point cost $2,000 a month each month she maintained it, and that she owed $15,000 on $20,000 worth of furniture. She asked for a lump sum of $300,000, which she declared was due from the estate.

L. I. R. R. STICKS TO ITS RATE

Notifies Service Board Mileage Will Still Be 2 1-4 Cents in City.

The Long Island Railroad Company informed the Public Service Commission yesterday that it would not adhere to a mileage book rate of 2 cents a mile within the city limits. The company contends that an order of the commission of the Second District, having jurisdiction over the lines of the company outside the city, which permitted the company to increase its mileage book rates to 2¼ cents a mile, is binding over the whole system.

The commission for the First District recently notified the company that it should sell mileage books for use within the city at the two-cent rate, declining to approve the company's application for a 2¼ cent rate, pending the decision of the commission upon the general application of the company for increases in mileage and other passenger rates.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

While reactionary in the later dealings, the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange only tended to actual weakness in spots. There was little of fresh news on which to base aggressive trading operations. There was special weakness for a time both in Central Leather and Crucible Steel. The International Mercantile Marine shares were firm for a time, but afterward reacted. United States Steel common was again the most active stock, with its turnover for the day amounting to about 25,000 shares.

BANKRUPTCY SALES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR the Southern District of New York.—In the Matter of JAMES J. FERO, INC., Bankrupt.—In Bankruptcy.—No. 24,800.

Notice is hereby given that personal property belonging to the estate of the above named bankrupt will be sold, under the direction of Arthur F. Gotthold, Trustee, to the highest bidder, at the office of Stanley W. Dexter, Referee, No. 71 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, on the 27th day of August, 1917, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

A general description of the property to be sold is as follows: Stock of goods, wares and merchandise, furniture and fixtures, and the good will of the business situate at No. 792 Seventh Avenue, Borough of Manhattan, New York City; two Ford automobiles in storage; claims and book accounts; certain shares of corporate stock.

Sealed bids for the above described property, assets and effects, as an entirety or for any portion thereof, may be submitted to the Trustee at his office, No. 60 Wall Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, on or before 10 o'clock in the forenoon of August 27, 1917. All bids will be opened by the Trustee at the office of Stanley W. Dexter, Referee, No. 71 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of Aug. 27, 1917. Each bid must be accompanied by certified check or cash for at least ten per cent. the amount thereof.

In the event the said property offered for sale is not sold pursuant to sealed bids as aforesaid, it will be sold at public auction on the premises, No. 792 Seventh Avenue, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, by Charles Shongood, Auctioneer, on Aug. 31st, 1917, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon.

The Trustee reserves the right to reject any and all bids, to withhold from sale any part of said estate, to sell the whole or any part thereof as in his discretion may seem for the best interests of the estate, and to withdraw from sale any of said property unless it shall bring at least 75 per cent. of the appraised value.

Dated, New York, Aug. 16, 1917.

STANLEY W. DEXTER,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

George Peabody Wetmore, former Senator from Rhode Island, who purchased on Wednesday the northeast corner of Pearl and Cedar Streets, added to his holdings in that locality by acquiring yesterday the two adjoining parcels at 1 Cedar Street and 191 Pearl Street, respectively. They were purchased from Harvey N. Weed, through the firm of Leonard J. Carpenter. The corner parcel, being 187 and 189 Pearl Street, was bought from Samuel P. Tull through Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd.

Senator Wetmore owned the parcels at 193 and 195 Pearl Street and 102 and 104 Maiden Lane, surrounding the Maiden Lane corner. He now controls the block front on Pearl Street, between Cedar Street and Maiden Lane, with the exception of the small corner at the latter thoroughfare. His properties front 99 feet on Pearl Street, 93.4 on Cedar Street, and 84.6 on Maiden Lane, an area of about 13,000 square feet. The sale of the two Weed holdings marks their first transfer from the family in over 100 years. The father of the present seller conducted a grocery store there seventy-five years ago.

Private Dwelling Sales.

Albert B. Ashforth in conjunction with H. C. Ward sold for Mrs. C. F. Cook the brownstone dwelling at 154 East Thirty-seventh Street. The buyer will occupy the property.

Ennis & Sinnott, operators, resold the three-story dwelling at 38 West Nineteenth Street to Dr. Lewis Hintzman, taking in exchange the four-story dwelling at 112 West Seventy-eighth Street, on a lot 16.8 by 102.2. The sellers purchased the property Tuesday. Phillip Jeselson negotiated the exchange.

Deal on Monroe Street.

The Anthony Avenue Realty Company, recently organized, with Samuel Sussman, Morris Heller, and Harry Meyer as Directors, purchased from Peter J. White 171 Monroe Street, a six-story building, with store, on a lot 22.10 by 100, located near Montgomery Street.

Tenement Buyers.

Kurz & Uren, Inc., sold for Ruhl Real Property Company, the five-story tenement 218 East 117th Street, near Third Avenue, to an investor for cash.

Recent Buyers.

Herbert C. Plass is the buyer of The Rockeclyffe, the seven-story apartment house on the southeast corner of Broadway and 141st Street, and the adjoining house, 572 West 141st Street, sold Wednesday.

William P. Maloney is the buyer of the dwelling 83 Riverside Drive, sold last week by the Harrison B. Moore estate.

Bronx Sales.

A. D. Phelps & Damiane sold for Mrs. Elterich a plot on the south side, of 149th Street, 175 feet west of Courtlandt Avenue, 50 by 86.5, known as 334 and 336 East 149th Street. The property has been held in the family for the last thirty years. The purchaser contemplates the erection of a three-story business building for automobile purposes.

Queens Borough Sales.

G. Ebert sold to J. Vogel a plot, 160 by 100 feet, on the north side of Horton Street, 90 feet east of Campion Avenue, Jamaica.

J. Franklin sold to F. Gordy a plot, 33 by 125 feet, on the east side of Linden Avenue, 50 feet south of Park Avenue, Flushing.

The Jamaica Hillcrest Company sold to P. M. Scott the single-family dwelling, on a plot 40 by 100 feet, on the south side of Briarwood Road, 100 feet west of Hilldale Avenue, Jamaica.

Rawdon W. Kellogg, as referee, sold to K. B. Boldin 75 by 75 feet on the west side of Storm Avenue, 800 feet south of Lincoln Terrace, Arverne.

H. W. Kinn sold four lots to the Keiner-Williams Stamping Company, adjoining its present property at Richmond Hill.

Westchester County.

Edward C. Griffin and P. H. Collins sold for John Neilson his house and grounds on Magnolia Avenue, Larchmont, N. Y., to Mrs. Emily Louise Johnston.

The Robert E. Farley Organization sold a house on Wickes Avenue in the Nepperhan Heights section of Yonkers, N. Y., for Crandle & Henderson of Yonkers to C. D. Rodgers of New York.

Big Mortgage Loans Placed.

William A. White & Sons have placed the following loans: $300,000 for the Lefcourt Realty Company on the twelve-story loft building at 42-46 West Thirty-eighth Street; $14,000 on the four-story building at 316 Washington Street, $83,000 on the ten-story building at 16 East Eighteenth Street, $200,000 on the twelve-story apartment house at the southeast corner of Fifty-seventh Street and Park Avenue, $40,000 on 68 and 70 Wooster Street, $50,000 building and permanent loan to erect a three-story garage at 533-535 West Twenty-seventh Street and 534 and 536 West Twenty-eighth Street, $19,000 on 111 Bowery, $23,000 on 103 East Thirty-ninth Street, building loan of $262,500 to erect a sixteen-story bachelor hotel at 141 to 147 East Thirty-ninth Street, and $50,000 on the eight-story loft building, at 511 and 513 West Forty-second Street. The firm has placed over $5,000,000 since Jan. 1.

Commercial Leases.

Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd have leased the building at 217 Front Street to Russell's Express, Inc., and have sublet the building for them on extended lease for a number of years with the owner, Adele Kneeland, to Bassman & Oislander, now at 147 Maiden Lane.

Schindler & Liebler have leased a store at 1,357 Third Avenue to the Novelty Art Works, Alexander Orszag, proprietor, and the parlor floor at 219 East Seventy-ninth Street to the Women's City Club, to be used as a maternity clinic.

Realty Board Protests Against Food Bill Provision.

The Real Estate Board of the City of New York has filed a protest with Governor Whitman against the section of the Food Control bill which provides that terminal markets and warehouses erected in the various municipalities shall be financed in part by the State through a direct tax, the effect of which would be to saddle on New York City a large expenditure for warehouses erected in other cities.

Realty Notes.

H. S. Black's Garage Company, Inc., is the lessee of the new garage building being erected at 237 to 247 East Sixty-third Street. The lease, which is for twenty-one years, was negotiated by S. Osgood Pell & Co.

The Seventy-seventh Street Realty Corporation has been formed to take over the stable property at 219 to 223 West Seventy-seventh Street, owned by the Jay estate, which filed plans recently for alterations to cost $70,000.

Times Building
Times Square

THE short spur connecting the Subway station in the Times Building with the Pennsylvania depot and the approaching completion of the Subway system increases the importance of the Times Square district as a business centre. As rents will be advancing, professional and business men will find it advantageous to inspect the Times Building without delay. The entire twenty-second floor is vacant and it will be rented as a whole, or it will be subdivided to suit tenants. Natural light on four sides. On the 20th floor is a space 18x20 to be had at a moderate rental. Perfect light on two sides. On the 10th floor is a spacious room to be rented for $1,000 a year which cannot be equaled in the City for equipment, light, surroundings—or price. Building open day and night—continuous elevator service.

LEGAL NOTICES.

AT A STATED TERM OF THE UNITED States District Court, held in and for the Southern District of New York, at the Post Office Building, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 8th day of August, 1917. Present: Hon. Martin T. Manton, District Judge.—In the matter of KENNEDY, MITCHELL & CO., INC., Alleged Bankrupt.

It appearing to my satisfaction from the petition of Daniel W. Blumenthal, duly verified the 8th day of August, 1917, that a petition was filed in this court on the 12th day of June, 1917, praying that the above named Kennedy, Mitchell & Co., Inc., be adjudged an involuntary bankrupt, and that a subpoena directed to said alleged bankrupt was duly issued out of this Court on the 12th day of June, 1917, and that an alias subpoena was thereafter duly issued by the Clerk of this Court, returnable the 27th day of June, 1917, to the Marshal of this District, and that thereafter pluries subpoenaes were issued, the last of which was returnable on the 18th day of July, 1917, and that the said Marshal has been unable to serve the same upon the alleged bankrupt, or any officer thereof, and that said alleged bankrupt is not now within this District, so that personal service may be made upon it, or any of its officers, and that diligent efforts have since been made to ascertain the whereabouts of the said alleged bankrupt, or its officers, but that they have not been found within the jurisdiction of this Court, it is,

ON MOTION of Morris B. & Daniel W. Blumenthal, attorneys for the petitioning creditors,

ORDERED that the above named alleged bankrupt plead or answer on or before the 27th day of August, 1917, to the petition herein filed in the office of the Clerk of this Court on the 12th day of June, 1917; and in case of its failure to plead or answer thereto, adjudication shall be made against it according to the prayer of said petition, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that this order be published in The New York Times once a week for two successive weeks, said publication to commence not later than the 10th day of August, 1917, and that a copy of this order be mailed to the said alleged bankrupt, Kennedy, Mitchell & Co., Inc., at its last known place of business, to wit, No. 35 Wall Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on or before the date of the first publication, and that a copy of this order be also mailed to Hewitt S. West, the Secretary Treasurer of the alleged bankrupt, at his last known address, care of The Antilles Express Co., No. 59 Pearl Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York.

MANTON, U. S. D. J.

REFEREES' SALE.

In pursuance of an interlocutory judgment of partition and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action and bearing date the 6th day of August, 1917, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, No. 14-16 Vesey St., in the Borough of Manhattan, City and County of New York, on the 7th day of September, 1917, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Joseph P. Day, Auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows: ALL that certain piece or parcel of land with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, in the County and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point on the easterly side of Suffolk Street, distant one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet and five (5) inches northerly from the corner formed by the intersection of the northerly side of Hester Street with the easterly side of Suffolk Street; running thence easterly, and parallel with Hester Street, one hundred (100) feet; thence northerly, and parallel with Suffolk Street, twenty-five (25) feet; thence westerly, and parallel with Hester Street, one hundred (100) feet; thence southerly, along the easterly side of Suffolk Street, twenty-five (25) feet to the point or place of beginning.

Dated, New York, August 11, 1917.

The commission announces for Aug. 21 an examination for investigator in accounting and office management, for men only. One or more vacancies in Bureau of Efficiency, Washington, D. C., at $2,000 to $3,000 a year, will be filled from this examination. It will be the duty of the appointee to investigate the work of the various Government bureaus and offices, to devise and demonstrate improvements in their organization and procedure, and to assist, when required, in introducing such improvements. Persons qualified primarily in accounting or primarily in office management may be chosen from the register of eligibles resulting from this examination, as the needs of the bureau may require from time to time. Persons specially qualified for particular branches of accounting or office management, as selection of employes, storekeeping, cost accounting, auditing, or the like, may also be chosen from this register. Competitors will not be required to report for written examination at any place, but will be rated on education and experience. Applicants must show that they have had at least two years' responsible practical experience in accounting as head bookkeeper supervising two or more bookkeepers, as examiner of accounts, or as public accountant; or at least two years' experience as office manager. Applicants whose only experience is as routing bookkeeper, statistical clerk, office work, or in similar position, will not be admitted to this examination. Applicants must not have reached their forty-fifth birthday on the date of the examination. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

Education Notes.

Studies will be resumed at Manhattan College on Sept. 12.

Director William H. Allen of the Institute for Public Service has asked the editors of educational journals in the United States and Canada to add their appeal to that of the institute that the General Education Board give to the public its report upon the school system at Gary, Ind., before the New York City election on Nov. 6.

The following general assistants for the evening elementary schools have been appointed: Manhattan—Evening School 2, Herman C. Wolf; Evening School 4, Emma E. McDonald; Evening School 18, Florence B. Casey; Evening School 19, Gertrude C. Kennedy.

The Federated Neighborhood Associations of the Public Schools of the Bronx will hold a mass meeting at P. S. 31 at 8 P. M. on Aug. 20 to protest against the duplicate schools.

A series of meetings will be held in the Fall after the schools reopen, to arouse parents to the need for better schools. The Parents' School Betterment League hopes to enlist 200,000 parents in the movement before Oct. 1.

PREDICT DEFEAT OF STATE FOOD BILL

GOVERNOR'S FRIENDS BUSY

Appeal to Powerful Party Influences to Aid His Fight—Legislature Adjourns to Wednesday.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 16.—With legislative activities for the present week ended, some influential Republican lawmakers today expressed the opinion that the extraordinary session would adjourn sine die without enacting any food control legislation whatsoever.

This prediction came from men who were active in the preparation of the War Committee's Food Control bill, which was pronounced by Governor Whitman as framed in the interest of cold storage corporations and middlemen rather than of the consumer, but which later was amended to the satisfaction of the Governor. With the prediction they ventured the opinion that when the Legislature resumed work next week Governor Whitman would find it expedient to abandon his present fight for food control by the State. They expressed the view that even with George W. Perkins eliminated the proposed legislation would fail.

Governor Whitman made no new comment today on the attitude of the lawmakers toward the compromise food control plan, nor has he given any inkling of his intentions. His last word on the subject was uttered yesterday, when he expressed the opinion that the compromise bill would pass at the extra session. Friends of Governor Whitman say that the Governor believes that if the lawmakers balk at his present food control program they will be confronted with the necessity of enacting far more drastic food legislation at the regular session of the Legislature next year.

The Governor is said to be aware by this time that some of the Republican lawmakers who professed themselves most eager to effect a compromise that would avert disaster to food control, in reality were only too anxious that the compromise bill should fail. The Governor is said to feel bitter enough over the treatment he has received at the hands of influential lawmakers in his own party to want to get even, and it is predicted that the next regular session of the Legislature will be marked by anything but peace and harmony on the Republican side.

Senate and Assembly held brief sessions today. Speaker Sweet tried to transact business in the Assembly, where some amendments to the compromise Food Control bill, proposed at yesterday's caucus, were to have been introduced. But there was an entire lack of interest on the part of the few members present. Finally both branches by concurrent resolution took a recess until Wednesday of next week at 3 o'clock.

Speaker Sweet sent his colleagues home with an admonition that they take up food control with the people in their districts and try to convince their rural constituents that the compromise food control plan would work no harm to the farmer. There is no expectation in legislative circles at the Capitol that the instructions of the Speaker will be very zealously carried out or that the rural mind will be changed. The middlemen and cold storage interests have conducted a campaign against food control among the farmers for many months, and the attitude of the rural lawmakers at the caucuses yesterday has convinced the legislative leaders that their propaganda has been most effective.

While Governor Whitman's future food control campaign plans are shrouded in mystery, well-informed persons at the Capitol believe that efforts are under way now with a view to having potential party influences assert themselves to save the Governor from defeat, the first he would have suffered since he assumed his present office.

Appeals, it is known, have been made to County Chairmen and Republican leaders up-State, whose powers reach further than county lines, to come to the support of the Governor in his present fight in the interest of party harmony. To these leaders it has been pointed out that defeat for Governor Whitman at the present time, when he is leading a fight for the consumer, and at the hands of men in his own party, would prove so much grist for the Democratic mill and inevitably come back to plague the Republicans in their gubernatorial campaign next year.

STOP DISTILLING SEPT. 8.

Food Administration Issues Ruling Under New Control Act.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The Food Administration announced today that all processes in the production of distilled spirits for beverage purposes must stop at 11 o'clock on the night of Saturday, Sept. 8. Any effort to construe the law to permit the use, after that time, of wheat, corn, rye, and other materials which had been hoarded, it was made plain, would be met with firm action.

It has been reported that some distillers have bought up tremendous supplies, especially in the corn market, in the hope that they would be permitted to convert the hoarded supplies into distilled spirits after the date set. The Food Administration has received a large number of inquiries along that line and as a result Mr. Hoover decided to put an end to any doubt that may have existed.

The ruling has nothing to do with spirits in bond, which will be considered later by the White House and the Food Administration. As a result of the stand taken, it is understood that a very great supply of corn and other foods which might have been turned into spirits will be diverted to other purposes, because it will be physically impossible for distillers to use all of the stocks in hand in the manufacture of spirits by Sept. 8.

Here is the Food Administration's announcement:

"All processes in the production of distilled spirits for beverage purposes, according to a ruling issued by the United States Food Administration today, must cease at 11 o'clock P. M. on Saturday, Sept. 8. This limitation is placed by Section 15 of the food control law, which reads:

> That from and after thirty days from the date of the approval of this act no foods, fruits, food materials, or feeds shall be used in the production of distilled spirits for beverage purposes.

"The act was approved Aug. 10. The thirty day period named will expire at midnight Sept. 9. As this date falls on Sunday, and as the Internal Revenue laws prevent the operation of distilleries after 11 o'clock at night on Saturday until the following Monday at 1 A. M., it was ruled by the Food Adminitsration that the provisions of Section 15 will become effective at 11 P. M., Saturday, Sept. 8.

"The law contemplates that all steps in the process of distillation shall cease at the point of time indicated in the ruling, it was stated by the Food Administration. So far as the utilization of foods, fruits, and food materials or feeds for the production of distilled spirits for beverage purposes is concerned, the act should be construed as to inhibit the initiation of any step, unless the entire process may be fully completed prior to 11 P. M., of Sept. 8, 1917."

STATE FOOD COMMISSIONERS.

President Approves Appointment of 28 to Assist Hoover.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Appointment of twenty-eight men as Federal Food Commissioners in as many States was approved today by President Wilson. Commissioners for the other States will be selected by the Food Administration within a few days.

The State Commissioners will administer the Food Control bill in so far as it applies to State matters and will coordinate State food activities with those of the Food Administration. All of the men will serve without pay. The list follows:

Alabama—Richard M. Hobbie, Montgomery.
Arizona—Timothy A. Riordan, Flagstaff.
Arkansas—Hamp Williams, Hot Springs.
California—Ralph P. Merritt, San Francisco.
Connecticut—Robert Scoville, Hartford.
Georgia—Dr. Andrew M. Soule, Athens.
Illinois—Harry A. Wheeler, Chicago.
Indiana—Dr. Harry E. Barnhard, Indianapolis.
Iowa—J. F. Deems, Burlington.
Kentucky—Fred M. Sackett, Louisville.
Louisiana—John M. Parker, New Orleans.
Maryland—Edwin G. Baetger, Baltimore.
Massachusetts—Henry B. Endicott, Boston.
Montana—Professor Alfred Atkinson, Bozeman.
Nebraska—Guardon W. Wattles, Omaha.
Nevada—Henry M. Hoyt, Reno.
New Hampshire—Huntley N. Spaulding, Concord.
New Mexico—Ralph C. Ely, Santa Fe.
North Carolina—Henry A. Page, Aberdeen.
Oklahoma—Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, Norman.
Oregon—W. B. Ayer, Portland.
Pennsylvania—Howard Heinz, Philadelphia.
Rhode Island—Alfred M. Coats, Providence.
Utah—W. W. Armstrong, Salt Lake City.
Vermont—James Hartness, Springfield.
Washington—Charles Hebberd, Spokane.
Wisconsin—Magnus Swenson, Madison.
Wyoming—Theodore C. Diers, Sheridan.

"The United States Food Administration desires to announce that in no instance is any individual, manufacturer, or store authorized to exclusively manufacture or distribute the service uniform of the Food Administration. On the other hand, every manufacturer is encouraged to make the uniform, and it is desirable that every retailer arrange for its distribution to members of the Food Administration or those signing Food Administration pledges. Details will be willingly supplied upon application to the United States Food Administration, Washington."

DOVER, Del., Aug. 16.—The Delaware State Department today issued a charter to the Food Administration Grain Corporation, Washington, D. C., capitalization $50,000,000, to encourage production and conserve the supply, control, and distribution of food products. The incorporators included Herbert C. Hoover, Edgard Rickard, and Curtis H. Lindley. The State tax paid with the filing of the charter was $2,600. The United States Government owns all the stock.

Members of Root Mission Disperse.

The members of the special commission to Russia, headed by Elihu Root, yesterday dispersed to their homes. Mr. Root went back to Clinton, N. Y., Major Gen. Hugh L. Scott and most of the other military and naval officers returned to Washington, and most of the other members dispersed. They had been staying at the Plaza during their formal reception here.

ASKS NATION TO EAT PERISHABLE FOODS

Hoover's Aid Says Staples May Then Be Liberated to Supply Our Allies.

PLAN TO REDUCE WASTE

G. Harold Powell Recommends More Liberal Use of Fruits, Vegetables and Fish.

G. Harold Powell of Food Administrator Hoover's staff, speaking yesterday at the second day's convention of the International Apple Shippers' Association, held at the Hotel Astor, emphasized that by enlarging the consumption in the United States of perishable foods the war food problems of this country's allies would be more easily solved. Mr. Powell, who is general manager of the California Fruit Growers' Association, but now on Mr. Hoover's staff, told in detail what this country must do in the way of furnishing the Allies with adequate supplies of foodstuffs, if the war was to be won.

Mr. Powell was introduced to the 1,000 members of the association by E. W. J. Hearty, President.

"The food supplies of our allies have been greatly reduced because the farmers are fighting at the front," Mr. Powell said. "Before the war the food production of the Allies was not equal to their consumption. They secured their surplus requirements from America, Russia, Rumania, South America, India, Australia, and other countries. Now they can no longer obtain their food from most of the outside countries. There is a shortage in man power, in transportation, and there are other difficulties which they cannot surmount. Our allies, therefore, ask America to supply them with the necessaries of life that they may live and fight the battle—our battle as well as their own—for liberty and for democracy.

"America will, of course, supply the Allies with food, but it can be done only by the co-operative, patriotic effort of every individual and every industry by producing abundantly, by handling food products wisely, by reducing the economic wastes in distribution, by simplifying the distributing machinery, by selling at reasonable prices without excessive distribution profits, and by practicing economy and efficient management in the use and handling of food supplies."

Mr. Powell said that the United States must increase its normal exports of wheat from 88,000,000 to 220,000,000 bushels if the Allies were to be properly fed. This, he said, could be done by reducing the use of wheat here one pound per person per week and by the substitution of other foods. He pointed out that the food animals of the Allies had decreased 33,000,000 head since the start of hostilities, while the needs of the armies in the field increased the consumption abroad. "If we will save one ounce of meat per person per day the Allies can have what they need," the speaker said.

Mr. Powell said that in the readjustment of the world's food supply perishable foods were suddenly thrown into national prominence and afforded a great opportunity for development. He insisted that the increased use of perishable foods and substitution for other foods would liberate an exportable surplus of the more concentrated foods for our allies. Therefore, the food administration will encourage a greater consumption of perishable products, such as fruits, vegetables, fish, poultry, and eggs, as a means of sending the Allies more of the foods they must have to maintain their people at home and their armies in the field.

In conclusion, Mr. Powell said the broad powers of regulation and control conferred upon the food administration would have to be used only against a few recalcitrant individuals "who are a discredit and detriment to the industries in which they are engaged."

Last night the members and their wives attended the annual dinner of the association in the grand ballroom of the Astor. President Hearty presided as toastmaster, the speakers including Major Charles W. Gordon and Job E. Hedges. The convention will end today.

REBUKES COAL OPERATORS.

Pomerene Answers Their Protest to His Proposal to Regulate Prices.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Senator Pomerene of Ohio wrote a letter of rebuke today to a group of coal operators of Kentucky who had sent him a telegram protesting against his amendment in the Food Administration bill, by which authority was given the President to fix prices for coal and coke and to take over coal mines if war exigency demanded. In their telegram the operators declared that the Pomerene amendment was "unfair, unjust, discriminatory, and ruinous to the coal industry."

"Congress has not questioned the price of steel, copper, lumber, and other commodities that have to be used in the mining of coal," read the telegram of the operators. "It has boosted the price of flour to $15 a barrel. The steel industry, power interest, railroads, all have been given special privileges, and are now demanding the control of coal. We demand equal justice from Congress and that no preference be shown to these great industries. All these commodities have advanced 300 per cent. Why do you not attempt handling all these matters?"

In his reply Senator Pomerene wrote:

"Your telegram, reduced to its final analysis, means this: The iron and steel men are burglarizing the people on the other side of the street, and, therefore, you demand the privilege of doing the same thing on your side of the street. I commend you to the recent utterance by the President on the subject of patriotism and profit. If you had been half as much interested in the general legislation here at Washington as you were in charging your neighbors exorbitant rates for the coal you were producing, you would have discovered that there was a movement on foot to take similar action with respect to iron and steel, and I have a bill on this subject pending, which I hope to have passed.

"I am not concerned as to whether my course meets with your approval or not, and while I do not know twenty-five people in the city of Louisville, I am convinced that every man, woman, and child in that city indorses my position, save and except yourselves and those like you who think they have a right to prey upon the public and charge them according to their necessities rather than what is a fair and reasonable price. I happen to know that the coal operators who believe in living and letting live indorse this legislation, even though you do not."

OFFICER FOUND SHOT DEAD.

Major Billingslea Victim of Accident, Military Committee Decides.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 16.—Major Charles C. Billingslea, United States Medical Examiner at Camp Meade, Md., was found shot to death at noon today in his room at headquarters. His service revolver was found lying near the body. A committee of five officers, headed by Colonel Klein of the Tenth New York Infantry, decided the shooting was accidental. Major Billingslea only recently was breveted Lieutenant Colonel.

Members of the Tenth New York Infantry, now stationed at the camp under command of Colonel Klein, had noted that within the last week the Major had seemed at times preoccupied. He received a number of letters this morning and repaired to his quarters.

Major Billingslea had been at the cantonment site since a day or two after the departure of the Johns Hopkins Hospital Unit for France. He had been stationed in the Philippines, and had been ordered to accompany the Baltimore base to its training camp abroad. He reached the port of departure about twelve hours behind time, and was then dispatched to Camp Meade in the capacity of expert on sanitation, and medical examiner. Major Billingslea comes from a prominent Maryland family, widely spread over Carroll County.

HORSES KNEW THE UNIFORM

Animals, Panic-Stricken in Fire, Followed Policeman to Safety.

The rescue of sixty-five panic-stricken horses from the livery stable of Jacob Witkin, 65 and 67 Rutgers Place, which was swept by fire last night, was attributed by Policeman August Seidenbaden to the fact that his uniform was recognized and trusted by two former police horses in the stable.

When Seidenbaden had reached the stable the fire had worked downward from the top floor to the ground floor, and John Wilson, a watchman, was trying vainly to get the horses out. Seidenbaden recognized two former police horses and walked up to them. He said he knew that they recognized his uniform, and when he led one of them willingly from the stable the other followed, and behind them the other horses. Seidenbaden said that a year ago there was a fire in the same stable, and that he saved the horses then with the aid of a former police horse which recognized his uniform.

SENTENCE DRUG WOMAN.

Relative of Murderer Shillitani Sent to Penitentiary.

Mrs. Axelina Shillitani, 50 years old, of 241 Mulberry Street, convicted of selling heroin, was sentenced to the penitentiary yesterday by Justices Freschi, Herman, and McInerney in Special Sessions for an indeterminate period, which ranges from six months to three years. The woman is a relative of Orestes Shillitani, known as the "Paper Box Kid," who was sent to the deathhouse at Sing Sing after two murders, and there murdered a keeper a short time before his execution.

John Zeck, who had been a drug addict and was cured in the sanitarium conducted by the State, Warwick Hall, and assisted the police afterward in getting evidence against drug sellers, furnished the testimony that convicted the woman. Zeck said she had supplied him with narcotics for three years.

Suffrage Bill in Porto Rico.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 16.—Bills providing for woman suffrage and the establishment in the island of the Torrens system of land titles were among the measures introduced at the first sitting of the Senate. The Legislature now in session in Porto Rico is the first to be wholly elected by the people of the island.

LA PAZ, Aug. 16.—José Gutierrez, ex-Minister of War, was inaugurated President of Bolivia yesterday.

When a drill bored into a stick of dynamite the resulting explosion injured four men and did considerable damage in the new connecting cut of the Interborough-Steinway tubes at Forty-first Street and Park Avenue yesterday morning. The injured men were Thomas Mazzic of 379 Oakland Avenue, Brooklyn, internal injuries and left leg almost severed; Patrick Peace of 763 Third Avenue, head and body cut, Patrick Naughton, 636 Third Avenue, contusions and lacerations, and Thomas Brown, 109 Fourth Avenue, cuts about the body.

After a blast the four men climbed into the cut to clear away the rock. Mazzic began boring into one of the drill holes. The hole contained a stick of dynamite which had failed to explode. When it did explode it threw the four men out of the excavation. Mazzic and Peace were taken to the Flower Hospital.

Brown, who was the foreman, was arrested on a charge of negligence. Arraigned later in Yorkville Court, he was discharged by Magistrate Corrigan.

WILL ASSIST PRISONERS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Arrangements are being completed for the establishment in Berne, Switzerland, of the American Prisoners' Central Committee, which will have charge of the work of ameliorating the condition of prisoners of war who are citizens of the United States or have been taken from vessels flying the American flag. It is estimated that there are now about 100 Americans held as prisoners of war in Germany, most of them members of the crews of armed merchant vessels. The central committee is being organized on a scale that will enable it to care for an unlimited number.

This committee will co-operate with the American Legation in Berne, and the American Red Cross. It will see that clothing, delicacies and toilet articles are forwarded to the American prisoners.

SHOT IN DISPUTE OVER WAR.

Staten Island German Accused of Wounding a Russian.

As a result of an argument on the war with a German neighbor, Louis Sznteski, a Russian Pole of 262 Jersey Avenue, New Brighton, S. I., is in the Staten Island Hospital suffering from a double-barreled charge of bird shot which shattered the lower part of his spine. The doctors do not expect him to live.

According to neighbors, Sznteski was in the dooryard of Charles Wagner at 10 Tenth Street arguing with him about the war. Then the Russian turned away. Wagner got a double-barreled shotgun, and, it is alleged, fired both barrels into the retreating Sznteski. The injured man was taken to the Staten Island Hospital and Wagner was arrested.

HELD IN RACE RIOT CASE.

East St. Louis Grand Jury Indicts 105, Including Several Policemen.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Aug. 16.—Police officers and a prominent politician were among the men arrested today on charges varying from rioting to murder in connection with the race riots here in July, in which more than 100 white persons and negroes were killed. Of 105 persons indicted by the Grand Jury 39 have been taken into custody, 30 of whom are white men. The indictments were returned against 82 white men and 23 negroes.

Five policemen on duty at the time of the strike were arrested. Thomas Benton, for many years a leader in county politics, also was arrested on a charge of assault to kill. He is the owner of two saloons and has been a candidate for Sheriff.

Why Risk a Baggage Loss?

At very little cost you can insure your baggage against theft, hotel fires, accidents, losses in transportation, etc. It covers the personal effects of yourself and family while away from home, at the office, golf or country club, at school or college, etc., and while traveling for business or pleasure.

The summer travel season is the time of greatest danger to baggage—numerous losses are bound to occur.

Remember your chance of loss is just as great on a day's trip as it is on a long tour, so safeguard yourself with a NORTH AMERICA baggage policy.

Rinex Soles are not rubber, but are waterproof. They are tougher and more flexible than leather, but cost no more.

You will find Rinex Soles the most comfortable, longest wearing, most economical and satisfactory shoe-soles you have ever worn.

—Wallach Bros.

Yes—we have said this before.

But never in all the years we've been serving New York men has the phrase meant so much.

Yet because of the greatly increased cost of blue serges we have never offered suits that showed greater value for their prices, $20, $22.50, $25 and up to $40.

As for our fancy suits—reduced now to clear—remember

Every Hart Schaffner & Marx Fancy Suit Is Reduced

Prices $19.50, $22.50, $25, $27.50, $32.50, $38.50
